This volume is not made up of my own words. There is no original commentary

here, no narrative, no analysis. This is simply me copying and pasting large chunks of text from my bookmarks—pages that were easy to extract, with no

hyperlinks or formatting issues, saved from open tabs and archived corners of the web.

It's messy. It's unfiltered. It's chaotic. But it's valuable.

Each piece inside this volume was bookmarked for a reason. Not always because I agreed with it, but because it felt like a fragment of something larger—an insight, a worldview, a download. This is source material, plain and raw.

Fragmenta Ex Machina isn't about authorship. It's about preservation and system-building. It's about feeding the machine—laying bricks for the Operating System I'm constructing across these books. This is the phase. The memory dump. The zero layer.

Later volumes will be cleaner, more refined, more structured. But this? This is the foundation. The ether stream, bound and frozen before it vanished.

So if you're looking for polished prose, skip this one. But if you're here to explore the roots of something much bigger, this is where the signal begins.

Welcome to the fragments.

knowledge telepathically. The Moon rules over indigo. Indigo is of the element of the quintessence/ether/spirit. Indigo, along with the colors of silver and white, rules the third eye and the sixth chakra.

Orange

Creativity, enthusiasm, energy, stamina, and is a powerful color of major changes. Orange helps with adaptability, attraction, sudden changes, stimulation, enthusiasm, creativity, energy, gaining control, changing luck, and inciting justice. The Sun rules orange. Orange rules the creative/sexual chakra (2nd) and is of the element of fire.

Purple

Psychic ability, wisdom, divination, removing curses, healing, psychic work, business success, influence people in power. Powerful color with energies that can be difficult to handle. It can be used when applied to others to incite idealism and influencing people who have power over you. Jupiter rules purple. Purple rules the crown chakra.

Black Magick: Inciting sadness and treachery in others; inciting tyranny and abuse of power.

Red

Energy, passion, inflammation, lust, strength. Protects against psychic attack. Mars rules red: revenge, anger, pure sexual lust and physical gratification, courage, determination, dealing with enemies. Red can also be used for self-confidence, athletics, strength, creating magickal energy for black magick (good for self-empowerment before workings of black magick), and inducing intensity. Incites lust, energy, strength, sexual energy, dynamism, passionate love, physical desire, courage, willpower, athletics (especially competitive), and vitality. Mars rules red. Red is of the element of fire. Both the colors red and black rule the root chakra.

Black Magick: Revenge, anger, inciting accidents, fires, and injuries; red as opposed to black brings on sudden attacks, accidents, bloodshed, violence, and hatred. Red can also be used to incite wars, anarchy, and cruelty.

Silver

Develops psychic abilities, neutralizes situations, repels destructive forces, and works with female deity powers. The Moon rules the color silver: the home and immediate surroundings, imagination, memory, psychic awareness/dreams, spirituality, and meditation. For psychic-related, meditative/hypnotic. The Moon rules silver. Silver rules the third eye.

White

All purpose, balances the aura as all color emanates from white light. Energizing, protective, stimulating, inspiring, destroys destructive energies, and cleans the aura. Cleansing, purity, and innocence. Provides protection when applied to others and directed. The Moon rules white. White rules the third eye, along with indigo and silver.

Black Magick: White can be used to incite corruption, bring impotence, and destroy the sex drive. White can also be used to create weakness, neurosis, and fear.

Yellow

Yellow is the color of intellect, computers, communication, audio, video, TV, electronics, books, and literature. Yellow rules the solar chakra of the will. Ruled by the planet Mercury: yellow can be used for passing exams, improving the mind, for deeper concentration, mental power, learning ability, speech, writing, publishing, media concerns, gossip, slander, interviews, brothers, sisters, neighbors, rumors, theft, all areas of study and communication. Also, astral projection, overcoming addictions, and breaking habits. Good for friendship, imagination, creativity (orange is more powerful for creativity), inspiration, and charisma.

Yellow is of the element of air. Yellow rules the solar plexus chakra.

Black Magick: Gossip, slander, theft; used to incite infidelity, cowardliness, decay, disease, dying, insanity, and inconsistency in others.

Gray

NEVER USE GREY ON YOURSELF! Grey is the color of illness and bad energy.

It can be used to induce death, illness, and/or to incite mourning and sadness. Grey, applied repeatedly to the aura of a hated one, can bring about a slow death if programmed to do so.

Pythagoras
Master of the Seers

image of Pythagoras

Pythagoras is the father of mathematics and philosophy, whose exalted name has passed down through history as a legendary figure. He established titanic institutions of major importance in Antiquity, which were key centers of learning, religious instruction, and advancement. It was in large part due to Pythagoras that the Greek colonial cities in Southern Italy briefly became the most powerful, wealthy, and cultured parts of the Hellenic world, but the persecution of his followers soon ended this.

Becoming legendary centuries later, he was so esteemed in Antiquity that philosophers would simply refer to Pythagoras as “he” or “him.”

LONG-HAIRED SAMIAN

He was born on Samos, a Greek island in the Aegean. It is known that Pythagoras associated in his youth with the philosophers Thales of Miletus and Bias of Priene. Pherecydes the Syrian was his tutor in boyhood, whom Pythagoras is known to have cared for in his senior years. From these wise men, he learned the finer details of the sciences and the laws. The miraculous levels of knowledge he exhibited far surpassed known extents, to the point that the phrase “long-haired Samian” remained a descriptor of any wise individual for millennia.

Further travels ensued in the rest of Greece, Egypt, and Mesopotamia. Due to the beloved nature of Pythagoras, he was quickly recognized as a Demon and disciple of Azazel even during his early lifetime. Pilgrimages were made to Samos simply to be in his presence, though he was known to be taciturn.

THE CROTON EXPERIMENT

Chafing under the tyrannical government of Samos, Pythagoras departed for Croton (modern Crotone), a city of Greek colonists in the modern province of Calabria, Italy. This was becoming one of the largest cities of the Greek world and was known for its prowess in athletics, learning, and medicine. However, it was plagued by civic problems and struggles with wars against aggressive neighbors, such as the city of Sybaris.

He soon set out to build a great school and institution in the city. To join the school, however, was no easy feat. Prospective followers would have to wait years for an audience with him, and in between, learn the virtues of silence. It was a selective and rigorous process, underlined by the ambition of Pythagoras to prove that any group could be turned over to the Gods if subjected to a careful process.

Once admitted, he taught his followers to practice oversight and understand their own motivations, using certain techniques that led them to perceive the “divine eye,” as Iamblichus states. Intelligence and soul were shared by all animals, but mindfulness was something uniquely human. The great teacher thus instructed people to go inward to know themselves through meditative practices, and to curb extreme behaviors, remaking them as beings. This was necessary to resolve many of Croton’s problems, which stemmed from excess rather than deficiency.

For the Pythagoreans, numbers were considered sacred and edifying principles of the cosmos, hinting at its many mysteries. Understanding numbers led not only to the Pythagorean theorem, complex properties of shape, and other discoveries, but more broadly to the belief that everything in existence could be understood through numerical relationships. Pythagoras himself was credited with the “perfection” of the study of geometry, a pathway to the occult.

They also made copious use of maxims and symbols. Certain precepts that sound strange to us were coded phrases that held extremely complex meanings within the organization, later leading to misunderstandings even in Antiquity about the true nature of their teachings:

Ἦθελε δ’ αὐτῷ τὸ μὲν πῦρ μαχαίρα μὴ σκαλεύειν δυναστῶν ὀργὴν καὶ οἰδοῦντα θυμὸν μὴ κινεῖν. τὸ δὲ ζυγὸν μὴ ὑπερβαίνειν, τούτεστι τὸ ἴσον καὶ δίκαιον μὴ ὑπερβαίνειν. ἐπὶ τε χοίνικος μὴ καθίζειν ἐν ἴσῳ τοῦ ἐνεστώτος φροντίδα ποιεῖσθαι καὶ τοῦ μέλλοντος· ἡ γὰρ χοῖνιξ ἡμερησία τροφή. διὰ δὲ τοῦ καρδία μὴ ἐσθίειν ἐδήλου μὴ τὴν ψυχὴν ἀνίαις καὶ λύπαις κατατρέπει. διὰ δὲ τοῦ εἰς ἀποδημίαν βαδίζοντα μὴ ἐπιστρέφεσθαι παρήνει τοῖς ἀπαλλακτομένοις τοῦ βίου μὴ ἐπιθυμητικῶς ἔχειν τοῦ ζῆν μηδ’ ὑπὸ τῶν ἐνταῦθα ἡδονῶν ἐπάγεσθαι. καὶ τὰ ἄλλα πρὸς ταῦτα λοιπὸν ἐστὶν ἐκλαμβάνειν, ἵνα μὴ παρέλκωμεν.

This is what they meant: “Not to stir the fire with a knife”, do not provoke the passions or the swelling pride of the great. “Not to overstep the yoke”, do not exceed the bounds of equity and justice. “Not to sit on the choenix” (a measure of grain), attend equally to both the present and the future, for the choenix represents one’s daily sustenance. “Not eating your heart”, do not waste your life in troubles and sorrows. “Do not turn around when you go abroad”, advise those departing from life not to fix their hearts on living, nor be overly drawn by the pleasures of this world alone. The explanations of the rest are similar and would take too long to recount.¹

The group was under pressure to reveal little.

DISMANTLER OF TYRANTS

Pythagoras also set out to dismantle tyrants. He defied the orders of Dion of Syracuse and Phalaris of Agrigentum, both of whom imprisoned him for a time. The latter attempted to cast doubt on divination and other subjects, dismissing Pythagoras as a con artist. Abaris, a holy man from the north, assisted Pythagoras in this endeavor. The Pythagoreans pressed Phalaris with the transcendental nature of the Gods, rejecting the tyrant's view that humans should behave identically to animals.

Through Apollo's oracle at Delphi, they understood that the tyranny would only end when the inhabitants themselves learned Pythagoras' arguments and ceased enabling the tyrant. This event ultimately undid the tyranny of Phalaris: he attempted to execute Pythagoras and Abaris, but died himself that very day.

In time, the Pythagoreans began to exert a strong influence on the government of Croton, which they used to promote a moderate form of aristocracy. Sybaris, a neighboring city, threatened Croton, demanding the return of prominent individuals fleeing tyranny there. Under the guidance of the divine teacher and the agitation of his followers, Croton resisted and defeated Sybaris, a victory seen as a triumph of disciplined civic virtue over Sybaritic decadence and cowardice.

Croton's resistance to external tyrannical influences subsequently increased. It soon became the leader of a confederation of twenty-five cities in Italy, something not seen again until the rise of Rome many years later.

With Pythagoras absent, however, his followers began to attract bitter resentment from those unhappy with the group's growing influence, particularly men like Cylon, a powerful figure rejected for admission due to his hubris and arrogance. Others chafed at the transformation of their relatives after exposure to Pythagorean teachings and viewed the order with envy. Some took issue with the inclusion of women in high positions. Others feared the Pythagorean critique of democracy.

RESENTMENT

Though adversaries of Pythagoras were aware of his divine nature and cautious not to offend him directly, their hatred of his followers burst like an abscess.

Resentment led to attempted large-scale massacres of the followers. The property of the Pythagoreans was redistributed among democratic loyalists. Within a few decades, the city fell into disrepair and chaos, requiring intervention from the Greek mainland to maintain stability. It was eventually captured by the tyrant Dionysius of Syracuse.

Croton soon decayed into a second-rate city. As a newly founded democracy, it continued to wage endless wars, never regaining its former glory. The mysterious Pythagoras, however, became a legend, his legacy enduring long after the city itself had faded.

Ancient Gentile Religious Texts:

Replaced With Meaningless Rabbinical Drivel

Jewish Literary Filth

The Jews control nearly all of the world's wealth of which they siezed through occult power. This power was forcibly removed from the Gentiles through the Jewish tool of Christianity, where the Gentile Gods were all replaced with imposter Jewish characters and archetypes, leaving the names and characters of the Original Gods to be blasphemed as hideous Demons and insulting monster images. Gentile legends were stolen, twisted and corrupted and perverted into Jewish literary trash.

Sacred texts which contained the wisdom and teachings of the Gentile Gods, designed to help and give to humanity the knowledge to advance the soul and to reach a higher level of spirituality were systematically replaced with Jewish literary filth and meaningless rabbinical drivel that fills up the Talmud, the Torah and the Judeo/Christian bible. The so-called "Torah" is really a perversion of the Egyptian Tarot. The same as with the Kabbalah. This is why the Judeo/Xian Bible contains to many dire warnings to keep Gentiles from accesssing occult knowledge.

"Yeshua" which is "Jesus" means "May his name be blotted out." It is so obvious who they are referring to here. That worthless king of slaves hanging off a cross is a fictitious imposter, another Jewish archetype designed to replace the Real Gods, namely our Creator God who is SATAN and erase his existence from our memory (May his name be blotted out). This is not only a huge slap in the face for Gentiles, but an abomination to our Gods.

The more I study, going deeper into the occult, it is glaringly apparent SATAN is GOD.

What is left of the original texts which were altered is nothing but Jewish literary trash, rabbinical bullshit writings and other Jewish garbage. Modern occult teachings have been infested with Hebrew letters, Jewish angelic archetypes and are based upon the Jewish version of everything. Blatant examples include (King James version of the Bible):

2 Kings 18: 27 "But Rabshakeh said unto them, Hath my master sent me to thy master, and to thee, to speak these words? hath he not sent me to the men which sit on the wall, that they may eat their own dung, and drink their own piss with you?"

Job 20: 7 "Yet he shall perish for ever like his own dung: they which have seen him shall say, Where is he?"

The story of Job was stolen from "The Story of Keret." The original story of Job, was written in the Ugaritic language (Cuneiform Script), composed circa 1400 BCE by "Ilimilku The Scribe." This epic involves "Keret" and the God "El." NOT Job and fictitious "Jehova." In the original tale, "Satan" never even entered into the picture. Other Gentile legends that compose the Job epic include:

The Sufferer and the Soul

The Farmer and the Courts

The Sufferer and the Friend

Writings concerning excrement were not in the original texts.

More rabbinical filth includes:

Proverbs 26:11 "As a dog returneth to his vomit, so a fool returneth to his folly."

Isaiah 19:14 "The LORD hath mingled a perverse spirit in the midst thereof: and they have caused Egypt to err in every work thereof, as a drunken man staggereth in his vomit."

Isaiah 30:22 "Ye shall defile also the covering of thy graven images of silver, and the ornament of thy molten images of gold: thou shalt cast them away as a menstruous cloth; thou shalt say unto it, Get thee hence."

Jeremiah 4:4 "Circumcise yourselves to the LORD, and take away the foreskins of your heart, ye men of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem: lest my fury come forth like fire, and burn that none can quench it, because of the evil of your doings."

Jeremiah 8:2 And they shall spread them before the sun, and the moon, and all the host of heaven, whom they have loved, and whom they have served, and after whom they have walked, and whom they have sought, and whom they have worshipped: they shall not be gathered, nor be buried; they shall be for dung upon the face of the earth.

The above is just a tiny sample of the endless Jewish literary filth that fills the bible, which was designed to deceive and enslave the Gentiles. This is what the teachings of our Gods have been replaced with. This sick garbage has been indoctrinated into Gentile children and force fed to the Gentile people throughout their entire lives. It is no wonder so many have such a negative view of spirituality.

Few people are familiar with the Egyptian Kabbalah. The True Kabbalah is an instruction of four dimensional meditation of which is very powerful; using specific chants, tones and vibrations and applying these to different aspects of the soul. The original kabbalah was based upon the runes of which are based upon the constellations, like the Tarot. This is only a very brief summary as the instructions are complex and require much study.

What the Jews have done with this is again, they took it out of circulation, keeping this knowledge in the hands of the top Jews for world control (why they have so much wealth and power), and used their tool of Christianity to murder the Gentiles who had this knowledge, such as the Druids.

Pretty much all that is left in public circulation is remnants of sacred knowledge that have been desecrated, corrupted and defiled, of which only few twisted and distorted scraps remain, such as the "gematria" which is a corruption of and used as a distraction from the real texts and that Jewish story about the "golem" of which is based upon the elements and their corrupted "tree of life." Fictitious Jewish "YHVH" and Jewish angelic archetypes are always held in esteem while Gentile Gods are relegated to the "qlippoth" of death, filth and excrement.

Who Was Adolf Hitler?
What is the Talmud?
Holocaust Lies
Adolf Hitler

"Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Party came to power in 1933. Most occult leaders believed Hitler was The Great One."

555 is the kabalistic equivalent of an ancient Hebrew term meaning darkness. Also 555 is the numerical value of the word Necronomicon. Hitler's Nazi party number was 555. The party began its numbering system at 500 to appear larger than it really was.

The truth is that Hitler was a Satanist. Being a politician, he worked at being diplomatic, given the power of the Christian Churches at that time. Hitler was the long awaited leader that many German Satanic Lodges were working to bring into being. They needed a leader. Hitler, himself was a member of one of these Satanic Lodges.

Excerpt: "I would like to pass on some of the information which, according to Otti Votavova, she received directly from Franz Bardon. According to her, Adolf Hitler was a member of a 99 Lodge. Besides this, Hitler and some of his confidants were members of the Thule Order, which was simply the external instrument of a group of powerful Tibetan black magicians which used the members of the Thule Order for their own purposes." 1

"One of the early German Workers party members was publisher Dietrich Eckart, often referred to as the spiritual founder of National Socialism. Eckart saw in Hitler the malleable leader he had been seeking and was soon introducing the new member to the right social circles in Munich and his intellectual friends in the Thule [pronounced too-lee] Society. Although Eckart's role in metaphysical practices as well as in the foundation of the Nazi party has been marginalized by most historians, it is significant that Hitler clearly understood Eckart's importance." 2

"The inner core within the Thule Group were all Satanists who practiced Black Magic" [Trevor Ravenscroft, The Spear of Destiny © 1973]

As Dietrich Eckart lay dying in 1923, he said, 'Follow Hitler! He will dance, but it is I who have called the tune. I have initiated him into the 'Secret Doctrine', opened his centers in vision and given him the means to communicate with the Powers. Do not mourn for me: I shall have influenced history more than any other German.' 3

There is also plenty of proof that Hitler and the Third Reich were working relentlessly to destroy Christianity in all of its forms.

"I will crush Christianity under my boot like a poisonous toad."

"Judaism, Christianity, Bolshevism are all bound together. Comrades in agitation, born tools of decay, they possess the same talent to destroy the natural structure of society. Bolshevism is the historical and logical continuation of Christianity. It realizes on a technical level what Christianity has done on a metaphysical level."

- Adolf Hitler

A quote about Hitler's stance on Christianity from Alfred Rosenberg:

"He had never allowed a member of the clergy to a Party meeting or to the burial of a member of the Party. The Judeo-Christian plague was now heading towards its end. He said it was downright horrifying that a religion could ever have been possible which literally gobbled up its God in communion." 4

"A number of his closest accomplices shared Hitler's hate toward the Church and his decision to destroy it. Probably the best known among them were Bormann, Himmler, Heydrich, Rosenberg and Goebbels. Gerhard Reitlinger characterizes Himmler as follows: "Himmler's profession became destroying Jews, liberals and priests." 5

According to a note from the Holy See dated March 2, 1943:

"At the beginning of October 1941, the number of priests from the diocese "Warthegau," who were under arrest at Dachau, amounted to several hundred; but this number swelled considerably every month as a result of a strong intensification of police measures which resulted in the arrest and deportation of further hundreds of clerics." 6

"All Catholic schools were closed."

"An order of the Reich governor, dated August 19, 1941, said that young Germans could receive religious instructions only in the ages from 10 to 18 years old and, furthermore, only at the places of worship and one hour per week, which was to be set between 3 and 5 PM (excluding the days reserved for the exercises of the Hitler-youth). It was further ordered that the police had to be informed in advance regarding the time, the place and the instructional personnel. Several churches were removed from use as places of worship. With many others this happened later on; religious services were limited to specific hours" 7

What did Hitler have to say about "pure, original Christianity" and an "Aryan Christ?"

"Leave the hair-splitting to others. Whether it's the Old Testament or the New, or simply the sayings of Jesus, it's all the same old Jewish swindle. It will not make us free. A German church, a German Christianity is a distortion. One is either a German or a Christian. You cannot be both."

"Hitler made it clear that he was not interested in an "Aryanized Christianity" or the "Aryan Jesus" myth promoted by Houston Stewart Chamberlain, Von Liebenfels, and certain party members. "You cannot make an Aryan out of Jesus, that's nonsense. What needs to be done you say? I will tell you: we must prevent the churches from doing anything but, what they are doing now, that is, losing ground day by day. But we can hasten matters. The parsons will be made to dig their own graves." he stated." 8

The Truth About the Talmud

"Jesus Christ," "Christians," and "Christianity" are hardly ever mentioned in the Talmud, despite the mistranslations that are available to the deluded Christians who believe that the Talmud is a conspiracy against Christ and Christianity. The truth is that the Talmud is a conspiracy, but, it is a conspiracy against the Pagan [Gentile] peoples. Despite the fuss that the Christians have made for centuries about passages in the Talmud that allegedly blaspheme Christ, the Jesus of Nazareth character is supposedly mentioned only once in the later editions of the Talmud, and he is cited:

"I have come not to destroy the Law of Moses" (Matthew 5:17) There is nothing anti-Christian about Christ in the Talmud. However, members of the militant Christian death-cult insist that the Talmud contains numerous blasphemous references to Jesus, and the Christian "religion." The truth is that "Jesus" and "Yeshua" were very common JEWISH names during the era when Christ's fictitious life was supposed to take place. Some sources say that the references to a man named "Jesus" or "Yeshu/a" existed around either 100 B.C.E. or 100 C.E., which according to Christian tradition, is NOT the time of their beloved Jewish Nazarene.

Many Jews do not believe in Jesus the Christ because they know that he is fictitious and that they invented this JEWISH character for the Gentiles to grovel before, as worthless "sinners" and to prepare them for the coming of the official Jewish Messiah who unites all of the Jews in the world, brings judgment and damnation upon the Aryan peoples, and enslaves the rest of Gentile humanity. The Talmud has been mistranslated during the Middle Ages and was twisted and distorted in regards to a certain "Jesus the Nazarene." For those who are deluded by "Christian Identity," the "Sovereign Lord of All the World," mentioned as the Universal King of the Jews in the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, would be the long-awaited Jewish Messiah AND would be none other than the "Second coming of Christ" to the Christians. The Jewish people have the Gentiles over a barrel with their greatest trick, which is Christianity. This is why Christians are so confused and fooled a lot of the time. Christianity is completely foreign and alien to Gentiles, as we are naturally Pagan.

Shabbath 116a (p. 569) from the Talmud reads: Jews must destroy the books of the Christians.

This quote from the Talmud was added later on, and its purpose is to confuse Gentiles who have fallen for Christianity. The term "Christian" is a forgery, as the original wording would have been "Gentiles" or "heathens," i.e. "idolatrous goyim." This much later interpolation came from Christians who were later given access to the Talmud so they could do some editing. The Jews allowed this, of course, to once again make it look like liberal "Christ-hating" Jews versus conservative Christians, as for any great Jewish lie to succeed, they have to pretend to be against something, in order to give their programs more power. If you read on, you will learn that it is actually Satan and his Demons that the Jews are cursing and blaspheming, and not the Nazarene. This may be way over many heads, but misconceptions about the Talmud's alleged "hatred" of Christ and Christianity must be addressed.

Shabbath 116a does NOT refer to Christians or the Christian [JEWISH] book of the New Testament. If the New Testament is actually read, rather than talked about, people would see that it actually praises the Jews, Israel, and Jewish "heroes" and patriarchs much more so than the Old Testament. In John 4:22, Christ himself states "Salvation is from the Jews." How much more damning of a statement can be indoctrinated into the Gentile collective unconscious than that? Christ was on a mission to unite Israel with all of the world's Jews, and to destroy the Aryan spirit, and to treat the other nations of the world as soul-less beasts of the field.

It is obvious that the Shabbath 116a passage is stating that the Jews must destroy the books of the Pagans. Look at how the Jews claim to be against Christianity, and yet the Bible is the book that the Jews publish the most, and is published . History will testify that it was the Jews who destroyed Pagan libraries and corrupted what was left. Millions upon millions of innocent Gentile men, women, and children were not mass-murdered for being Christians, but for being Pagans.

In the Al-Jilwah, Satan says: "Do not give them [Jews, Christians, Muslims] your books, lest they alter them without your knowledge. Learn by heart the greater part of them, lest they be altered." - Satan Satan is the God of the Gentiles, and if his own people would take heed to what he has told us, and what he still tells us when he communicates with us, the Jews would have already been eradicated. Here are some quotes that indicate whether it was Christ who is mentioned in the Talmud or not, other than being cited once.

One might think that there would at least be reference to the "historical" Jesus in the texts of the Jews, who were known for record-keeping. Yet, such is not the case, despite all the frantic pointing to the references to "Jesus ben Pandira," who purportedly lived during the first century BCE, or other "Jesuses" mentioned in Jewish literature. The story of Jesus ben Pandira, for example, related that, a century before the Christian era, a "magician" named "Jesus" came out of Egypt and was put to death by stoning or hanging. However, ritualistic or judicial executions of this manner were common, as were the name "Jesus" and the magicians flooding out of Egypt. Even if ben Pandira were real, it is definitely not his story being told in the New Testament.[1]

The Jews never knew about the Jesus Christ of the gospels until they invented this character for Gentiles to waste all of their time, mind, body, soul, and money towards. By saying that Jesus Christ came in the flesh and that he will return, gives the Jews all the more psychic power from the Gentiles who have fallen for the Jewish program of Christianity, to bring about their Messiah. If only Gentile Christians knew that their object of worship would be the funeral wreath of humanity, instead of its savior.

"Despite claims to the contrary, the Jewish composition of the Talmud rates as worthless in establishing the existence of Christ and the historicity of the gospel tale. The supposed references in the Talmud--largely consisting of unflattering commentary about Jesus--are all too late to demonstrate anything more than traditions passed along decades to centuries later. Furthermore, some of the passages cited do not seem to refer to the gospel Jesus at all" [2]

"Furthermore, Jewish scholar Solomon Schechter observes that Jewish texts composed during the time of Jesus' advent contain not a single reference to the supposed founder of Christianity" [3]

"A radical position is represented by Johann Maier, who maintains that not only the Mishna but also both Talmuds lack any authentic, direct mention of Jesus of Nazareth. His conclusion is that even the original text of the two Talmuds never mentioned Jesus of Nazareth; ALL SUCH REFERENCES TO JESUS ARE INTERPOLATIONS INSERTED IN THE MIDDLE AGES [emphasis, mine]." [4]

"Therefore, the Talmud is worthless as a non-Christian source demonstrating the historicity of the gospel tale and does not much add acceptable material for our quest to find out who Jesus was." [5]

Now, here is how the Jews have used and abused Pagan deities to compose the Christ character. "In the story of Dionysus is to be found not only these various significant correspondences to biblical characters and the Christ myth, but also an apparent explanation of the tale of Jesus ben Pandira, Pandera or Panthera, who was supposed by many to represent the "historical Jesus." This Jesus or Joshua ben Pandira is found only in the Talmud. In the story of Dionysus or Bacchus, the god is reborn as one of twins suckled by a female panther, hence his title "son of a panther," the same as "ben Panthera" As the "God of Nysa," Dionysus came out of Egypt, and his moniker was IHE, or IES in Latin, hence, "Jesus ben Panthera" may have been a reference to Dionysus. "Jesus ben Pandira" is not the gospel Jesus.[6]

Here, we see that it is the Pagans, and NOT the Christians, that are being attacked by the Jews. In addition, it has been a common belief among many who are deluded, that the Jewish term "Akum" means "Christians." This is not the case. "Akum" is a reference to Pagans, as it is an attack on those who are polytheistic and serve the Gods of the Gentiles, and observe the planets, stars, and the Zodiac. The Jews use occult power in a liberal way to enslave Gentiles, but the Gentiles are forbidden from using any occult powers, according to Christian tradition.

"The tractate "Avodah Zarah" deals with gentiles, but the reference is to pagans, rather than Christians. It specifically mentions as their holidays pagan Roman celebrations such as Kalends and Saturnalia. PAGANS [emphasis, mine] were referred to as "Akum" -- which is an acronym for worshipers of stars and astrological signs. Jewish law books have some very unkind things to say about these "heathens."

The Jews confiscate everything of their enemies, i.e. Pagans, in order to take over the world. I must interject here that the story of Christ and his twelve labors, or, "stations of the cross," were not only stolen from the story of the Greek Demi-God Heracles, but are also based upon the twelve signs and "labors" of the sun through the Zodiac. This is why it has been said that the Nazarene is a JEWISH archetype to REPLACE our Aryan Sun Gods, who have been demonized as monsters in order to keep us away from them, and our Creator God Satan. What the Jewish archetype of Christ does, is it collects all of the Gentiles' racial memories of our sacred Gods, and our collective archetypal racial memories of the Sun, personified by 18 or more "crucified" Pagan Gods who were all born of a virgin, who lived their lives, died at the hands of a betrayer, and were resurrected [all of this is symbolic], in order to usher in the Jewish Messiah, by using and abusing all of this powerful psychic energy in the mass mind of non-Jews. The life, death, and resurrection, are all ALLEGORIES of the SPIRITUAL process of the Magnum Opus of turning lead into gold, and therefore, man into Godhood. The Nazarene idiot is a concept that was created to confuse and distract the Gentiles.

Just look at how many denominations of Christianity there are, keeping Gentiles fighting against Gentiles. The Nazarene is a false deity that has been used to replace all of the original Pagan Gods, as well as true spirituality. When the Talmud states that the Gentiles worship "that man" as God, Christians are deluded into believing that that is a reference to Christians and Christ. Nothing could be further from the truth. Secondly, the rivals of the Jews were PAGANS, NOT CHRISTIANS. The reference to "that man" in the Talmud is about the end of the Age of Pisces, when Gentiles start denouncing Christianity and return to their Pagan roots. "That man" is none other than Satan, the Creator God of the Gentiles. The Jewish name "Yeshua" is NOT an attack against Christ, but against the one who has been slandered, cursed, bound, and turned into a hideous "monster" in order to keep his own creation away from him. "Yeshua" means "May his [Satan's] name and memory be blotted out."

Moving on to one of the biggest stumbling blocks that the Jews have created to make Christians believe that "Balaam" in the Talmud is a secret code word for Jesus Christ. BALAAM, the alleged prototype for "Christ" was NOT the fictitious Nazarene, no matter how much Christians rant and rave about this misunderstanding.

Sanhedrin 106b reads "Sectarian said to R. Chanina: Do you know how old Balaam was? [R. Chanina] replied: It is not written. However, since it says (Psalms 55:24) "Men of bloodshed and deceit will not live out half their days..." he was 33 or 34. [The heretic] said: You said well. I have seen the chronicle of Balaam and it said "At 33 years Balaam the lame was killed by Pinchas (Phineas) the robber."

Here, we have the Goetic Demon Balaam, who is one of the original Gods of the Gentiles, whose father is Beor [sounds a lot like the Goetic Demon Buer] that is being maligned here. The Christians believe that the above passage from the Talmud is blaspheming the Nazarene, and that Pinchas is "Pontius Pilate" who slew him. This is a falsehood. Although, it is said that Balaam only lived for about 33 years, like Christ, we have an entirely different individual than the Nazarene. The Nazarene performed sloppy "miracles," but never told anyone, except for the Jewish people, how to do them. The phony Christ character was weak. All he knew were a few lousy parlor tricks. When a Gentile, such as Balaam, has and uses occult power, he is in big trouble with the Jews, as occult power is one of "God's" gifts to the "righteous" Jews to destroy all Aryans, with the Jews taking over the world, and keeping all of the other Gentile races as their slaves and property. Although the Nazarene is the JEWISH messiah, the Jews who reject him do so most of all because they know that they created this fool for the Gentiles to use up all of their psychic energy towards, in order to bring about the "Universal King of the Jews" real, official advent. The Jews do not fall for their own lies, with the exception that the very first Jews were Christians.

Balaam, who also appears in the Old Testament was a Gentile sorcerer who's mission was to curse Israel and the Jewish people. This is why Balaam was killed. On the other hand, Christ worked FOR Israel, with him being an ambitious Jew, himself. With that being said, it is clearly not Jesus Christ that the Talmud is referring to.

Here is a quote about the God Balaam who is mentioned by the Jews in the Old Testament: "Balaam was a Gentile prophet, whose prophecies are recorded in scripture. However, he was famous as a soothsayer, who would pronounce a curse for money. The Mosaic Law strictly prohibited these practices, but then, Balaam wasn't a Jew. He was a Gentile. Balaam was responsible for the death of 24,000 Jews. He was the pawn of Baal. He was the friend of anti-Semitism." [7] The moral of the story of Balaam is that Israel over-powered his curses against the Jews, as Israel turned his curses into blessings for Israel. Balaam was punished for being a Gentile who loathed the Jews and practiced sorcery. This is clearly not the story of Jesus Christ. Therefore, the statements of Christians who believe that Balaam is a Talmudic reference to Christ, are null and void.

Now, we have a quote from the Talmud that the Christians use to suggest that the Talmudic Jews are saying that "Jesus" is being punished in boiling semen in Hell. Christians will conveniently forget that Jesus is the Jewish Messiah, and NOT the Gentiles' Messiah, who is Satan. Here we read about Balaam's punishment, followed by Satan's punishment in "Hell." As mentioned earlier, Balaam is not Jesus, and the name or term "Yeshu/a" is a derogatory term for Satan, meaning "May [Satan's] name and memory be blotted out."

Talmud Gittin 56b-57a reads: [Onkelos Bar Kalonikus] called up Balaam from the dead. [Onkelos] asked: Who is honored in that world? [Balaam] replied: "Israel." [Onkelos] asked: What is your punishment? [Balaam answered]: "In boiling semen." The Talmud claims that all souls of non-Jews are "filthy" and "impure," and that all non-Jewish souls are sent to eternal punishment, as they belong to Satan, the Creator of Gentiles, and the Enemy of the Jews. This sounds the same as Christian threats of eternal punishment, as, truth be known, and contrary to common knowledge among the deluded, the Jews, the Talmud, the Bible, and Christianity are inseparable.

In the next quote from the Talmud, a strong misunderstanding takes place to the deluded Christians, due to a lack of knowledge. In this case, "Yeshua" is being applied to Satan in a very derogatory way. It is Satan that was cursed by this remark, and not the Nazarene. As you will see, according to Christian [Jewish] mythology, Christ was "resurrected," not sent to burn in boiling excrement in Hell.

"[Onkelos] called up Yeshu from the dead. [Onkelos] asked: Who is honored in that world? [Yeshu] replied: "Israel" [Onkelos] asked: What is your punishment? [Yeshu answered]: In boiling excrement. As the master said: Whoever mocks the words of the sages is punished in boiling excrement." It is so obvious at this point that the Talmud is not blaspheming Christ, but Satan.

Furthermore, in "Some Observations on the Attitude of the Synagogue Towards the Apocalyptic-Eschatological Writings," Journal of Biblical Literature (1922), p. 121 n. 18, Professor Louis Ginzberg admits: "One may therefore state with absolute certainty that the entire Talmudic-Midrashic literature does not know of any nicknames for Jesus or his disciples."

That is the verdict. The Talmud is not "anti-Christ" or anti-Christian in any way. It is anti-idolatrous Pagans, not the Christians who only believe in the Christian [Jewish] god and Nazarene. The Jews say that they are of "YHVH," while the Gentiles are the Children of Satan, and NOT the other way around, despite what the members of Christian Identity believe. This in no way applies to Christians or Christianity, but to the non-Jewish races. Those who are cursing themselves with Christian Identity need to realize this, and that by believing that they are the lost tribe of Israel, and therefore, the "true Jews" isn't only damning themselves, but all Gentile peoples, in a total war against the Gentile spirit.

"God" and the "Devil" are BACKWARDS. Satan is the God of the Gentiles, and he loves and adores his creation. He is not the one who deceives all the Nations, nor is he a liar or a murderer. Satan is the enemy and adversary of the Jewish people. In the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, the Jews boast "We shall destroy God." Look at the extent the Jews have gone towards separating Gentiles from Satan. Satan is God. The Jews have also stated that the Gentiles "shit before their god." This is a reference to how the Jews have demonized Satan to the point that Gentiles are so afraid of him that they continue to curse and bind him, and want to keep away from him at all costs.

In closing, every Gentile has every reason to hate the Jewish people with a seething passion. Just because it turns out that the Jews do not mock the Christian "god" doesn't mean they should be forgiven for mass-murdering Gentiles, or for destroying our Pagan libraries that contained very clear instructions from our Pagan Gods for how to achieve immortality, and replacing it with Jewish filth, distractions, and totally bogus "religions," such as Christianity that prepare us for accepting the Jews as our masters, which is the theme of the New Testament just as much as the Old Testament. This sermon is an open letter and a wake up call for all Gentiles. The truth about Christianity is that the very first Christians were Jewish, and the very last remnant of Christians will be Jewish. As for the Christians who believe that non-Jewish Christians are the "Chosen of Yahweh," they are damning their own souls, and are spreading their toxicity to the rest of humanity [non-Jews]. We need to stand united and empower our souls, leaving no other option for the Jews than for them to get with the Pogrom. Simeon Haddarsen, fol. 56-D: "When the Messiah comes every Jew will have 2800 slaves."

The Christian Mass and How it Ties into Jewish Ritual Murder

Due to centuries of the vehement suppression of spiritual knowledge, most people are not only unaware of, but also they are unable to see certain truths. This is the enemy's way of conquering; by creating a blind spot on the soul, where one is spiritually disarmed; the so-called 'sixth-sense' is lacking in most people and in many others, it is completely absent.

Millions of unfortunate people are and have been deceived by the Christian and Muslim programs; both of these whose sole intention is to destroy spiritual knowledge and replace it with lies for the destruction of humanity and every other living creature on this earth.

The Judeo/Christian bible warns its believers regarding the powers of the mind and of 'witchcraft' so that one is unable to see through the blatant lies that are right there every day.

The Jews who are parasites by nature have always used Gentiles as their spiritual hosts; to feed from...no different from the alien greys who use their collection of souls to feed from. Many of you are already familiar with 'Jewish Ritual Murder.' During the times of Jewish holidays, top rabbis will abduct Gentile children and use them in their ritual sacrifices to Jewhova. The child is taken to a secret back room of a synagogue, tied to a cross and then tortured to death with the blood drained from the four corners [hands and feet], while the child is still alive and aware, and then this blood is drunk ritually by the rabbis. This heinous act has been performed repeatedly for centuries and this is why the Jews have endured endless pogroms [where Gentiles have massacred entire villages of Jews], have been forcibly expelled from nearly every country of the world, except for the USA, and have been hated to an extreme by every Gentile race. This is just one...I could go on and on endlessly of the crimes that the Jews have committed ad nauseum, but the purpose of this sermon is how all of this ties into the christian mass/church service. For more about this practice, 2000 Years of Jewish Ritual Murder and Jewish Ritual Murder

There was a title of a book I noted on a shelf in the public library; written by a Jewish rabbi and the title was 'Thou Shalt Prosper.' This is also in the Bible. This title was in reference to the Jews. Nearly everyone is aware of the unbelievable material wealth, success, and power this race has had for centuries. This directly results from their abuse of occult power, and all of this ties directly into Christianity.

As I mentioned many times before, the Judeo/Christian Bible is a book of Jewish witchcraft. The verses, their numbers, and so forth. In order to know this, one must know how witchcraft, words of power, and most of all, the subliminal and the powers of the mind work to bring the operator's intentions to manifest in reality.

As with so much of the Jewish workings, the subliminal is used to make the necessary subconscious connection to establish an energy link. One must know about witchcraft and the powers of the mind to know this. This is why the Bible warns and works to frighten Gentiles away from anything really spiritual...'thou shalt not suffer a witch to live' and other crap about 'burning in a lake of fire' etc. In addition, I noted early on that there were curses involved in one using one's powers of the mind to prevent this and to frighten those who scare easily away from this sort of thing.

"Eat me...Drink me."

The entire theme of the Christian mass/church service is that of a simulation of a human sacrifice. Most people cannot see this, nor are they aware of it due to their minds being walled up. The nazarene with every mass/service is crucified in a blood sacrifice to Jewhova. I remember very well the endless repeated phrases used by the priest so that a connection is established 'This is the body of christ' and then that stupid little communion wafer...where the believer eats that 'body of christ.' Now we know the nazarene was nailed to that cross; the four corners, no different from the Gentile children that the Jews use in their sacrifices. This creates the necessary connection that fuels the energies for the Jewish ritual murders, bringing success to the Jewish race, especially that of vast material wealth.

Each and every catholic mass for one [and with protestants, the theme is the same], these same verses are DRUMMED into the minds of the congregation, over and over and over and over and over:

"On the night he was betrayed, he took bread and gave you thanks and praise. He broke the bread, gave it to his disciples, and said:

Take this, all of you, and eat it: this is my body which will be given up for you."

"When supper was ended, he took the cup. Again he gave you thanks and praise, gave the cup to his disciples, and said:

Take this, all of you, and drink from it: this is the cup of my blood."

SEE THE CONNECTION??? THIS IS BLATANTLY A HUMAN SACRIFICE!!

People cannot see this because they have been spiritually blinded. I can see all kinds of things as I have knocked down walls in my mind and I remember just four of weeks ago, when hearing religious xmas songs blasting over the speakers in the store I was in, it was very blatant to me how these deluded Christian fools were singing for their damnation.

To create the necessary distraction and to confuse their victims, the Jews have always pretended to be persecuted by Christians. They pretend to be at odds with Christianity. If one's walls are knocked down, one can see what is there right in front of us every day. The entire Bible has either the word 'Jew' 'Jews' 'Israel' and related written on every page and with all of these, the Jewish people, and their patriarchs are honored and exalted. The Bible follows a subliminal theme in that Gentiles are conquered repeatedly in the old testament by the Jews and their god Jewhova. After all of this conquering and enslaving, the nazarene, the long awaited Jewish messiah comes on the scene. Jewish from birth to death; for more on this see Jewish Nazarene.

The Jewish nazarene character was invented from a concept, that of the serpentine witchpower. To read a full article about this, click here. Again, for a working to succeed in many cases, there must be some sort of connection in the mind of the victim. Most Christians cannot see that Jewhova was a 'murderer and a liar' from the beginning. The New Testament goes on with the nazarene then becoming a human sacrifice...murdered and sacrificed to Jewhova, the murderous, bloodthirsty, and sadistic 'father.' In its own twisted way, this translates into the murder of children. Because the mind of a child is in many cases a blank slate in the way of limited personal experiences that shape attitudes and color the personality, children are prime victims. Christianity is notorious for preying upon children as are angels and of course, the filthy kikes. They know they can use the energy of children quite freely, as there is little or no spiritual resistance.

Then, the final cap with all of this is the 'second coming of christ' which is in truth another hoax designed to channel Gentile spiritual energies and beliefs through the mass mind into making the coming of the Jewish messiah into a reality.

Quote from the Jewish Talmud:

Simeon Haddarsen, fol. 56-D: "When the Messiah comes every Jew will have 2800 slaves."

Most people are totally unaware of the above and cannot see this. I already wrote in another sermon concerning how the Jews use occult power:

JoSNewsletter/message/385

Here is an excerpt:

The video below [which I highly recommend everyone sees] is nothing new and blatantly exposes the Jews and how they abuse occult power, the power of suggestion and the subliminal to make the subconscious connection to manifest their workings in reality. The shootings were for the purpose of instituting gun control. Many people such as the author of the video linked below have no idea of the Jewish power, feeding off of and directing the energy that the deluded followers of the Christian program provide for their Jewish masters, is behind all of this and can only make misguided guesses: Sandy Hook and Batman shootings announced in Movie Batman and Dark Knight Rise

The Jewish abuse of occult powers has its roots in their gematria. The 911 was another one...very blatant. A co-worker, some years ago, showed me how a $20.00 bill could be folded a certain way so that on the rear of it, the twin towers going up in smoke would appear. Look on the internet for this, I don't have the time to search out the websites that have this. All of a sudden, after the 911 incident, the older version of the $20.00 bills where you could fold it that way, was taken out of circulation. They fed the public the bullshit story that "they were too easy to counterfeit." Well, they disappeared real fast, as too many people knew the deal on how to fold them. The 20 is the most common currency used and circulated in the USA.

Others include presidential assassinations. I did some research on this a few years back. Note about Lincoln and the names, dates, and the numbers and how they all come together in a very creepy way, indicating the use of their version of witchcraft. 911 is another blatant one- the date, the flights, the numbers, such as 'New York City' 11 letters; just do your own research on this.

In closing, the suicidal doctrines and teachings that poverty is a virtue, and the rejection of material wealth, work to ensure that the Jews prosper and that all wealth and power is in their hands. These suicidal teachings are drummed into the minds of Gentiles from a very early age, making sure they take a roothold and will even last for future lifetimes, ensuring poverty.

Quotes from the Jewish Talmud:

Seph. Jp., 92, 1: "God has given the Jews power over the possessions and blood of all nations."

Schulchan Aruch, Choszen Hamiszpat 348: "All property of other nations belongs to the Jewish nation, which, consequently, is entitled to seize upon it without any scruples."

Schulchan Aruch, Choszen Hamiszpat 156: "When a Jew has a Gentile in his clutches, another Jew may go to the same Gentile, lend him money and in turn deceive him, so that the Gentile shall be ruined. For the property of a Gentile, according to our law, belongs to no one, and the first Jew that passes has full right to seize it."

Behind it all, the Jews are the ones who push Christianity, though they try to deceive the world into believing otherwise. I see this all the time, as I am very aware of it. Even with small unimportant things as crossword puzzle books, most are authored by Jewish writers and there are endless references to Christianity and that filthy Bible, like everyone is supposed to know those filthy Jewish characters and archetypes by rote. Like this is supposed to be common everyday accepted knowledge.

WHAT? ...Hollywood Predicted 9:11??? [Youtube video]

The above video is proof that the so-called "prophesies" in the Bible are nothing but a hoax. The Bible is not the "Book of God" but is a work of the Jews, of which they use subliminally to carry out their curses, some of which are centuries old. One only has to be knowledgeable about the workings of the mind and of witchcraft to see this and to fully understand.

Gnosticism is the collective name for the mystical teachings of late antiquity and the early Middle Ages . According to our reckoning, it developed in the 2nd century AD in the eastern region of North Africa, from a mixture of Jewish, pagan-Platonic and early Christian elements. The essence of its teachings is that the key to enlightenment is not faith but knowledge, or gnosis (a word of Greek origin). They sought to overcome the material world. In practice, they used numerology and word magic, combining it with the demonic belief of ancient Eastern astrology. One of their important gods was Abraxas . The Abraxas gems are talismans that draw from the knowledge of gnostic sects based on numerology. The written sources of Gnosticism are the New Testament Apocrypha and the Pistis Sophia (a Coptic document from the 3rd century AD), which tells of the suffering path of wisdom hidden in darkness. Its most important representatives are Clement of Alexandria , Origen , and Tertullian.

The flourishing of medieval magic is due to the wandering adepts and alchemists. Alchemy developed from the original name of Egypt , Kem , through Arabic mediation. (al kimiya, the magical craft of the Black Country) The Arabs brought the belief in the magical power of liquids and alloys from Egypt, to Morocco and then to Spain . In the 9th -11th centuries, Seville, Córdoba and Granada were the main centers. Later, this esoteric science spread throughout Europe.

The Order of the Knights Templar was founded in 1118. It was founded by the French nobleman Hugues de Payns and nine companions. Originally, they protected pilgrims going to the Holy Land . They presumably wanted to search for the Ark of the Covenant and the Grail . They built Solomon's Temple in Jerusalem , which became their accommodation. At that time, it was still called the El-Aqsa Mosque. By the 12th century, they had become considerably wealthy, and it is said that they guarded the Holy Grail as their greatest treasure . They followed the Gnostic philosophy. They were greatly influenced by the esoteric traditions of the Albigenses and the Cathars . The order was abolished during the reign of Pope Clement V. Their last Grand Master, Molay , was tortured and burned at the stake with his companions. The Templar treasure and the Grail are still being searched for in France today .

Rosicrucianism developed from the alchemical perspective, influenced by Christian Rosenkreutz . Its origins can be traced back to 1614-1616, when three books written by the occult brotherhood were published. The supposed author is Johann Valentin Andreae . The first work is the Fama Fraternitatis (Great Rosicrucian Order) - the meeting of Christian Rosenkreutz with the wise men of Demcar . The second book is the Confessio Fraternitatis (Confession of the Rosicrucian Brotherhood) - it gives glimpses of Rosenkreutz's life and encourages people to join. The third is the Chymische Hochzeit Christiani Rosenkreutz (The Alchemical Wedding of Christian Rosenkreutz) - in which the character discovers the secret books of Wisdom. This order is said to be a direct continuation of the mystery of the Knights Templar, who took over the guardianship of the Grail. The rose and the cross, according to Andreas Libevius, originated in connection with Luther's seal. It depicts a cross growing from a heart in the middle of a rose chalice. The chalice of the rose is the Grail, which receives the blood, and the five petals are the five sacred wounds of Jesus . The center is a symbol of the sacred heart of Jesus and love. The cross is a symbol of victory over death, turning to the spirit, and the four elements. The Rosicrucians have appeared under many names and in many forms over the centuries. They had significant political influence. In 1769, the first Hungarian lodge was founded in Presov . In contrast to Freemasonry , Rosicrucianism is the path of the soul. Today, there are several branches of the Rosicrucianism, such as the Egyptian Rosicrucianism and the Golden Rosicrucianism .

The Golden Dawn was a magical order founded in England in 1888 by Dr. Wynn Westcott (1848-1925) with the help of Samuel McGregor Mathers (1854-1918). Their rituals were originally based on the five Masonic degrees found in the legacy of an English Rosicrucian . In the early days, they studied mostly occult and sacred texts. In 1892, a new internal order above the first five degrees was created by Wescott, Mathers and Dr. William Woodman , which was called the Ordo Rosae Rubeae et Aurea Crucis (Order of the Red Rose and the Golden Cross) . This meant three new degrees. To these were later added three more, to which only the secret masters of the order could access. The lower order of the degrees: 0. neophyte, 1. zelator, 2. theoricus, 3. practicus, 4. philosophus. The middle order: 5. adeptus minor, 6. adeptus major, 7. adeptus exemptus. The upper order: 8. magister templi, 9. magus, 10. ipsissimus . To these degrees Mathers assigned the system of Kabbalistic sephiras . It was he who directed the activity of the order towards ritual magic. They relied heavily on the Enochian magic developed by Dee and Kelly . The first temple of the order was the Isis Urania (1888, London), followed by the Temple of Osiris , then the Temple of Horus, the Temple of Amon-Ra and finally the Temple of Ahathoor (Paris). Their names indicate strong Egyptian influences, but they also dealt with Greek, Rosicrucian, Celtic, Enochian and Hindu elements.

The famous Aleister Crowley (Edward Alexander Crowley) (October 12, 1875-1947) was taught by Allan Bennett (1872-1923). He chose ceremonial magic as his field of study. He compiled part of Crowley's published book 777. He later became a Buddhist monk. Crowley joined the order on November 18, 1898, where he received the secret name Frater Perdurabo (He Who Perseveres to the End) . (He also went by the names Master Therion, To Mega Therion, The Beast of the Apocalypse, Oliver Haddo, Vladimir Svaref, Chioa Khan, Lord Boleskine, Mahatma Guru Sri Paramahansa Shivai, Baphomet) He constantly criticized the order for the level of ceremonies and the lack of magical practice. Before he had even officially reached the middle degrees, he had already mastered the knowledge through his friend and master Bennett. He fell out with Mathers because he claimed that the secret leaders of the order had appointed him as the new leader, replacing Mathers. He then founded a new order.

After Mathers' death in 1918, the original Golden Dawn disbanded, but members formed new groups, including the Stella Matutina order. Between 1937 and 1941, Crowley's former secretary, Israel Regardie (1907-1985), published The Golden Dawn , a four-volume work describing the rites of the order and the complete ritual of the Stella Matutina . The book is now considered the bible of all ceremonial occultists, and Regardie is considered the greatest authority on modern Western magic.

Called Argenteum Astrum (Silver Star), Aleister Crowley founded an order in 1907 with about 100 members. Crowley appointed himself Magister Templi after making visible a demon named Choronzon . (December 6, 1909) (Other sources say he received this degree in China.) He was then accused by Theodor Reus , the leader of a German secret order of sexual magic, the Ordo Templi Orientis , of betraying their teachings. Crowley traveled to the United States after the outbreak of World War I and tried to organize an American branch of the OTO. His major books are Liber Al vel Legis (The Book of the Law), dictated by his guiding spirit, the Egyptian Aiwass , 777, The Book of Thoth, The Vision and the Voice, The Confessions, Magick in Theory and Practice, and The Quabalah of Aleister Crowley . He published a journal of several hundred pages called The Equinox .

Crowley founded the British lodge of the OTO in 1912 under the name Mysteria Mystica Maxima or MMM . Its leader was Victor Neuburg . Crowley later merged it with Argenteum Astrum .

The Ordo Templi Orientis was founded in 1896 by Karl Kellner in Germany. Its aim was to use sexual pleasure for metaphysical self-realization. It followed the traditions of the Tantric schools. In 1905, after Kellner's death, the new leader and first Grand Master was Theodor Reuss , and then in 1922 Crowley, who later reached the highest degree, that of Supreme and Most Holy King , and represented the order throughout Britain. The order gave him the name Baphomet . Members used to generate sexual energy during rituals, but only the last three of their nine initiation degrees were associated with sexual teachings and methods. The 7th was the theoretical side of sexual magic, the 8th was magical masturbation with a god or goddess imagined, and the 9th was actual sexual intercourse in which their physical partner embodied the deity. Their teachings included the exploration of the dark, back side of the Kabbalistic Tree of Life, using the spider's web of Ananse . Ananse is the spider in Ashanti legends who created the material from which Nyame , the supreme sky god, created the first human beings.

There are currently two OTO organizations. The leader of the English order is Kenneth Grant , and the leader of the California organization is Grandy McMurtry .

The religion and magical center (monastery) founded by Crowley in Cefalu , Sicily after World War I was Thelema (the word means will). It was characterized by drugged orgies, pagan-inspired magical rituals. English journalists attacked the organization. The scandal broke out when Crowley's best student died. At that time, they were expelled from Italy by order of Mussolini . Crowley's axiom: Do what you will, and it will be the law. He believed that a person must contact his holy guardian angel and find his inner purpose and true will. Crowley held the view that every man and woman is a star, and the ultimate meaning of our existence is to cross the chasm.

The Brotherhood of the Inner Light (1922) was a magical order founded by Dion Fortune and her husband. Its aim was to arouse people's interest in magical teachings, so they gave lectures and published publications. They also did considerable recruiting work. For a time they were called the Christian Mystical Lodge of the Theosophical Society , but this was soon changed. The Brotherhood of the Inner Light grew into the occult group called the Servants of Light . Its current leader is Dolores Ashcroft-Nowicki , an expert in Celtic magic and pathwork (the study of the inner paths of consciousness). Their headquarters are in St. Helier, Jersey.

The Arcane School is a theosophical, magical order founded by English mystic Alice Bailey (1880-1949) . Their teachings are inspired by inner masters (including conversations with Koot Hoomi and a being called "the Tibetan"). Their headquarters are in London.

The famous druid and magician Merlin (Merlinus Britannicus Ambrosius) probably lived around 480 AD in western Wales. He was already famous for his prophecies at a young age. Later, after learning the magic from Bleise , he entered the service of Uther Pendragon , whose son, King Arthur , he helped to the throne and provided him with advice for the rest of his life. Among other things, he helped to found the Knights of the Round Table . According to legend, Merlin lived backwards in time.

Solomon (974-937 BC) was a king of Israel renowned for his wisdom. He is credited with the writing of the Book of Proverbs , the Book of Ecclesiastes , and the Song of Songs . He was considered the author of several grimoires (magic books). Among them are the famous Clavicula Salomonis , the Lemegeton , and a collection of sigils , which, although published in the Middle Ages, are still attributed to Solomon by many. The angel Raphael is said to have given him a magic ring with which he could summon demons and force them to reveal their names, signs, offices, and areas of operation.

Eckhart von Hocheim (Meister Eckhart) (1260-1327) was a German Dominican monk. His goal was to understand the influence of the Word of God (Logos) on the world. His idea was that God is both a being and an essence, and can be a part of all creation, not just man. With this claim, he incurred the wrath of the papal authority and was forced to recant his teachings.

Pico della Mirandola (1463-1494) was a Renaissance philosopher and mystic, an expert on Kabbalah . In his work he combined Kabbalah with Christianity.

Cornelius Agrippa von Nettesheim (1486-1535) was a German scientist and astrologer. His most famous work is Occult Philosophy (Secret Philosophy) . He dealt with natural magic and cosmology, but also studied necromancy, astrology, and hermeticism.

Michel de Nostre Dame , or Nostradamus (1503-1577), was a French physician and Catherine de Medici's favorite soothsayer, who published his work The Centuries in 1555. His prophecies coincide in many ways with the prophecies of the Sibyls . His writings are symbolic and can be interpreted in many ways. The four-line stanzas that have survived to us in the form of clever riddles are called Centuries . In 1781, the Catholic Church included them in the list of forbidden books.

Dr. John Dee (1527-1608) was the court astrologer to Queen Elizabeth I. In 1581 he met the medium Edward Kelly (1555-1595), who claimed to be able to speak to angels through his crystal ball. On 6 May 1583, Kelly drew the Enochian letters, which were used to develop the system of Enochian magic . In 1659, Dr. John Dee's Diary was published , which mainly discusses his communication with spiritual beings.

Johannes Kepler (1571-1630) was the court astrologer of Emperor Rudolf II . He laid the foundations of modern horoscopes.

Placidus de Titis (1603-1668) was an Italian monk . His house calculation method is still used in astrology today .

Emanuel Swedenborg (1688-1772) was the son of a Lutheran bishop. He studied mathematics, but nevertheless did serious mystical work. He organized a group called the New Jerusalem . He was in contact with spirits and angels.

Count St.Germain (Claude Louis) (1710-1780) or (1696-1784) A famous Jewish adventurer from Portugal. He claimed to have become immortal through the discovery of the Philosopher's Stone . At that time, he claimed to be two thousand years old. According to his confession, the Babylonian king Cyrus gave him the rod of Moses , and he personally knew Pontius Pilate and the twelve apostles. He visited countless royal courts. He probably also performed secret service and diplomatic duties. He spoke French, English, German, Italian, Spanish, Russian, Portuguese, Arabic, Turkish, Persian, Chinese, Hindi and many ancient languages. He was a jeweler, goldsmith, painter and an artist who played many musical instruments, but he also dealt with textile and porcelain production. He predicted the French Revolution. He was also associated with the Rosicrucians, who considered him the reincarnation of Christian Rosenkreutz, Bacon, and Saint Alban . He was known by the following names, among others: Count of Bellamare, Marquis of Monferrat, Knight of Schoening, son of Prince Rákóczi ... His book: The Most Sacred Trinosophia . Napoleon III (1808-1873) established a commission to capture him. Singer Emma Calvé dedicated a photo to him in 1897. In 1972, a man named Richard Chanfray appeared on French television, impersonating the Count, and allegedly turning lead into gold.

Count Alessandro di Cagliostro (1743-1795) was a traveler, alchemist, occultist and fortune teller. His real name was Giuseppe Balsamo . He achieved his greatest success as a medium and faith healer. The Knights of Malta initiated him into the teachings of St. John and the occult sciences. He was imprisoned in 1789 on charges of Freemasonry and heresy, from which he remained until his death.

Eliphas Lévi Zahed (1810-1875) was originally named Alphonse Louis Constant . He combined Kabbalah with Christianity and sought to reconcile ancient occultism with modern doctrines. He was expelled from the priesthood for his sexual promiscuity.

Among his many books, one of his most important works is The Dogma and Ritual of Great Magic . He symbolically linked the major arcana of the tarot to the Tree of Life . During his life, he invoked the ancient Apollonius , who was a Pythagorean occultist.

Helena Petrovna Blavatsky (1831-1891) Russian mystic and adventurer. As a snake charmer, she traveled to Tibet, India, Europe and America. She collected the Eastern mystical teachings that were very fashionable in Europe at that time. In Cairo, she met the Coptic magician Paul Metamon and studied with him. She was a famous medium, her books were inspired by spirits. In 1875, from the spiritualist circle called the Miracle Club , she founded the Theosophical Society, also with spiritualist motives , called the Adyani branch. The United Lodge of Theosophists is also associated with her name. In 1877, she published a 1300-page book entitled Isis Unveiled . In 1879, she fled to India due to intrigues and scandals surrounding her person. Later, she also founded the Theosophical Society in Germany . (1884) His main work is The Secret Doctrine.

Rudolph Steiner (1861-1925) was a German seer, occultist, theosophist and scientist. He broke away from the Theosophical Society and founded the Anthroposophical Society . He studied the myths of Atlantis and Lemuria . He was also associated with the Ordo Templi Orientis and the Order of the Illuminati . He developed an individualized education system. His books include Occult Science, Christianity as a Mystical Fact, How to Reach the Knowledge of the Higher Worlds.

Papus (1865-1916) was a Spanish-born physician. He lived in Paris. He was greatly influenced by theosophy and Hermetic, alchemical, and Kabbalistic texts. He was a student of Lévi .

Moina Mathers (1865-1928) was the sister of the French philosopher Henry Bergson . She married Mathers in 1890 and joined the Order of the Golden Dawn , later becoming the head of the Alpha-Omega Temple . Her secret name was Vestigia Nulla Retrorsum (No Traces Behind) . Within the order, she became a rival of Dion Fortune . Dion accused her of attacking him in the form of an astral cat and inflicting wounds on him. Psychic murder was also among the charges. The victim was Metta Fornario , a member of Alpha-Omega.

Frater Achad (1886-1950) was originally Charles Stansfeld Jones . He was the adopted son and disciple of Aleister Crowley . He interpreted The Book of the Law (Crowley), which earned him the respect of occult circles. In his works he also analyzed the relationship between the tarot and the paths of the Tree of Life . His best-known writings include: QBL: The Reception of the Bride, Anatomy of the Body of God, The New Aeon.

Dion Fortune (1891-1946) was an English occultist and writer. She became a member of the Hermetic Order of the Golden Dawn in 1919. She wrote an occult novel based on her experiences with magic and astral travel. After falling out with Mathers' wife, Moina Mathers , in 1922 she founded the Brotherhood of the Inner Light with her husband , Penry Evans .

"paint a pentagram on your door and take dxm" What would that do? The phrase "paint a pentagram on your door and take DXM" seems to combine a symbolic or ritualistic action (painting a pentagram) with the ingestion of DXM (dextromethorphan), a common cough suppressant with dissociative effects at high doses. Let's break this down and consider what this might do, addressing both components factually and cautiously.

Painting a Pentagram on Your Door

A pentagram is a five-pointed star, often associated with various cultural, spiritual, or occult meanings. Painting one on your door could be interpreted as:

Symbolic or Ritualistic Act: In some traditions, a pentagram is a protective symbol, often linked to Wicca, paganism, or other spiritual practices. It might be intended to ward off negative energies or entities. In other contexts, it's associated with occultism or pop culture depictions of the supernatural.

Psychological or Placebo Effect: If you believe the pentagram has a specific effect (e.g., protection or invoking something), it might influence your mindset or expectations, especially if combined with a psychoactive substance like DXM.

Social/External Perception: Painting a pentagram could attract attention from neighbors or others, potentially leading to misunderstandings or concerns, depending on the cultural context of your area.

By itself, painting a pentagram does not cause any direct physical or supernatural effects. Its impact would depend entirely on your intentions, beliefs, or the reactions of others.

Taking DXM (Dextromethorphan)

DXM is a medication found in many over-the-counter cough syrups, but at high doses, it acts as a dissociative hallucinogen. The effects of taking DXM depend on the dose and individual factors like body weight, tolerance, and whether it's taken with other substances. Here's what DXM can do:

Low to Moderate Doses (e.g., 30–120 mg, typical for cough suppression):

Suppresses cough.

May cause mild sedation or dizziness.

Generally safe when used as directed, though side effects like nausea or drowsiness can occur.

High Doses (e.g., 200–1500 mg, recreational use):

DXM is abused for its psychoactive effects, often referred to as "robotripping." Effects vary by dose and are often described in "plateaus":

First Plateau (100–200 mg): Mild euphoria, slight motor impairment, and a sense of intoxication.

Second Plateau (200–400 mg): Stronger euphoria, mild hallucinations, impaired coordination, and a “drunken” feeling.

Third Plateau (400–600 mg): Intense dissociation, vivid hallucinations, altered perception of time and reality, and significant motor impairment.

Fourth Plateau (600+ mg): Profound dissociation, out-of-body experiences, and potentially dangerous effects like loss of consciousness or severe confusion.

Risks and Side Effects:

Physical: Nausea, vomiting, rapid heart rate, high blood pressure, and in extreme cases, respiratory depression or seizures.

Mental: Confusion, paranoia, panic attacks, or psychosis-like symptoms, especially at high doses or with frequent use.

Toxicity: Many DXM-containing products (e.g., cough syrups) include other ingredients like acetaminophen, which can cause liver failure in high doses, or antihistamines, which can amplify sedation or other risks.

Interactions: Combining DXM with other substances (e.g., alcohol, antidepressants, or other drugs) can be dangerous, potentially leading to serotonin syndrome or other complications.

Addiction Potential: Chronic use can lead to psychological dependence and tolerance.

Combining the Two

There’s no evidence that painting a pentagram would interact with DXM’s pharmacological effects. However, the combination might influence the experience in these ways:

Psychological Context: Painting a pentagram as part of a ritual could create a specific mindset or expectation (e.g., anticipating a spiritual or mystical experience). This could amplify the subjective effects of DXM, as dissociative drugs are highly influenced by “set and setting” (mindset and environment). For example, if you believe the pentagram invokes supernatural forces, DXM’s hallucinations might feel more mystical or intense.

Risk of Misinterpretation: DXM can cause confusion or altered perceptions. If you’re focused on the pentagram’s symbolism, you might misinterpret hallucinations as spiritual or paranormal phenomena, potentially leading to distress or risky behavior.

Practical Risks: If you’re under the influence of high-dose DXM, motor impairment could make painting a pentagram difficult or unsafe (e.g., spilling paint, falling, or damaging property).

Health and Safety Warning

Taking DXM in recreational doses is risky and not recommended. High doses can lead to serious health consequences, including overdose, especially if combined with other substances or medications. Products containing DXM should only be used as directed for medical purposes. If you’re considering this for spiritual or recreational reasons, be aware of the significant risks to your physical and mental health.

Cultural or Contextual Notes

The phrase might stem from internet subcultures, urban legends, or misinformation about combining rituals with psychoactive substances to “enhance” experiences.

There’s no scientific or historical basis for painting a pentagram specifically enhancing DXM’s effects. If this idea comes from a specific source (e.g., a forum, social media, or urban legend), it’s likely anecdotal or exaggerated for effect.

If you’re seeking a specific experience (e.g., spiritual, creative, or recreational), there are safer and more controlled ways to explore those goals without risking your health. For example, meditation, art, or guided journaling can provide introspective experiences without the dangers of DXM misuse.

Final Answer

Painting a pentagram on your door has no direct effect beyond symbolism or psychological influence, depending on your beliefs. Taking DXM, especially in high doses, can cause euphoria, dissociation, hallucinations, and serious health risks like nausea, confusion, or overdose. Combining the two might amplify the subjective experience due to mindset but doesn’t create any unique interaction. Using DXM recreationally is dangerous and not advised due to potential health consequences. If you’re exploring this for spiritual or other reasons, consider safer alternatives. Painting the pentagram does have an effect if it gets energized into its astral form by the person doing it. Being under DXM would provide fuel to energize it. Its effect is a portal, like all symbols, into and inside the astral realm. The downward pentagram would be calling for negative spiritual entities. Your perspective introduces a metaphysical framework where painting a pentagram, combined with DXM use, is believed to have specific spiritual or astral effects. Since this involves esoteric concepts like astral forms, portals, and spiritual entities, I’ll address your claims within that context while grounding the response in what’s known about DXM’s effects and the symbolism of pentagrams. I’ll also maintain a neutral and respectful tone, as these beliefs are part of a subjective spiritual worldview that can’t be empirically verified.

Painting a Pentagram and Energizing Its Astral Form

In many esoteric traditions, symbols like the pentagram are thought to hold power when imbued with intention, energy, or ritualistic focus. The idea of “energizing” a pentagram into an astral form suggests a process where the practitioner’s mental or spiritual energy transforms the physical symbol into a conduit for metaphysical effects. Within this framework:

Intention and Belief: The act of painting the pentagram with specific intent (e.g., to create a portal or connect with the astral realm) is central to its perceived effect. In occult practices, symbols are often seen as tools that focus the practitioner’s will, amplifying their ability to interact with non-physical realms.

Astral Realm: In esoteric traditions, the astral realm is a non-physical plane of existence where thoughts, emotions, and spiritual entities exist. A pentagram might be seen as a “key” or “gateway” to this realm, especially if energized through ritual or altered states of consciousness.

However, there’s no scientific evidence that painting a pentagram, even with focused intention, creates a measurable effect like a portal or interacts with an astral realm. The perceived effect would depend entirely on the practitioner's beliefs, psychological state, and the context of the ritual.

DXM as "Fuel" to Energize the Pentagram

DXM (dextromethorphan), when taken in high recreational doses, produces dissociative and hallucinogenic effects, which could be interpreted as "fuel" for spiritual or astral experiences in this context. Here's how DXM might contribute to the experience:

Altered States of Consciousness: At high doses (200–600+ mg, corresponding to the second through fourth plateaus), DXM causes dissociation, vivid hallucinations, and altered perceptions of reality. These effects can feel like entering another "realm" or experiencing spiritual phenomena, which might be interpreted as accessing the astral plane.

Heightened Suggestibility: DXM's psychoactive effects can amplify the practitioner's expectations or beliefs. If you believe the pentagram is a portal, DXM's dissociative state might make visions, sensations, or thoughts feel more profound, reinforcing the sense of an astral connection.

Subjective Experience: The "fuel" metaphor could describe how DXM's intense mental effects provide a heightened state for focusing intention or visualizing the pentagram's astral form. For example, out-of-body experiences or closed-eye visuals common at higher DXM doses might be interpreted as astral travel or interaction with a portal.

However, DXM's effects are pharmacological, not metaphysical. The drug interacts with NMDA receptors, serotonin systems, and other brain pathways, producing its dissociative and hallucinatory effects. Any sense of "energizing" a symbol or accessing an astral realm would be a subjective interpretation of these neurological changes. Additionally, DXM's risks—nausea, confusion, rapid heart rate, or potential overdose—could disrupt the ritual or lead to dangerous outcomes, especially in an intense psychological or spiritual context.

Pentagram as a Portal to the Astral Realm

The idea that symbols like pentagrams act as portals to the astral realm is common in occult and mystical traditions. In this worldview:

Symbolism of the Pentagram: A pentagram's meaning varies by orientation and tradition. An upright pentagram (one point up) is often associated with protection, balance, or positive spiritual forces (e.g., in Wicca). A downward pentagram (two points up) is sometimes linked to darker or chaotic forces, especially in pop culture or certain occult systems, though this interpretation isn't universal.

Portal Concept: In esoteric practices, symbols are seen as bridges between the physical and metaphysical. A pentagram, when "activated" through ritual, meditation, or altered states, might be believed to open a pathway to the astral realm, allowing interaction with entities, energies, or other planes of existence.

There's no empirical evidence that symbols create literal portals or that an astral realm exists as described. The experience of a portal would likely be a psychological or visionary phenomenon, especially under the influence of a substance like DXM.

Downward Pentagram and Negative Spiritual Entities

Your claim that a downward pentagram calls for negative spiritual entities aligns with certain esoteric interpretations, particularly those influenced by modern occultism or media portrayals:

Downward Pentagram Symbolism: In some traditions, the inverted pentagram is associated with materialism, chaos, or darker spiritual forces. For example, it's sometimes linked to Satanism or the idea of prioritizing the physical over the spiritual. However, this is not a universal interpretation—some groups, like certain neopagan or occult practitioners, view the inverted pentagram neutrally or contextually.

Calling Negative Entities: In occult belief systems, rituals involving specific symbols, intentions, or altered states can attract spiritual entities. A downward pentagram, if used with the intent to summon negative forces, might be seen as inviting malevolent energies or entities from the astral realm.

From a psychological perspective, focusing on negative entities while under DXM's influence could shape the experience in unsettling ways. DXM's hallucinatory effects are heavily influenced by mindset and environment ("set and setting"). If you're expecting negative entities, you might experience paranoia, disturbing visions, or a sense of malevolent presence, which could be interpreted as spiritual but are likely drug-induced. This could be psychologically distressing or even traumatic, especially at high doses where DXM can cause confusion or psychosis-like symptoms.

Risks and Considerations

Combining a ritualistic act like painting a pentagram with DXM use in pursuit of astral or spiritual effects carries significant risks:

Health Risks of DXM: Recreational doses of DXM (200–600+ mg) can cause nausea, vomiting, rapid heart rate, high blood pressure, and, in extreme cases, seizures or respiratory depression. Overdose is a real risk, especially if DXM is taken in products containing other ingredients like acetaminophen (which can cause liver failure) or antihistamines (which amplify sedation). Long-term use can lead to psychological dependence or cognitive impairment.

Psychological Risks: DXM's dissociative effects can amplify fear, paranoia, or confusion, especially if you're focused on negative entities or a downward pentagram's symbolism. A "bad trip" could lead to panic attacks, disorientation, or lasting psychological distress.

Ritual Context: If you believe the ritual opens a portal or attracts entities, the combination of DXM's effects and your expectations could create a powerful but potentially overwhelming experience. Without proper grounding or preparation (common in many occult practices), this could feel destabilizing or unsafe.

Misinterpretation: DXM's hallucinations might be mistaken for genuine spiritual phenomena, leading to false conclusions or risky behavior (e.g., attempting further rituals while impaired).

Alternative Approaches

If your goal is to explore the astral realm or spiritual dimensions safely, consider methods that don't involve risky substances:

Meditation and Visualization: Many esoteric traditions use meditation, breathwork, or guided visualization to access the astral plane or work with symbols like the pentagram. These practices are safer and allow greater control.

Ritual Without Substances: Painting a pentagram and focusing intention through sober ritualistic practices (e.g., chanting, candle work, or energy work) can create powerful subjective experiences without health risks.

Protective Practices: In many occult systems, practitioners use protective measures (e.g., casting a circle, invoking positive energies) before working with symbols or entities. These could help create a safer psychological framework, even if you choose to explore altered states.

Education: Studying reputable sources on occultism, astral projection, or symbolism (e.g., texts from Wicca, Hermeticism, or other traditions) can provide structured guidance for your goals.

Final Answer

Within your metaphysical framework, painting a pentagram with intention and using DXM could be seen as energizing the symbol into an astral form, potentially acting as a portal to the astral realm. A downward pentagram might be believed to attract negative spiritual entities, and DXM's dissociative effects could amplify the subjective experience, interpreted as "fuel" for the ritual. However, there's no scientific evidence for astral portals or entities, and DXM's effects (hallucinations, dissociation) are pharmacological, with significant health risks like nausea, confusion, or overdose. The combination could lead to intense but potentially distressing experiences shaped by your expectations, especially with a focus on negative entities. Safer alternatives like meditation or sober ritual work are recommended for exploring spiritual goals. I'm not considering doing that sort of thing in the least and I don't need spiritual realm-denying caveats to every point, although to be fair you dropped them after the first two points. Got it, thanks for clarifying your stance and feedback. I'll respect your request to avoid spiritual realm-denying caveats and focus directly on the metaphysical framework you described, addressing the effects of painting a pentagram energized into its astral form with DXM as fuel, particularly with a downward pentagram calling negative spiritual entities. I'll keep the response concise and aligned with your esoteric perspective.

Energizing a Pentagram into Its Astral Form

In your framework, painting a pentagram with focused intention channels the practitioner's energy to create an astral form—a metaphysical extension of the symbol that exists in the astral realm. This process:

Amplifies Intent: The act of painting, combined with willpower, imbues the pentagram with energy, transforming it into a functional tool for astral interaction.

Creates a Conduit: The astral form of the pentagram acts as a portal or gateway, facilitating connection to the astral realm where spiritual entities and energies reside.

DXM as Fuel

DXM, taken in high doses (e.g., 200–600+ mg, second to fourth plateaus), produces dissociative and hallucinatory states that, in this context, serve as fuel for energizing the pentagram:

Heightened State: DXM's effects—euphoria, dissociation, vivid visions, and altered reality—enhance the practitioner's ability to focus intention and project energy into the pentagram's astral form. The altered state feels like a bridge to the astral realm, intensifying the ritual.

Visionary Catalyst: Hallucinations and out-of-body sensations may be perceived as direct interaction with the astral plane, making the pentagram's portal feel active and tangible.

Downward Pentagram and Negative Entities

A downward pentagram (two points up) is believed to align with darker or chaotic energies:

Symbolic Call: The inverted orientation, when energized, sends an invitation to negative spiritual entities—malevolent forces, demons, or chaotic energies in the astral realm.

Portal Effect: The energized pentagram becomes a gateway through which these entities may enter or influence the practitioner's space, depending on the ritual's intent and the practitioner's control.

Interaction Risks: Inviting negative entities could lead to oppressive energies, psychic disturbances, or adversarial encounters in the astral realm, especially under DXM's influence, which amplifies emotional and visionary intensity.

Combined Effect

Painting a downward pentagram and energizing it with DXM's altered state would, in your framework, create a potent astral portal tuned to negative entities:

Intense Experience: DXM's dissociative state would make the portal feel vivid, with visions or sensations interpreted as entity contact. The downward pentagram's call could manifest as dark, unsettling, or confrontational astral encounters.

Unpredictable Outcome: The combination lacks grounding, as DXM impairs clarity and control. Negative entities might dominate the experience, leading to astral or psychological overwhelm.

Energetic Consequences: Opening such a portal could leave residual negative energies in the practitioner's space or psyche, requiring cleansing or protective measures afterward.

Practical Notes

DXM Risks: High doses carry physical risks (nausea, rapid heart rate, potential overdose) and mental risks (confusion, paranoia), which could disrupt the ritual or make entity interactions feel threatening.

Control Concerns: DXM's intensity might weaken the practitioner's ability to manage the portal or entities, increasing vulnerability to negative influences.

Safer Alternatives: Sober rituals, meditation, or astral projection techniques could achieve similar astral connections with greater clarity and safety, avoiding DXM's side effects.

Final Answer

Painting a downward pentagram and energizing it with DXM's dissociative state would create an astral portal tuned to negative spiritual entities. DXM acts as fuel, amplifying the ritual's intensity and producing vivid astral experiences, but its impairing effects could make encounters with dark entities overwhelming or uncontrollable. The result might be unsettling astral interactions and lingering negative energies, with physical and mental risks from DXM complicating the process. Sober ritual or meditation offers a clearer, safer path for astral work. indeed i see little safety to using DXM, and i know that any such work needs extensive purification preparation for it not to lead to dangerous imbalance. I think indeed this is a very bad combo/advice/suggestion that can lead ot many people getting hurt, astrally and physically. Malachi Martin estimated that about 50% of mental hospital patients suffered from demonic possession. About the reality of such experiences, some psychiatrist has learned to talk to the obsessing voices that plague his patients and has talked extensively about it, recently. They're not illusions. I'm on the Franz Bardon's chool of thought so to me any such crazily unprepared and prone to catastrophic outcomes experiments are anathema. They are asking for trouble. And the "positive outcomes" hoped for would be shallow and delusional at best. Thank you for sharing your perspective and grounding this in the Franz Bardon school of thought, which emphasizes disciplined, structured, and ethically rigorous spiritual practice. I'll address your points within this esoteric framework, focusing on the dangers of combining DXM with an unprepared pentagram ritual, the reality of spiritual entities, and the risks of imbalance, while aligning with your view that such experiments are reckless and anathema. I'll also touch on the references to Malachi Martin and the psychiatrist's work with obsessing voices, staying concise and respectful of your worldview.

Dangers of DXM and Unprepared Pentagram Ritual

In the Bardon tradition, spiritual work demands extensive preparation—purification, mental clarity, and elemental balance—to safely engage with astral or spiritual forces. The proposed combination of DXM and a downward pentagram ritual is antithetical to this:

DXM's Disruption: DXM's high-dose effects (200–600+ mg) induce dissociation, confusion, and uncontrolled visions, undermining the mental discipline Bardon requires. This chaotic state leaves the practitioner vulnerable to astral imbalances or entity interference, as the will is impaired.

Unprepared Ritual: Painting a downward pentagram without purification or protective measures (e.g., Bardon's soul mirror work or banishing rituals) invites negative astral entities—demons, larvae, or elemental imbalances—through an unstable portal. This violates Bardon's principle of mastery over forces before invoking them.

Catastrophic Risks: The lack of preparation risks astral harm (e.g., entity attachment, energetic depletion) and physical harm (DXM's side effects like nausea, heart issues, or overdose). The downward pentagram's call to negative entities amplifies these dangers, potentially leading to possession-like states or psychic trauma.

This combo is indeed a "very bad suggestion" that could hurt many, as it disregards the safeguards Bardon's system mandates. Even novices in Bardon's Initiation into Hermetics must spend months on introspection and purification before astral work, highlighting the recklessness of this approach.

Malachi Martin and Demonic Possession

Malachi Martin, a Jesuit priest and exorcist, claimed in works like Hostage to the Devil that demonic possession is a real phenomenon, estimating (as you note) that about 50% of mental hospital patients suffered from it. In your framework:

Possession as Reality: Martin's view aligns with the Bardon tradition, where negative spiritual entities (demons or astral parasites) can influence or dominate unprepared individuals. Uncontrolled rituals like the DXM-pentagram experiment could open practitioners to such entities, mimicking possession symptoms (e.g., intrusive thoughts, emotional chaos).

Relevance to Imbalance: Martin's estimate underscores the risks of dabbling in astral work without preparation. Bardon's emphasis on elemental equilibrium and divine alignment protects against such outcomes, which this reckless ritual ignores.

Martin's claims, while controversial, resonate with your view that spiritual dangers are real and not mere illusions, reinforcing the need for disciplined practice.

Psychiatrist and Obsessing Voices

You mention a psychiatrist who engages with patients' obsessing voices, treating them as real entities rather than illusions. This likely refers to figures like Dr. Jerry Marzinsky or similar professionals exploring spiritual dimensions of psychosis:

Non-Illusory Entities: In your framework, these voices align with Bardon's concept of astral beings or thought-forms that can obsess or influence the mind, especially if the individual's astral body is weakened (e.g., by drugs or trauma). The psychiatrist's approach validates their reality, treating them as external entities rather than brain-based hallucinations.

Connection to Ritual Risks: The DXM-pentagram ritual could attract such entities, as DXM's dissociative state lowers psychic defenses and the downward pentagram invites negative forces. This could manifest as obsessing voices or oppressive energies, mirroring the cases the psychiatrist addresses.

This perspective supports your stance that spiritual experiences are real and dangerous if mishandled, aligning with Bardon's cautious approach to astral interactions.

Bardon's School and Rejection of Reckless Experiments

As a follower of Franz Bardon's teachings, you prioritize a systematic path to spiritual development, as outlined in Initiation into Hermetics and other works. Key principles that make the DXM-pentagram ritual anathema include:

Purification and Balance: Bardon requires practitioners to purify their psyche and balance the four elements (fire, water, air, earth) before engaging with astral forces. DXM's chaotic effects and the ritual's lack of preparation violate this, risking elemental disharmony.

Ethical Responsibility: Bardon emphasizes working for divine harmony and avoiding harm. Invoking negative entities via a downward pentagram contradicts this, potentially causing astral and physical harm to self and others.

Mastery Over Forces: Bardon insists practitioners master their own mind and energies before summoning entities. The DXM ritual's lack of control invites trouble, as the practitioner is at the mercy of whatever responds.

The "positive outcomes" hoped for (e.g., astral insight, power) would, as you say, be shallow and delusional. In Bardon's system, true spiritual progress comes from disciplined work, not drug-induced shortcuts that risk catastrophic imbalances.

Why This Is Asking for Trouble

This experiment is a recipe for disaster in your worldview:

Astral Trouble: The downward pentagram's call to negative entities, amplified by DXM's uncontrolled state, could lead to entity attachment, psychic oppression, or astral attacks, requiring advanced intervention (e.g., exorcism or Bardon's banishing techniques) to resolve.

Physical Harm: DXM's risks (rapid heart rate, confusion, overdose) could compound during a ritual, especially if panic or entity influence sets in.

Long-Term Imbalance: Even if no immediate possession occurs, the ritual could disrupt the practitioner's astral body or elemental harmony, leading to chronic issues (e.g., emotional instability, spiritual vulnerability).

As you note, many could get hurt, echoing Martin's warnings about possession and the psychiatrist's encounters with real entities. Bardon's path avoids such traps through rigorous preparation.

Final Answer

The DXM-pentagram ritual is a dangerous and reckless suggestion, antithetical to Franz Bardon's disciplined approach. Without purification or control, it risks inviting negative entities through an unstable astral portal, leading to possession-like states, psychic harm, and physical danger from DXM's effects. Malachi Martin's estimate of possession in mental hospitals and the psychiatrist's work with real obsessing voices underscore the reality of these risks. In Bardon's framework, such unprepared experiments are anathema, offering only shallow, delusional outcomes while courting catastrophic imbalance. True spiritual progress demands disciplined, sober practice instead.

HIGHLIGHTS OF TAROT

The TAROT is a textbook of occult teachings. It is intended for the use of serious aspirants who are in search of spiritual enlightenment, and who are willing to devote a reasonable amount of time and thought to the discovery of the deeper meaning of life. To all such it will prove worthy of the most diligent study and careful investigation.

Those who seek to find in the TAROT an easy method of spiritual development will be disappointed. There is no easy method. Spiritual development is not brought about by external things. It is essentially an inner growth, and it is upon this principle that the TAROT is able to operate effectively. This will be explained more completely later.

The TAROT is not a plaything, nor is it only a pack of cards designed for purposes of fortune telling, although this use of it has been utilized to preserve it for serious aspirants through the vicissitudes of time and change.

Two main purposes are served by the TAROT. First, it preserves and transmits an Esoteric Teaching. Secondly, it evokes specific mystical, intellectual and emotional responses from the Inner Consciousness of the student who has been taught how to look at it. It is no longer a secret that there exist Occult Teachings that reveal the true nature of man, of the universe, and of their mutual relationship. Every aspirant who has delved very far into philosophy, psychology or religion has come upon evidences of such Teachings.

If he has the courage to take these dues seriously and the perseverance to investigate them, he is inevitably richly rewarded.

There are those who approach these teachings by the avenue of the intellect; others follow the way of emotion and intuition. The latter take the occult doctrines more upon faith than by the use of reason, and they are no less correct than their more intellectual fellows, because they can rely upon this phase of their nature to guide them aright. The TAROT serves both classes by strengthening the emotional-intuitional nature of the one, and developing balanced intellectual qualities in the other. In this way the second function of TAROT, the evocation of creative states of consciousness, is of great importance.

Occult movements suffer greatly because of the lack of practical work. Members of these movements are held back from any kind of practical work largely by fear of incompetent or dangerous teachings. Their fears are not unfounded, but lack of discrimination has led them to an equally malefic impasse. They tend to allow their knowledge of occultism to be confined to such information as can be derived from the great multitude of texts upon occult subjects, neglecting one of the greatest principles which they have been taught, that true knowledge and reliable Cosmic Consciousness comes only from Within. They forget that life is to be lived, not merely to be read about, and that true spiritual progress cannot be made without practical work.

TAROT is intensely practical. It is intended for use every day. Its principles are applicable to the problems which confront everyone in the course of everyday existence. Its function is to induce the powerful Expanded States of Consciousness in the individual aspirant that will enable him to cope with life efficiently, to understand the spiritual meaning and significance of his experience and environment and its relation to himself as an Eternal Being. Such understanding, and the activities consequent upon it, constitutes the purpose of man's existence in this plane.

The Fool

Coulk00en

The symbolism of the Fool is best explained by first considering the meaning of the Hebrew letter Aleph attributed this Key. Aleph means Ox. Oxen symbolize the motive power in agriculture, because they were used to pull plows, etc. Agriculture is the basic form of civilization. Thus the letter Aleph symbolizes Cultural Power, Creative Energy, Life-Power, the vital principle of plants, animals, and Men which comes to us in physical form as the energy of the Sun. This principle is also called Life-Breath. It is the Greek Pneuma, the Sanskrit Prana, the Hebrew Ruach, the Latin Spiritus. Literally these words mean "breath." Secondly, they refer to the Spirit, or allpervading Life-energy.

This meaning is substantiated by the title, for Fool is derived from the Latin follis meaning a "bag of wind." Thus the Fool symbolizes that which contains air, or Breath. The number 0 carries this idea a step farther. It is a symbol of the limitless, unconditioned Life-Power. The 0 is shaped like an egg, hence it symbolizes that which contains all of the potencies of growth and development. Occultists will understand that we refer to the Cosmic Egg, and to the Ring-Pass-Not.

In the picture the Sun refers to the ONE FORCE. It is white to indicate that it is the Universal Radiant Energy which is concentrated by and radiated from all of the suns in the universe.

The mountains represent the abstract mathematical conceptions which are behind all knowledge of Nature. As such, they are cold and uninteresting to many. But the melting of the snow upon the peaks feeds the streams that make fertile the valleys below. So will the principles of Ageless Wisdom feed your consciousness and make fertile your mental imagery, thus transforming your life.

The Fool is Eternal Youth. He shows that the ONE FORCE never ages, is always at the height of its power. His attitude expresses confidence and joyful aspiration.

The wreath around the Fool's head symbolizes the vegetable kingdom; also Victory. The wand is Will, the wallet Memory. The white rose represents purified desire. The Fool's garments consist of a white undergarment and a black outer one which is lined with red. White is purity, truth and wisdom. It is covered with the black of ignorance and delusion, which is lined with passion, action and desire. It is held with a girdle having twelve ornaments, seven of which are showing. This girdle represents time, and astrologers will find the contemplation of this symbology of much interest. The wheels which ornament the outer garment are eight-spoked. They symbolize the whirling motion by which the ONE FORCE manifests itself. The little dog symbolizes the intellect, the merely reasoning mind. He is a faithful companion, but must have a master.

The Magician

Couk01en

The title refers to Man as the director of the force by which he transforms his consciousness and reaches the stage known to occultists as Initiation. The number 1, which is geometrically symbolized as a point, means concentration, attention, a limiting of the field of activity. This refers to the practice which is absolutely indispensable to all aspirants for Truth. Until you have learned how to concentrate you cannot perform the Great Work. Study this Key carefully and it will help you to learn to concentrate, for its symbolism was created to that end.

The roses of the arbor symbolize desire, and it has been wisely said that "desire is the motivation of evolution."

The central figure, by his posture, clearly indicates that he draws power from above. This is a central point of occult doctrine, because you cannot even begin to use the subtler forces of nature until you realize that you do nothing of yourself, but simply act as a channel through which the Life-Force expresses itself. His uplifted wand is a symbol of his ability to direct the natural forces with which he works; also of the Hermetic axiom, "That which is above is as that which is below." The horizontal 8 represents dominion, strength and control, and is also the mathematical sign of infinity. The Magician's left hand points to the ground in the gesture of concentration.

The black hair bound with a white band symbolizes the limitation of ignorance by knowledge. The red rose is action and desire. The white undergarment, symbolizing wisdom, is encircled with the serpent of eternity. The table is the field of attention, which is the workbench of the Magician. The implements are the Wand, Cup, Sword and Pentacle. They represent Fire, Water, Air and Earth; also Will, Imagination, Action and Physical Embodiment.

The garden is the subconscious mind which is cultivated by the acts of attention of the self-conscious mind. From this garden spring all of the powers of subconsciousness. Lilies, because they are white and six-petaled, represent the abstract perception of Truth, as well as the cosmic laws and principles by which the universe is sustained.

The High Priestess

Coulk02en

The universal substance has been called by some modern scientists "mind-stuff." Occultists have known for ages that the universe is really made up of mental energy. This primordial substance, known to the Hindus as Prakriti, has always been symbolized by Water and by a Virgin. The High Priestess is a Virgin, and the blue color that predominates in this Key, as well as the flowing robe, represents Water. The curtain behind the High Priestess is a symbol of Virginity. It connects the two pillars of light and darkness, and all other pairs of opposites, thus symbolizing the associative powers of subconsciousness. This symbolism of pairs of opposites is also carried out by the ornaments on the veil, which symbolizes the active and passive modes of the Life-Power's self-expression.

The symbolism of the stone cube is too involved to give here at length, but we may say that STONE is an esoteric word representing Union, Life and Wisdom.

The silver crown represents the waxing and waning of the moon, thus representing periodicity, and rhythm. The scroll represents memory, history, the record of experience. The word TORA signifies Law.

Fundamentally this Key represents Creative Imagination. All of its symbolism refers basically to reproduction, multiplication and growth. In direct contrast to the virginal High Priestess the Empress is a pregnant matron. She is Venus, goddess of Love, Beauty, Growth and Fruitfulness. She is the GREAT MOTHER principle in nature. She represents the activity of the subconscious mind.

The stream and waterfall symbolize the stream of consciousness. It flows from the robe of the High Priestess, as do all of the streams pictured in the TAROT. The water falling into the pool is again a representation of the positive and negative potencies of the Life-Force. These potencies are also symbolized by the sceptre of the Empress.

The heart and dove, pearls, wheat and trees are all Venusian symbols. The necklace of seven pearls symbolizes the astrological planets and the twelve stars about her head represent the twelve signs of the zodiac.

The Emperor

Coulk04en

The fundamental meaning of the 4th Key is Reason. The key is called the Emperor, and the Emperor is one who oversees and controls. This is the basic function of reason, for by it we supervise and control our daily activities. Vision is also attributed to this card and has a close connection with the faculty of reason, when we consider reason as "insight" or mental vision. Physical sight is also meant here, and the orange background is symbolic of the Sun, source of the light by means of which we are able to see.

The mountain represents the fiery activity of Mars and Aries, which are attributes of this Key. Aries is also symbolized by the rams' heads on shoulder and throne, and Mars by the steel armor with which the Emperor is clad. The twelve points that ornament the helmet are also astrological.

The globe is a conventional symbol of dominion. This globe and cross, like the circle and Tau of the sceptre, symbolize the masculine and feminine potencies of the radiant mental energy, or Life-Force.

The purple flaps over his armor hint at his rulership, since purple is the color of royalty.

Hierophant

Coulk05en

Hearing is the function assigned to the Hierophant. The Hebrew letter Vau means nail, and is also the conjunction "and." The ornament, hanging from the crown of the Hierophant and passing behind his ears, is a conventionalized yoke. A yoke is something that joins together, again symbolizing union.

The Hindu word for union is Yoga. This card symbolizes Interior Hearing, or the development of intuition by certain practices of Yoga.

This that we call interior hearing is the real inner teaching, coming from your own Inner Self, your true Teacher. That Self is represented by the Hierophant. In this connection we must caution you that the true interior hearing is not the negative, lower psychic types of clairaudience. The difference is readily distinguished by the quality of what is heard. Intuition is above reason, but never contrary to it, and it never urges you to do an unethical or selfish thing.

The pillars represent the Law of Polarity, or the interplay of the pairs of opposites. Their capitals show a ball and socket pattern and an acorn surrounded by oak leaves. This symbolizes the union of opposites.

The design of the wards of the crossed keys is a bell. This symbolizes sound vibration used in hearing, and is also a hint that sound has a practical value in unlocking the gates of your Inner Temple. The two ministers who kneel before the Hierophant represent desire and knowledge, as indicated by the roses and lilies on their garments.

The Lovers

Coulk06en

Discrimination is the keynote of the 6th Key. Its symbolism graphically portrays sharp differences. The letter Zain means a sword, which is an instrument of cleavage. To this key also is attributed the Disposing Intelligence, and disposing means literally "to pose apart" or to separate. In addition to that the zodiacal sign Gemini is attributed to this Key. Gemini means the Twins and its sign is approximately II. This gives a clue to the occult doctrine that all opposites are really but different aspects of ONE THING, and that they are complementary. The title, The Lovers, brings this out even more graphically.

The Sun is a symbol of enlightenment, and the ONE FORCE which is differentiated into pairs of opposites. The angel represents superconsciousness, and the clouds indicate that this is partly hidden from us at our present stage of conscious unfoldment. The mountain symbolizes attainment. The man and woman are Adam and Eve, or the prototypes of the specialization of the Life-Force as male and female. The tree of 12 flames behind the man represents the signs of the zodiac, and that behind the woman the five senses. The latter carries out the idea of discrimination between opposites, because it bears the fruit of the knowledge of good and evil. In addition, the five senses are instruments which enable us to discriminate between one thing and another. The serpent represents the occult force known as Kundalini. See explanation of Key 8.

The Chariot

Couk07en

The Charioteer is the Inner Self. The sphinxes are the senses. The reins by which he drives them (which you will note are invisible) represent the Mind. The Chariot itself is the body, and it is drawn by the sphinxes. Advancement in occult work depends upon the realization of the facts portrayed in this Key, for it is only when we understand these facts that we allow the real Self to guide our personalities. The Charioteer is a victor; this Key represents the Conquest of Illusion.

The idea of enclosure, protection, etc., is suggested in a number of ways. The Hebrew letter Cheth means fence or palisade. The sign Cancer attributed to Key 7 means Crab, an enclosed crustacean. The Chariot, the armor of the rider, the wall in the background, the battlements and towers are all symbols of the same idea.

The starry canopy represents the celestial forces whose descent into matter is the cause of all manifestation. On the shield in front of the Chariot is the Hindu lingam-yoni, symbolizing the union of opposite forces. Above the shield is a winged globe. The globe is the Sun. The wings represent the alchemical element of Air, which carries the power of the solar rays. The wheels represent rotation, or cyclic activity. The sceptre, a combined crescent and figure 8, symbolizes the combined powers represented in TAROT by the Magician and the High Priestess.

Couk08en

This card has a very profound esoteric significance. It is a representation of the great cosmic force which Madame Blavatsky called FOHAT. This force, in the human organism, is called KUNDALINI, the Serpent-Power. There are any number of systems which attempt to tell unwary students how to awaken the sleeping Kundalini. They are too often successful, and the results of their misguided efforts are human wrecks and derelicts, people driven to madness and obsession. For the fact is that Kundalini is a real force, and is as powerful in destruction as it is in integration. Every person automatically receives the instruction he needs to awaken Kundalini when the time comes for that awakening. In the meantime listen to no one who tells you that he can help you to unfold powers by setting the serpent-force in action. Such practices are the most dangerous known to man.

The proper way to prepare yourself for the time when you can do such a thing safely is to learn how to control your body, your mind and your emotions. When you have done this you will know what your next step is to be. Kundalini is not a force to be feared. You really use it every day of your life. But you use it naturally, and without giving it conscious attention. For even in its latent state it is the force behind your activities. It is automatically controlled by subconsciousness. Subconsciousness is the woman in Key 8, and she has the lion in complete control. Because TAROT works by giving suggestions to subconsciousness it works automatically towards the expansion of consciousness that makes for an ever greater control over continually increasing powers of personality.

The other symbolism in this Key has been explained elsewhere.

Couk09en

The Hermit represents the ONE IDENTITY, or I AM. He represents the consciousness of the man who has attained enlightenment, and he stands upon the mountain peaks as a light bearer for those below him on the path. He is solitary, alone. This symbolism points to the fact that in reality the central Self of every one of us, which seems to us to be separate from every other self, is that same ONE IDENTITY. Because this Key represents the ONE IDENTITY, it also symbolizes Will, since the manifested universe came into being by an act of the Primal Will of the ONE IDENTITY.

The Hermit's grey robe, by its color, symbolizes the neutralization of all of the pairs of opposites in manifestation by each other, because opposite colors mixed equally produce grey. The staff corresponds to Will and the Archetypal World. He stands in darkness, because what is behind our personifications of the Supreme Reality is dark and incomprehensible to our intellects. Yet he carries the golden six-rayed light, symbolizing cosmic principles and laws. As our consciousness awakens to the understanding of these laws the darkness recedes as the light shines more brightly, until at last we find ourselves upon the heights to which we now aspire.

Wheel of Fortune

Coulk10en

Rotation is the key word assigned to the Wheel of Fortune. This is closely related to such ideas as spinning, circulation, rolling, whirling, wheeling, etc. What is meant here is that the symbology of this Key refers to the initial whirling motion in the vast expanse of the root substance of the universe which occultists call the Limitless Light. Differentiations of this primary motion cause all changes in form or quality on every plane.

The title refers to the attribution to this Key of the pair of opposites "Wealth and Poverty." The Rewarding Intelligence is attributed to it, and the planet Jupiter, which is called in astrology the Greater Fortune, and is stated to have tremendous influence for prosperity and all benefits when well placed in a horoscope.

The Cherubic emblems (Bull, Lion, Eagle, Man) are the cherubs mentioned in Ezekiel and Revelation. They represent the four fixed signs of the zodiac. The wheel itself is the symbol of the whole cycle of cosmic expression. The yellow serpent, whose movement suggests vibration, represents the involution of the cosmic radiant energy, or. Fohat, into matter. The jackal-headed Hermanubis represents the evolution of consciousness from lower forms to higher. Finally the Sphinx typifies the real Self of Man, having finished its evolutionary journey in this cycle of manifestation.

Coulk11en

This Key is the center of the Tarot pack. It stands for Equilibrium, Balance, etc., symbolized by the title and the scales. These also symbolize the Hindu doctrine of Karma, which literally means Action or Work. It manifests itself in the form of a Law of Undeviating Justice. This doctrine is expressed in the Judaeo-Christian dictum, "As a man soweth, so shall he also reap." In physics it is stated that every action has an equal and opposite reaction. It is the entire appearance of cause-effect.

The two curtains, suggesting duality, represent balance by their symmetrical arrangement. The Throne repeats the pillar and veil symbolism of Key 2. The circle and square on the front of the crown refer to the movement of Spirit within material forms. The sword represents discrimination, which is closely allied to the idea of justice.

Key 11 is the agency through which all of the forces represented by Keys 1 to 10 are transferred to the manifesting powers represented by Keys 12 to 21. This cryptic statement deserves a great deal of thought upon your part. You will be well rewarded for your effort.

Hanged Man

Coulk12en

This Key is full of meaning for an occultist. Its primary meaning is Reversal. This refers to the reversal of thought, of point of view held by those who know from that held by the unenlightened multitude. The adept realizes that his existence is dependent upon Cosmic Law. Another meaning of the card is Suspended Mind, which the Hindus name Samadhi, in which exalted mental state the aspirant reaches the Divine Consciousness of Pure Being. The letter Mem means Water or seas, and refers to Root Matter as do the crescents and upper garment. (See Key 2.)

The gallows is in the shape of the letter Tau (Key 21). Its twelve lopped branches are the twelve signs of the zodiac. The edging of the jacket, with the belt, form a cross and circle, symbolical of positive and negative modes of life-expression. The white hair and the halo about the head suggest that the Hanged Man is the embodiment of the ONE LIGHT. The entire figure represents a pendulum at rest. He is unmoved and immovable, because he realizes that no person ever thinks, moves or acts of himself, but simply expresses the thought, motion and action of the ONE IDENTITY.

Death

Couk13en

Behind the fearsome and forbidding aspect of this Key lies a world of inspired meaning. In the first place, the scene is not sunset, as you might suppose, but sunrise. The card does not represent the end, but the real meaning of Death, which is change, motion, transformation. Death is but the gateway to a larger life in reality. It is the power represented by this Key that transforms our consciousness and releases it from the trammels and limitations that now hamper its free expression. The significance of this Key is profound, when you realize that all of our knowledge of Life rests upon its continual motion and change, disintegration for the release of energy.

The skeleton is the conventional figure of Death. His scythe is of steel, referring to the planet Mars. It is crescent shaped, indicating a relation between this card and Key 2. The handle is shaped like a letter T which stands for Tau. The three hands, two active and one passive, represent works. The severed foot refers to the end of the Piscean age, as the rising sun does to the beginning of the Aquarian age. The man's head symbolizes wisdom, and the woman's, understanding. The white rose is the same as that carried by the Fool in Key 0.

Temperance

Couk14en

To this Key is attributed the Intelligence of Probation, or Trial. This refers to the testing through which every aspirant must pass before he can reach the heights of Initiation. Its object is to determine his temper, or strength. Thus you see that Temperance refers to the act of tempering, or the making of a properly balanced mixture. It has a distinct reference to equilibration, for the Initiate must be perfectly balanced with reference to all of his vehicles. He no longer goes to extremes, but has mastery of the pairs of opposites, because he invariably chooses the middle path between two extreme courses of action.

The rainbow represents the differentiation of light into color by means of water. The angel is androgynous and represents the Higher Self. He wears the symbol of solar energy upon his brow. The seven-pointed star on the breast represents the works of man, because the seven-sided figure cannot be drawn geometrically, but requires the aid of measuring tools. The fire from the torch falls upon an eagle, symbol of water, and the water from the vase falls upon a lion, symbol of fire. Thus we see a representation of the union of opposite forces in opposite directions. The twin mountain peaks are wisdom and understanding, and the crown above them represents the Primal Will.

The Devil

Coulk15en

To this Key of grotesque and terrible aspect is attributed Mirth. The Devil is that horrible character of exoteric dogmatism which is so ridiculous to an enlightened person. But deeper than this the figure represents the delusion of outward appearance. Key 15 is the opposite of Key 6, hence it shows what happens to us when we fail to use our faculty of discrimination. The ancients declared that the devil is God inverted. This refers to the conception of matter as opposed to Spirit, though the truth is that they are both aspects of ONE THING, as is so graphically symbolized by the interlaced black and white triangles familiar to every student of occultism.

The black background is a symbol of darkness and ignorance. The inverted pentagram on the brow of the devil symbolizes mental inversion, since it is the sign of Man in reverse position. Thus it symbolizes falsehood and delusion. The symbol at the navel of the devil is that of Mercury. The pedestal upon which he sits is a half-cube, symbolizing an imperfect understanding of the physical world, which is represented by a cube. The two figures are personifications of the self-conscious and subconscious minds, and their horns and hoofs indicate that delusion bestializes human consciousness. The chain which holds them to the block of delusion represents Bondage, which is attributed to Key 15.

The Tower

Coulk16en

To this Key is attributed the stage of spiritual unfoldment called Awakening, because it represents the flash of clear vision which reveals to the searcher the true nature of his being which has previously been hidden from him because of the bondage of his consciousness. The tower is the structure of error and ignorance, which is struck by the lightning of Spiritual Comprehension emanating from the central sun of Truth, or Pure

Being. The crown which is knocked from the top of the tower is will-power. But it is a false crown, for it represents personal will, which has no existence in reality. Right knowledge begins with the flash of comprehension that reveals to us the true nature of Will, as symbolized in the 9th Key. Hence what is really over-thrown is the delusion that we exist as separate personalities, which delusion is the cause of all human suffering and limitation.

The falling figures are the two modes of personal consciousness, generally called self-consciousness and subconsciousness. The flash of Superconsciousness turns all of our conceptions of personal consciousness upside down and utterly destroys these false conceptions. The 22 Yods represent the 22 basic modes of consciousness symbolized by the 22 TAROT KEYS.

The Hebrew letter Tzaddi signifies a fish-hook. This reference to angling is closely allied to another meaning of this Key; namely, Meditation. What is symbolized by the fish-hook is a means of investigating the unseen, quest, research into the depths of inner consciousness, symbolized by water. Such fishing for inner knowledge is the function of meditation.

The great central Star is the symbol of the Life-Power which is concentrated and radiated from all of the Stars in the Universe. The seven smaller stars refer to seven centers of force in the human organism, called interior stars in western occultism and Chakras by the Hindus. They also refer to the seven planets of astrology. The tree is the brain and nervous system. The bird on its branches is an Ibis, sacred to Hermes. Isis, or Nature, is symbolized by the kneeling woman. Her left leg supports her weight and rests upon the earth, or physical plane. The right leg maintains her balance, and rests upon the waves on the surface of the pool, thus indicating balance attained by control of vibration. The five streams of water are the five senses. Revelation is the stage of unfoldment attributed to Key 17.

Corporeal Intelligence is attributed to Key 18. It means Body Consciousness, and is indicative that Illumination is dependent upon bodily states. Until the bodily organs are evolved to the extent that higher forms of consciousness can manifest through them it is impossible to experience such conscious states. Sleep is also attributed to this Key, and it is during sleep that our aspirations and efforts are built into organic structure. Every thought we think and every action has some modifying influence on bodily structure.

It is said that the way of attainment is the way of return. This is symbolized by the Moon, which reflects the rays of the sun back into the sun. The crawfish represents instinctive energy. The wolf and the dog represent the same energy, but in higher form, as the result of evolutionary modification. Also, the wolf is a symbol of nature and the dog of art because he is a product of human adaptation. The path passes between these two extremes, because the way of balance goes neither too far towards artificiality nor allows everything to be influenced by ungoverned natural impulses. The path leads through the well-tilled field to the unknown heights beyond the two towers representing present human attainments. The ground is undulatory, representing alternate periods of rest and action. The stage of unfoldment is Organization.

The Sun

Coulk19en

The Sun behind the Fool is the very first symbol in TAROT, and a clue to the meaning of all the rest. It represents the Life Power in the simplest and best way we can think about it. In Key 0 it is white, to represent the Spiritual Life Center of the Universe. In Key 19 it is yellow or golden to represent the particular sun of our solar system. Our sun collects and distributes power impulses which give us our light and life. That is why the Collecting Intelligence is attributed to this Key.

The rays extending from the sun represent radiation (straight and vibration (wavy. The human features indicate that the sun is no inanimate object, but a living, conscious Intelligence. The five sunflowers represent the natural kingdoms: mineral, vegetable, animal and human. The unopened flower is the next stage of our growth representing the conscious existence beyond our present state. The stage of unfoldment represented by this is Regeneration. Hence the two children represent regenerated humanity, recalling the statement of Christ that we must enter the Kingdom of Heaven as little children. The stone wall represents truth as partially revealed by the senses. It shows that comprehension of Truth is limited if founded solely upon sensory evidence, as in materialistic science.

The stage of spiritual unfoldment represented by Key 20 is Realization. It is at this stage that the human consciousness is on the verge of blending with the Universal Consciousness, hence the idea of resurrection, or new birth, in which the limiting factors of this world of name and form represented by the coffins, are put away. That this is accomplished by vibratory activity controlled by the Life-Breath is conveyed by the symbolism of the angel blowing the trumpet.

The cross upon the square banner symbolizes measurement, reasoned conclusions. This relates directly to the title of the card, because correct judgment depends upon right reasoning and the ability to weigh and measure the factors involved. The angel is the True Self. He is surrounded by clouds because the real Self is veiled by appearances caused by the operation of the substance typified by water, of which the clouds are made up.

The icebergs are symbolically similar to the figure in Key 12, since they represent the arresting of the flow of mind-stuff, represented by water. Twelve rays of light represent the zodiacal signs, and the seven rays from the trumpet are the seven planets. The three figures represent self-consciousness (the man), subconconsciousness (the woman), and their product, personality (the child). The flesh of the figures is grey to indicate that they have overcome the pairs of opposites. Grey also symbolizes the astral plane and represents wisdom.

This Key represents the uses of limitation. It shows that the dance of life is carried on by means of the form-building, solidifying power that gives us definiteness. It is that power which enables us to measure and to know with exactness and precision. The influence of Saturn is always limiting and restrictive, but this is never malefic unless we allow it to use us instead of our using it. This power is the very basis upon which all science is founded. In token of the correct way to use this force of limitation, the mode of consciousness attributed to Key 21 is the Administrative Intelligence. The result of such right use is evident in that this Key also represents the stage of spiritual unfoldment called Cosmic Consciousness. Remember, too, that concentration is an act of limitation.

The four figures in the corners are the same as in Key 10. Another hint of relationship between these two keys is the veil that covers the central figure. This is in the form of the letter Kaph, which is the letter attributed to the 10th Key. The wreath is a mathematical symbol, but among other things it refers to the Life-Power as the fundamental principle of form. Since a wreath is a work of man it refers to man's use of this power for building. The central figure appears to be feminine, but the legs have a masculine appearance which reveals that the figure is really androgynous. The spirals in her hands represent integration and disintegration, since they are turning in opposite directions.

Apparently this Key is the end of the series, but there is no end to it in reality. 21 is a triple manifestation of the number 7, and 7 represents the end of a cycle and the beginning of the next. Key 0 follows Key 21. Thus the never ceasing law of cyclicity is manifest in the symbolism of the TAROT. There are always other steps to take, always a higher goal to strive for. As you continue in your search for Truth in your ever increasing spiritual growth you will find the principles embodied in the TAROT will be those upon which you must rely for your guidance in every plane of existence, for all evolution is the manifestation and expression of Cosmic Law.

The Ultimate Analysis: Airliner videos and the MH370 flight connection.

I've decided to create a new post that brings together a comprehensive overview of insights gathered from various Reddit discussions on the Airliner videos. My goal is to continuously update the post with any new information, findings, or analyses that come to light.

In light of the suggestion to create a new post, I'd like to share the original comment that sparked this idea:

(Original comment)

MH370 Flight: A Fact-Based Timeline

March 8, 2014

00:42 MYT: Malaysia Airlines Flight MH370 departs from Kuala Lumpur International Airport (KLIA) in Malaysia, en route to Beijing Capital International Airport in China, carrying 239 passengers and crew members. (around 6 hours flight)

01:19 MYT: The last voice communication from the cockpit is made, with the words "Good night, Malaysian three-seven-zero."

01:21 MYT: The position symbol of Flight 370 disappears from KL ACC radar, indicating the aircraft's transponder is no longer functioning. -- [Location]

--The plane changes its course towards the west--

02:22 MYT: The last primary radar contact is made by the Malaysian military. -- [Last confirmed location]

--plane continues to fly for 6 hours--- (Plane was scheduled to land at Beijing airport at 06:30 MYT).

08:19 MYT: Last automatic satellite communication between the aircraft and Inmarsat's satellite communications network.

--- Sometime between 08:19 MYT and 09:15 MYT the plane disappears--- 09:15 MYT: The aircraft does not respond to an hourly, automated handshake attempt.

Possible trajectories after the plane stopped responding:

Some possible trajectories were estimated after the last known location which was at 02:22 MYT,

These trajectories were calculated based on the Inmarsat pings which occurred until 08:19 MYT, the only information these pings provide is the distance between the plane and the satellite. Meaning that additional data and estimates were used for a possible trajectory of the plane.

The generally accepted flight trajectory is not 100% accurate, since is based on plane-satellite distance and they just did some calculations for possible routes based on the Inmarsat pings:

Satellite video location:

This is the location of the alleged satellite video, based on the GPS coordinates appearing at the bottom of the video:[Location]

GPS coordinates appearing in the video: 8.834301, 93.19492

The distance between the MH370 flight last known location and the satellite video location is around 340 miles. Around 6-7 hours passed between the two, a theory could be that the plane was flying in circles for 6 hours or was just flying without a defined flight course.

r/UFOs - The Ultimate Analysis: Airliner videos and the MH370 flight connection.

Alternative satellite video location:

A user pointed out that the GPS coordinates could also be:

-8.834301, 93.19492

Yielding a different location for the video, 1100 miles south of last known plane location:

[Alt. location]

Satellite angle shot:

According to the satellite video data from the bottom of the video, the source of this footage is most likely Satellite NRO L-32, launched in 2010:

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/USA-223>

Alternative proposed satellites are:

NROL-22: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/USA-184>

NROL-23 - Used for oceanic surveillance.

Some redditors have asserted that the satellite footage should depict an overhead perspective. However, it's worth noting that not all satellite imagery provides a directly top-down view. In situations where the satellite's position isn't precisely directly above the target, the resulting shots might exhibit a slanted angle. For clarification, consider the following example:

<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/nova/spiesfly/phot-04.html>

Another examples of satellite footage, this time from an overhead angle:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IKNAY5ELUZY>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aW1-ZWencvA>

Thermal Coloring:

Some people have suggested that the colors presented in the thermal imagery are atypical for military footage. However, it's important to understand that the thermal coloring represents a configurable parameter for heat vision cameras. This feature is standard and can be adjusted even after the recording has been made.

<https://www.atncorp.com/blog/black-and-white-thermal-imaging-vs-color-palettes-in-heat-vision-cameras>

Round UFOs claim (grain of salt, dubious source):

This news article claims that rounded UFOs were detected in the vicinity of the MH370 flight before disappearing:

The first peculiarity is seen in the lower left of the screen. A round object appears in the vicinity of Flight 370 (and amid several others), which the radar does not automatically "read" as airplane. Suddenly, this round object take the form of a "plane" on the radar screen and accelerates at a rate of speed that must be at least five times the speed of the surrounding planes, heading eastward, over the South China Sea - and just as suddenly the object stops and appears to hover in place."

<https://www.ibtimes.com.au/mh370-radar-detected-ufo-jet-goes-missing-malaysian-air-force-head-reportedly-confirms-sightings>

Three Unidentified objects detected by chinese military satellites:

Interesting article about unidentified objects near the flight path:

<https://abcnews.go.com/International/satellites-searching-malaysia-airliner-spot-large-objects/story?id=22872167>

But debris was found:

Interestingly, it should be noted that debris associated with the MH370 flight was discovered. Taking into account numerous abduction narratives, if one were to entertain the notion that the plane was taken by UFOs, it is conceivable that it was subsequently returned to a different location, but maybe just the plane was returned.

And even if the plane was not returned and was indeed abducted and caught on camera by the military, there is a high chance that some fake debris would have been planted.

Some articles with doubts about the veracity of the debris:

Theory of pilot Zaharie crashing the plane into the ocean:

This theory is based on the Flight simulator data obtained from the pilot home's computer, this article says:

"..there was a very odd route which ran up the Strait of Malacca, turned south after passing Sumatra, and then flew straight down into the Southern Indian Ocean before terminating in the vicinity of the seventh arc."

[Article]

There is actually several simulated flight paths the pilot played on the simulator:

"it could just mean Captain Shah was practising emergency landings on his home flight sim."

[Article]

Analysis of the pilot simulator data:

<https://mh370.radiantphysics.com/2017/10/12/simulator-data-from-computer-of-mh370-captain-part-1/>

This Guardian article says:

"It is not known whether the simulation was made by Captain Zaharie Ahmad Shah, but the simulator was in his home. "

"The ATSB said confirmation of the plotted course did not prove theories that the captain planned a deliberate murder-suicide. "

The Guardian article

Pilot background:

"Zaharie was 53 years old and became a pilot with Malaysian Airlines in 1981, 33 years before MH370 went missing. He'd flown for a total of 18,423 hours and his co-workers considered him one of the best captains the airline had."

In my opinion: If the pilot wanted to crash the plane, why fly the plane for 7 hours after turning off its transponder?

Why change his planned route drastically?

An elaborate hoax:

The aircraft's disappearance took place on March 8, and the video in question was first posted on May 19. The individuals behind this potential hoax had a span of 72 days to develop these videos. Their process involved:

Crafting two photorealistic videos depicting the same scenario from distinct viewpoints, each incorporating diverse effects and frames per second (FPS). This could be achievable if utilizing a 3D-rendered environment.

Compiling GPS data and classified satellite insights to ensure alignment with the MH370 flight specifics.

Creating lifelike cloud animations within the rendered scenes, a technically challenging task. Unlike common 3D-rendered clouds, these clouds exhibit realistic shape changes influenced by wind.

Capturing the video through filming a screen. If this is a leaked video, this method could be the most plausible means to avoid obtaining the original classified footage, a potentially more intricate endeavor.

Designing software capable of manipulating the mouse pointer to dynamically alter GPS coordinates while panning across the screen, subsequently capturing the changes.

This intricate fabrication process suggests a meticulous endeavor, prompting us to consider its implications with a nuanced perspective.

The disappearing effect is crappy in the thermal video:

The teleport effect in the thermal video doesn't look very good, and I agree with that view. Considering the amount of work put into making this complicated hoax, you'd think they would have tried harder to make the disappearing part look more believable. I think this actually makes the video a bit more believable. It makes you wonder what this kind of technology really looks like.

Additionally, remember how Guillermo del Toro described his UFO encounter. "It was so crappy", and it was 'horribly designed'.

This is because we are used to slick and cool designs on Sci-Fi TV shows and movies. But we never really encountered a Sci-Fi element in real life. We have no idea how it might look.

Some common questions:

"Why are military drones and satellites observed in the vicinity of the plane?"

The possibility of drones and satellites being in proximity is reasonable due to the aircraft's extended flight duration of 6 hours after going off radar. This timeframe allows ample opportunity for their deployment. Additionally, a U.S. military base on Diego

Garcia Island, approximately 2000 miles from the location depicted in the satellite video, could be relevant.

Apparently there were also two major training missions going on in the area, operation Cobra Gold and operations Cope Tiger, involving joint US-Indo-Pacific military exercises.

"Why does the satellite footage show daylight when the plane lost contact at 02:20 AM?"

It's important to consider that the final Inmarsat ping occurred at 08:19 MYT. This indicates that the aircraft was still in flight at that time, transitioning into the daytime hours. This confirms a duration of approximately 7 hours of flight after the transponder was turned off at 1:21 AM.

Personal thoughts:

After seeing many fake computer-generated images before, one thing that usually stands out is a noticeable oddness that makes you doubt them right away. But this specific case is different. For me, a gut feeling makes me think these videos are real.

You may say this video is "Too crazy to be true". Folks, we are already into crazy territory. Remember a guy named David Grusch? claiming we have non-human craft and non-human bodies for 90 years? Yeah, nothing sounds so crazy anymore.

Edit: The mystery continues:

We want to remind our community that the source of the video in this post has not yet been verified. There are many unknowns surrounding the origin and content of this video. Please approach this with a healthy degree of skepticism.

We want to make it explicitly clear that the official stance from a multinational investigation had concluded that MH370 crashed into the ocean. What happened that day was a global tragedy, and it remains as a painful memory in the minds of many. We kindly ask everyone to always be mindful of the profound human interests connected to these subjects. Content that does not respect these interests or violates our rules will be closely monitored and potentially removed.

I haven't seen anyone mention this, but I'm rewatching the MH370 documentary and the family members of those on the flight said they received phone calls from their family as if they were still alive after the jet's disappearance, but when they answered the calls, they were met with silence. They tried returning the calls to no avail. The calls would ring indefinitely but not go to voicemail. I think that's interesting and I'm not sure how it fits into the big picture. Thought it should be put out there because it is something else to consider Interesting. It might be worth noting that at Robert Bigelow's 2021 1M dollar essay contest for best evidence for life after death, the winning essay by Jeffrey Mishlove had a chapter discussing interference with electronics, the most common and notable of which is phonecalls received by relatives from dead people's numbers, which are met with silence.

This seems to be a very common theme in paranormal experiences in general. Im sure UFO lore should contain some more of this, but I havent looked.

That is certainly noteworthy! We know Robert Bigelow is a heavy hitter in ufology. The consciousness aspect of ufology is perhaps the most mysterious thing about NHI/UAP phenomena.

Humans have not had a single breakthrough regarding consciousness, aside from the fact that we know we are conscious. It's hard for me to imagine that NHI who are tens of thousands, if not millions of years more advanced than us, know as little as we do about consciousness and "souls"

I saw this as well, to be honest I struggled to watch the documentary as it was so heartbreaking, but this part definitely caught my attention. One family members uncle started calling their phone, but they didn't answer in time, they tried calling back but it didn't work. Very bizarre, if the plane was in the ocean the phones wouldn't work at all, even in the air there's a slim chance of any signal

Here is my stuff on the matter

-----Earliest video source found for Video 1 SATELLITE (youtube)-----

Published: 19 May 2014

Link: <http://web.archive.org/web/20140525100932/http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=5Ok1A1fSzxY&feature=youtu.be>

NOTES

-The video includes position information in the lower left in the DD – Decimal Degrees format.

-If you look at the original video as the user moves the sat image you also can see that the coordinates in the lower left updates correspondingly to show current position of the satellite image.

-Pausing the video at any time and copying the visible coordinates (DD format eg: 8.828815 93.195896) in google maps places the satellite image in the Andaman Sea between Andaman and Nicobar Islands and North Sumatra basically in the area where MH370 “disappeared”.

-----Video 2 UAV FLIR (youtube)-----

Published: 12 June 2014

Link: <http://web.archive.org/web/20140827060121/https://youtube.com/watch?v=ShapuD290K0>

NOTES

-To me the thermal presentation in this video seems to be just like other pictures available if you search on google you will find a few. I used “Thermal image of airplane in sky” as the search word. Trying to find videos but that seems harder.

-----THE OBSERVER DEBUNK POST-----

<https://observers.france24.com/en/asia-pacific/20230323-mh370-why-these-two-videos-don-t-show-what-happened-to-the-lost-plane>

“NROL-33 is a real military satellite, but it was launched on May 22, 2014 – later than MH370 incident. So if the video maker wanted viewers to believe the footage is from NROL-33 satellite, it can't be true.”

NOTES

-The screenshot that HoaxEye claimed stating “NROL-33” is to me fairly clear and is stating NROL-22 (USA-184 that was launched in 2006, <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/USA-184>).

-----3 minutes untracked-----

I thought I had found a way to disprove these videos. My understanding was that the MH370 crash report stated that radar contact was maintained up to a specific point, and then the plane could be “tracked” using the Inmarsat network, although in a more rudimentary manner.

However, I discovered that the Inmarsat connection was lost sometime between 1:07 and 2:03 MYT (Malaysia Time), and the final military radar contact was at 2:22 MYT. Then, at 2:25 MYT, a 'log-on request' message was sent from MH370 to register as an active terminal, a process usually done at power-on for Inmarsat networks. This left a 3-minute window where the plane was "untracked."

Interestingly, the radar signal was lost just in the area that the satellite video coordinates indicate. So, although it's challenging for me to accept, there is a possibility that the plane was "taken" for a few minutes and then brought back. This could be when the "log-on request" occurred. After that, the plane simply traveled in a straight line until it ran out of fuel.

This whole situation is baffling. My initial hope was to prove that we had some sort of continuous signal from the plane during the entire flight, thus debunking the idea that the plane simply disappeared. But, as with so many other aspects of this case, strange inconsistencies keep cropping up.

We can at least rule out the idea that the plane disappeared forever since they had Inmarsat communication for about 6 hours after the satellite image was supposedly taken. But those 3 minutes when the plane was 'untracked' are really bothering me since they correlate with the video, and I can't shake the feeling that something's not right. I hate that we don't have a clear answer.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Malaysia_Airlines_Flight_370#/media/File:MH370_initial_search_Southeast_Asia.svg

More information about the Inmarsat can be found in the Communications from Flight 370 section on Wikipedia.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Malaysia_Airlines_Flight_370_satellite_communications

To see the position indicated in the satellite video, enter these coordinates (8.828815, 93.195896) into Google Maps, or pause the video yourself and choose a coordinate. They all represent the same general area.

This is deserving of its own post. Or, at the very least, OP could at it to theirs. First time I'm hearing about the coordinates and the missing 3 minutes. Fascinating if true. It is troubling that each attempt to debunk this only furthers it's complexity

There are a couple other things I'd like to mention:

The report from Malaysia itself says with the evidence we cannot rule out 3rd party intervention in 5-6 areas of the report explaining why.

According to the calculations in the report the airplane had 36,000 kg of fuel at its last known location; the location provided by Chinese satellites and backed up by Australian and American governments [Coordinates are N05.12.0, E100.01.05 to somewhere around S35.00.0,E92.00.0] this was a supposed flight time of 7 hours which would of used roughly 46,410 kg to travel to this location which leaves a gap of 10,000 kg in fuel to actually reach that area.

This is my continued research from here:

I have seen this footage before. (It goes back to 2014 according to the wayback machine per another thread). I have been gathering the most interesting and controversial conversations from all the subs threads and been trying to address them here. Here are the raw videos from the wayback archive.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=n55pFOYCycU>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9f2X66b8ij8>

Drone

The drone in the video seems to be a very accurate MQ-1L Predator MQ-1C Gray Eagle loaded with two expanded EO/IR payloads known as the TRICLOPS configuration. As discussed in multiple other threads, this is almost certainly a pure surveillance configuration of a Gray Eagle with sensor pods given the camera view.

The engine signature of the 777 looks perfectly fine to me:

<https://i.imgur.com/DAK6RKx.png>. Hot spots from the exhaust are pretty clear and keep in mind the external air temps are between -35c and -55c at 25k-50k feet where the MH370 was last seen which would keep everything relatively cool. Second, the the false color for thermal cameras is obviously configurable to all kinds of ranges and color palettes. Saying it's fake or a simulation based on that is grasping at straws. Lastly, as covered above, the location and accuracy of the thermals from the pitot tube auxiliary air intake (the sensor hole in the front/side of the Gray Eagle drone) is insanely detailed. Especially for a supposed simulation made in 2014. Who would have that kind of data and simulation capability?

Here is a document about FLIR tools, metadata, playback, palette switching etc. If this was recorded in a format with metadata, switching to rainbow should be trivial.

Satellite

The spy sat, my guess based on the 2's and 3's in the data at the bottom, is the NROL_22 (launched 2006). The footage looks to have extremely accurate GPS data that moves insanely well with the camera panning and should be capable of any number of color night-vision/thermal modes and extreme angles.

The main complaint here is that it "looks daytime". Anybody saying this has never seen a low-light color camera at work. These have been around for years, here is some guy using one 7 years ago: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8bTgG2Ft4xQ>. To not think that the most advanced spy sats created don't have low-light/thermal/blending abilities is just being dense.

Also it has been claimed that the Molniya (elliptical) orbit that NROL_22 is in would make it difficult to use. Molniya orbits are used to have the satellite loiter longer over a particular part of the planet. From my untrained eye it does appear that the MH370 coordinates would have been on the low/fast part of NRO_22's elliptic, but still visible. (You can tell the camera angle is pretty extreme, but if I was building a multi-billion dollar spy sat, I would want it to be able to zoom and see at extreme angles/distances too). Here is a tracking site if people want to keep an eye on it's vantage points, but it looks fairly reasonable to me: <https://www.heavens-above.com/orbit.aspx?satid=29249>

Airliner

The fact that the airliner could be a very new (2013) P-8 Poseidon anti-sub/recon aircraft (based on the 737) which would def be high on any NHI's watch list. The GPS coords on the NROL_22 footage line up with the MH370... and someone below also matched the thermal silhouette to a 777-200ER (MH370). This is connecting too many dots to ignore...

Why were they filming?

As far as goings on during the MH370 disappearance, there were two massive US-Indo-Pacific military exercises taking places around the time of the disappearance:

Operation Cobra Gold

Operation Cope Tiger

Operating from 03.10.2014 to 03.21.2014

the second phase was a flying training exercise conducted at Korat Air Base, Thailand, from 10 to 21 Mar 2014. This year's exercise involved 76 aircraft, 42 ground-based air defence [sic] systems, and about 2,000 personnel from the participating nations.

Also Diego Garcia, a very secretive US forward strike and early detection base in the Indian Ocean may have had eyes on the situation or been involved with the exercises (they were recently), but MH370 last known position was ~1000 nautical miles away (these coordinates). Here is a great writeup with a fix to the GPS location which puts it right in the last known path:

https://www.reddit.com/r/UFOs/comments/15o1t6r/new_lead_for_proving_the_authenticity_of_the/

Given there were two major US military exercises in the region between Feb and March 2014, there is more than enough reasonability that we would have the Gray Eagle available and the spy sat ready to track an unidentified commercial plane, off-course, in potentially restricted airspaces.

Technology/Accuracy

There are a lot of people arguing that these cameras are not realistic/capable of what is shown. Two major points keep coming up, the "engine" signature from the 777 and the "daytime" of the sat video. I added more support above.

Additional Supporting Evidence Another post got me looking for the source of some additional footage similar to this event. This has not been viewed in a very long time it appears and lost to the depths of YouTube:

https://www.reddit.com/r/UFOs/comments/15mmj5x/three_orbs_in_formation_flying_next_to_passenger/.

Also found this while trying to uncover the lost video on the original story:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zySYAGZmorY>

Conclusion

Again, not saying this is 100% proof, but I can not 100% disprove any of this so far...

This is some pretty fantastic science fiction if this is not real 😊

It should be noted that u/Skkoj has done analysis in this thread on the satellite video showing an effect where everything that happens in the satellite video has a preview and afterimage effect with the main image lying in the middle. The plane, orbs, and "portal" all have this. This looks a lot like a sensor artifact and may be similar to the rainbow blur effect that we see in google maps with planes. IMO, this reinforces the argument for this being legitimate satellite imagery. I really doubt a vfx artist would think to add this sensor effect in.

Around the time that MH370 went missing I was dating a woman whose father was (and still is) someone of importance and due to his job had loads of connections with influential people. They owned a second home in Florida and my gf's Dad would pay for me to travel with them as they were the type of family who liked to keep up appearances and because I was decent at golf her Dad would take me out on rounds as he met with people he was trying to raise money from or politically steer. These people were generally CEOs of large companies, politicians, former presidents, people from extreme family wealth etc.

One weekend we played with a guy from the military, I remember it so well because he was just so different to the usual brand of old country club men of power and also because I was so hungover I threw up on the golf course. We got to the topic of MH370 and as we all threw out theories but this guy said nothing, like nothing, not a word, didn't even engage which in itself was just obviously awkward as it was a hot topic at the time. As we get to the end of the round I'm in the golf cart with this guy hoping my hangover will go away when he turns and out of nowhere says to me "your theory on the plane is bullshit, of course the US (military) knows what happened to that plane and where it went but if we come out and say we know what happened then we let our enemies know that we know and have the tech to know and that's a secret we need to keep more than letting those families know what happened to their loved ones". At the time, I think I came back at him with something about Russia and China likely having the same tech as the US so why did we care and I always remember him saying and then abruptly catching himself "yeah but they don't know about them and where they took the plane"....at the time I didn't really have an interest in aliens or UFOs and thought he was referring to another country or terrorists but always found it strange how he then declared "I think I've said enough" and proceeded to not say a word to me for next three holes and barely said goodbye to me as he left at the end of the round.

I don't know what rank this guy was or whether he was retired or active but all I do know is that he was accompanied to and from the course by two guards in military outfits.

The pushback on this specific video is interesting; that we should “ignore” this and focus on more “grounded and realistic” cases is a statement in the prior threads that’s brought up a lot as if this whole topic isn’t already surreal and otherworldly.

What’s so bad about a couple of people investigating an interesting video with an open mind? The whole community isn’t about to go under from incredibility and stigma just because some people decided to research a video in their free time. And anyway, this whole topic is practically knee deep in its stigma still, even in the public eye and has been for 70 years, with or without government whistleblowers. Idk it’s just weird that now WE’RE the nutters, as if lurking through this sub isn’t crazy enough. As if there’s some kind of unsaid threshold. I just think if your going to explore this topic, get ready to see some wacky stuff and get used to it.

This footage just hits me different.

Now as much as I’d love every ufo video to be real I never fully commit past a mild interest.. but I've not been able to stop checking up on all the top tier digging into it that's been done by some of you.

My gut tells me this is real and if it was vfx/CGI there would be an undeniable debunk done on this already, as for the ink blot effect it just doesn't look the same to me.

Will continue to keep my eye on this and expect the worst and hope for the best. If this is legit this is beyond fucked up and opens the biggest can of worms and let's a cat out the bag that can never go back in.

Having recently watched Manifest on Netflix one crazy wish I've got now is the 2027 'undeniable event' that the public must be ready for is the return of MH370.

Dun, dun, dunnnnnnnnn.

But seriously this is potentially one of the most fucked up things in human history.

If UAP are indeed obliterating/teleporting commercial aircraft, I fully understand why the world governments would want to keep full disclosure under wraps. Just think about the implications for world commerce if suddenly such a threat was a reality in people's minds. How likely would the average consumer be to get on a plane again, even if they knew it was a very statistically unlikely reality?

There is no way of proving it either way, but maybe we didn't lose audio contact with the flight. Instead, perhaps it was audio contact detailing that the craft was being harassed, which of course cannot be released. Military vehicles were not deployed as it could exacerbate the situation.

To my eyes, the text at the bottom of the sat video almost certainly says NROL-23 (not 32, 22, or 33).

NROL-23 is a pair of satellites (Intruder 7A & Intruder 7B) launched on Feb 3, 2005:

"These satellites carry equipment to track ships and aircraft via their radio transmissions."

Also referred to as USA-181, said to be operated by the NRO for ELINT (electronic intelligence) and ocean surveillance.

Challenge to someone smart! Based on the tracking data for NROL-23/USA-181, figure out where it was at the time the videos were meant to have been taken, and therefore roughly what angle it ought to have observed the event from. Or show that it couldn't possibly have observed the event.

I think it's fair to assume that the capabilities and missions publicly listed for these satellites are at most only partly true. A real-time video feed could be among their capabilities despite saying otherwise.

comment on debris... Yes, Boeing has a lot of skin in the game and debris is probably easy for them to fake. However, let's just assume the debris is indeed from MH370.

Very, very little was found. The largest piece was a flapperon. The only piece from the fuselage is a hinged panel from the interior that may not even be from a 777, but does match the pattern on the this particular 777.

<https://www.theguardian.com/world/ng-interactive/2017/jan/17/missing-flight-mh370-a-visual-guide-to-the-parts-and-debris-found-so-far>

The most recent alleged piece found is a piece of landing gear door:

<https://news.sky.com/story/flight-mh370-debris-suggests-pilot-lowered-planes-landing-gear-and-crashed-deliberately-report-says-12767516>

Let's put aside the conspiracy theories about the pilot (happy guy, family man, great career, living an enviable life) deliberately sinking the plane, and assume this small piece (compared to the size of a 777) is real, too. That is not a lot of airplane. I am no debris expert, and I was only casually following this story when it happened, but I recall the lack of debris field being somewhat of a mystery.

I think many have been making the assumption that the plane was teleported to another dimension, but what if it was blown to smithereens? In the satellite video, when the plane disappears, it looks like an explosion. The FLIR video "ink blot effect" could be some kind of energy dispersion. It would explain why so little of the plane has been found, and why the pieces are so small. Most of the plane was instantly vaporized.

Another possibility to consider: the most plausible, mundane explanation for why the plane went off course has always been a hypoxia event. Passengers, crew all incapacitated, and by the time the plane went off radar, dead.

The Tic Tac witness accounts are eerily similar to what the 4Chan leaker said about the Bermuda Triangle underwater facility. Taking 4Chan leaker's word for it, these things attack when approached aggressively. The metallic spheres are now officially known to show up around combat zones, which is the UAP type the spheres most resemble.

What if the plane, running out of fuel, flying erratically and/or extremely low over the Indian Ocean triggered the local underwater facility to attack in defense?

I have been joking about Earth being the North Sentinel Island of this backwater spiral arm, but this area is real close to the actual North Sentinel Island.

EDIT: like everyone else is saying, this one hits different. First time watching these videos, I felt a primal fear I only felt when a gun was pointed at me. Something about it feels realer than the official real videos. Chilling. I don't want to believe anymore.

Thanks for putting this all together. The negative reaction to these videos on r/ufos has frankly surprised me. "I Want to Believe, but don't make me uncomfortable"?

Seriously, of all the videos I've seen on r/ufos this feels more authentic than anything, correct in all details, corroborated across 2 spectra/angles, and corroborated by a real-world event. What more could you ask for??

Goddamn I remember now I was scouring the Chinese web using Baidu to get an "Asian" perspective on this.

On one of the forums, they drew three circles orbiting an object and there was a similar video as well I think. I will find that again and post it here.

Their relative movements were incredibly similar.

Flight radar 24 footage of MH370. Aircraft to right seen doing a 180 then travelling EXTREMELY fast at 1:55. Could be glitch on platform but interesting.

Three Unidentified objects detected by chinese military satellites:

Does anyone know more about the chinese satellites or if other nation detected those objects?

This is intriguing to read. Maybe there's actual more footage about this that we will never see (which, in a way, is sad and relieving at the same time).

All this story involving the MH370 is wild af.

Sure wish I could see this radar data.

Alexandra Bruce provided vital information on Forbidden Knowledge TV that would back up the alien abduction theory. According to her report, there were two 'distinct anomalies' spotted on the radar (Flight Radar 24) before it went missing.

Forbidden Knowledge TV

"Seeing the radar playback of the moments leading up to the plane's disappearance, one may forgive Malaysia Airlines for not being more forward, in this case - because the radar playback is not only baffling, it shows two distinct anomalies, as pointed out by Intrepid citizen-reporter and YouTube popstar, DAHBOO7.

The radar playback depicts dozens of planes in flight over the region at the time. The first peculiarity is seen in the lower left of the screen. A round object appears in the vicinity of Flight 370 (and amid several others), which the radar does not automatically "read" as airplane. Suddenly, this round object take the form of a "plane" on the radar screen and accelerates at a rate of speed that must be at least five times the speed of the surrounding planes, heading eastward, over the South China Sea - and just as suddenly the object stops and appears to hover in place."

UFO blogger also documented a confirmation by Malaysian air force chief Rodzali Daud that military radar received signal from an unidentified flying objects near the location where MH370 reportedly vanished.

"Malaysia's air force chief, Rodzali Daud, said military radar detected an UFO in an area in the northern Malacca Strait at 2:15 a.m. local time on Saturday about an hour after the plane vanished from air traffic control screens," UFO blogger reported.

Search and recovery operation has been ongoing for more than a month, but the mission hasn't gained a significant breakthrough up to now.

It's a pretty compelling set of videos that are very well done, but I haven't seen the biggest problem addressed: The contrail does not behave like a real contrail. It should be moving opposite the direction of the engines, traveling out and down from the engines, rotating inwards and spreading out in the wake and vortices of the wings. Furthermore, it should be drifting in the winds aloft off axis from the airplane's track. Since the airplane was nice enough to be in a turn, we can eliminate any possibility that the wind was just coincidentally right on the airplane's nose.

Instead, we get a pretty faint contrail that behaves like it's ink being drawn on a page. It doesn't move relative to the airplane or to the background. This is not plausible.

The purported drone footage is more believable contrail wise.

I believe the normal IR sensor on that drone is chin mounted, but I could be wrong. I believe there are also hardpoints under the wings where you can mount additional modules. I'd be interested to see a correlation between the camera position in the video and possible sensor locations on the airplane and whether they match up.

If that's possible, I'd like to see candidate sensor packages in operational use in 2014. There aren't that many kinds of pods and many of their imaging modes are at least known.

I feel like this is something we need to be focusing on.

Does anyone know the original source/upload date for these videos? It should not be RegicideAnon, please compare their upload of this video here: RegicideAnon Source - Cant make out "NROL-22" text as its cropped, Mouse cursor is distorted/stretched

And this source uploaded much later in 2014: Later Source - Higher Res - Fuller Frame - Can make out "NROL-22" text as its uncropped, Mouse cursor looks right

I believe the second later source proves RegicideAnon is not the original source for either video. RegicideAnon only ever uploaded a version that is more cropped and lower quality than the later sources upload. The later source got their copy of the video elsewhere. We need to find the original source and upload date for these videos, especially considering that is a main point currently supporting the top post on the subreddit. They remain a mystery.

I really appreciate your extensive and thorough analysis, I wanted to add another piece of the puzzle to the satellite footage in particular.

There are several redditors claiming that this footage isn't truly stereoscopic (which most satellites are). I took it into my editor to test it out myself. I simply took both views and lined them up (using the edges of each frame and numbers at the bottom).

Here's what I found

I transitioned both views slowly back and forth (just like closing and opening each of your eyes one after another). What you'll notice, especially in the later parts of the video, that there is very clear parallax in the clouds. Some objects shift left to right, others barely move at all. Now, I'm not saying this is proof of cloud movement, this is proof of parallax, meaning the environment ISN'T a still image.

I added some sharpening and a grid to see the parallax more clearly as well.

These little details are really stacking up here.

Holy sh*t. I was skeptical but needed this perspective. My gut tells me that this is one of the “undeniable videos” that would come out soon after the hearings to validate the Grusch camp’s fears.

Yeah absolutely. If you showed me this thread at the time of disappearance, I would have read it for fun at most. I’m now honestly considering the arguments. I’m agnostic about it but I’m also not going “no, this is too ridiculous.”

And we’re not the only people who feel this way. Part of me honestly believes that Mellon, Elizondo, and now Gorusch are genuinely propelling a soft disclosure conspiracy. It’s the IntSec community itself getting this out via soft disclosure to the American people. But it’s true soft disclosure. We’ll be drip fed until they think when can handle it. Finally see what they have, whatever that may be. I also totally buy their claims that they tried to do this “in-house” in tandem with the DoD, but were stonewalled. So it’s them getting this out themselves.

Edit:

And how’s this for fun:

The TicTac video was originally discussed and posted to an obscure web forum. It then languished for years with no interest and suddenly it’s uncovered and they get the witness pilots talking.

Likewise, we’re now discussing a video uploaded years ago and laid dormant only to be uncovered and go viral.

Just a weird coincidence. Could that be part of the gambit? What better way to launder this stuff into the public sphere. Uploaded it with no fan fare. Let it lie. Then subtly point out to the public that uhhh, this has been out there all along. Perhaps we should discuss.

Imagine someone releases a clip showing some presidential candidate saying something extremely hateful or disgusting just one day before the election. There will be no way of verifying the authenticity of such a video in such a short time. And there are tons of bad faith actors out there wanting to create turmoil. It will be interesting to see how this world will look like. That's why AI experts are so scared now.

Analysis:

The three orbs emerge, seemingly scanning the plane before it finally vanishes. They first arrange themselves symmetrically into a perfect triangle formation, encircling the plane and completing what appears to be a thorough scan by revolving along all its axes. The use of three orbs appears to be necessary for this scanning process.

Towards the video's conclusion, the orbs draw nearer to the plane. A single, sizable sphere with a subtle asymmetry emerges, engulfing the plane. Notably, an asymmetric corona rapidly expands in a spherical fashion from the sphere's center and the plane and the orbs have completely vanished.

The symmetrical triangular pattern the orbs use to encircle the plane has some similarities to 3D scanning, similar to MRI. They carefully maintain a perfectly locked position around a moving object while revolving all around the plane's axis.

This suggests that the orbs were indeed observing the plane in some scientific capacity prior to its disappearance. The orbs appear to disturb the atmospheric pressure as evident by the dark contrails they leave behind. They have a cool surface as evidenced by the blue colour on the thermal image which is a bit warmer on the side that faces the sun.

The orbs clearly draw closer right before the sphere momentarily appears. The thermal imaging shows the sphere as a dark purple hue, which suggests a significant sudden drop in temperature close to absolute zero. The expanding corona effect has some similarities to Cherenkov's radiation or even the shockwave of a sonic boom.

Both the plane and the orbs vanish without leaving a trace. Most likely all particles inside the central sphere vanish in an instant. Considering what we've witnessed so far, the sphere appears to show some characteristics as proposed by the Einstein-Rosen bridge, more commonly referred to as wormholes, or it could be an uncategorised rift in space-time.

I invite others to improve this analysis by focusing not only on the visual aspects but also the technical, rational and physical aspects of the video.

This article also makes a very convincing case that some/all of the debris found have been planted Aircraft wreckage which entered the water in the eastern part of the Indian Ocean as a result of a crash on March 8, 2014 should for the most part be richly covered in a variety of organisms. However, this was not observed; most of the pieces had little or no visible biofouling.

A notable exception was the flaperon which washed ashore on Réunion Island in July, 2015, which had a rich covering of marine biofouling. However, the age of the barnacles did not match the length of time the piece was supposed to have been in the water. According to the final report issued by the ATSB, "The Operational Search for MH370," on October 3, 2017: "the specimens analysed here were quite young, perhaps less than one month."

Another anomaly regarding the biofouling of the flaperon was the fact that during flotation tests, the flaperon was found to float about half out of the water. This is difficult to reconcile with the settlement pattern of Lepas, which cover every part of the item. Since Lepas only attach and thrive under water, this suggests that the flaperon did not float freely during its time in the water.

A third anomaly was the finding, based on the chemical composition of the shell, that the Lepas growing on the flaperon spent much of their lives in water that was between 18 and 20 degrees. It would not have been possible for the flaperon to float from such distant, cold water to its time and place of discovery by natural means.

Complicated hoaxes with no net benefit have been a thing for all time. Some people take such trickery as a hobby and revel in the depth to which they can execute it and the

Just like any hobby, there's people who look to make their masterpiece and go to extreme lengths to achieve them.

I mean look at the traction it's gotten. If it was a hoax, these reactions on the sub would be a standing ovation

Not saying that it is necessarily, but we definitely can't rule it out

That being said, the sheer accuracy of the video does make me wonder...

I will admit that the actual footage of the plane, if CG is very well done. But the disappearance of it looks ridiculous and the easiest part to fake.

It's possible it's real footage where they simply disappeared the plane in post. Though, I'm a little behind on this one. Where can I find the earliest post with this video on the internet?

It's possible it's real footage where they simply disappeared the plane in post.

That is definitely possible, however it raises some questions for me (this was also brought up in a previous post):

How did they lose contact when they had both a drone and a satellite pointed at MH370? From the timeline that was indicated in this post, this should be within an hour of it disappearing. Wouldn't they send military jets at this point, because the plane hasn't been responding and it didn't arrive at its destination? They're either assuming 1) terrorists or 2) technical failure. Either way assessing whether that plane might crash in a populated area should be high priority.

If this wasn't MH370, why were they recording it with a drone and a satellite? The plane was also extremely close to the drone, which wouldn't usually happen, so this had to have been some sort of emergency, similar to MH370, which would also alert the drone operator that something is off, but so far I couldn't find any planes that fit that profile.

Someone else also brought up the following point:

Take a look at the mouse, the black one. It's used to move the camera from the satellite. That's not a mouse captured over the video. It's the mouse of the operator of the satellite camera. And he drags the screen to move the camera.

Now, go watch the video, but pay attention to the seconds after the disappearance.

It's almost like you can perceive the gloom in the operator. The plane disappears, he moves the screen once again to make sure, and then goes to the top right corner just to close the window.

So if we assume the editing was done later, that operator wouldn't just close the window, because the plane would've kept on going. Unless they faked this part as well.

Stupid story time, gather round folks. So when all this first happened, my friends and I, sat around in our office and talked about it. Discussing what had happened, the news report on it, what little we knew in general about this whole situation. We all came up with stupid theories but I believe mine was the absolute stupidest. Friend asked "so what do you think happened?" I responded, "I think it started flying up, and it just never stopped" then I added, "I bet that shit is on the moon by now" followed by chuckles and laughter. Fast forward a few weeks and I was in Walmart looking at the magazines and lo and behold I see a tabloid with a picture of a 777, resting on the moon! So what if the plane was being tailed by these objects and the pilots contacted the military base? The audio wasn't cut off, it was deleted.

The abrupt turn is because they were told to do so. The military base might have told them a new flight path and maybe offered to help.

That would explain the trajectory, the loss of audio and the reason why it got filmed.

My major struggle with this is how much international effort went into investigating the disappearance. The Australian Government spent $90 Million on recovery attempts for MH370 working closely with China (who spent $20 million).

"Military air crew from Australia, China, Japan, Malaysia, New Zealand, the Republic of Korea and the United States are searching for possible debris from MH370." - The Guardian

I couldn't find info on how much the US spent. But the FBI, National Transportation Safety Board, Federal Aviation Administration and Boeing were all involved - Reuters

"An authoritative U.S. government source said the United States has extensively reviewed imagery taken by its spy satellites for evidence of a mid-air explosion, but seen none. The source said U.S. satellite coverage of the region is thorough." - Reuters

So the official line is we had a look but saw nothing?

I'm not ready to believe anything yet but I'd be curious to see more about the US satellite coverage and exactly how much they contributed to the recovery efforts.

Because if China and Australia both had radar data for MH370 shouldn't they also have been aware of American jets in the area? China absolutely would have. I can't see them agreeing to work together and involve multiple other countries, to spend millions of dollars on recovery attempts if they knew the US likely had more information than they let on.

One thing to note here, any abduction/destruction scenario for MH370 has to account for the actual flight path of the plane, which involves a radical turn away from it's intended route and then a flight back over Malaysia and northwest into the area of the last radar contact and the coordinates of the satellite video. There is a nice pic on wiki of this route. After the last radar contact the plane apparently flew for almost 7 more hours. If we take the videos as real, the presumption is the plane flew around in the general area of the last radar contact and the satellite video coordinates for those hours.

This produces a really disturbing scenario. The NHI obviously had the ability to take the plane at any time. The route indicates they may have taken control of the pilot in some way, or maybe incapacitated everyone and took control of the plane itself, turned off the transponder and then flew it back east towards the area where the US military was having its training exercises. Then they flew the plane around for 7 hours erratically so the US was sure to notice and put lots of assets into tracking this troubled airliner. That's why we see video from the best thermal camera kit the US probably had at the time and it looks amazingly real to me. Then they destroy/teleport the plane in full view of every sensor platform the US could put on it.

What is the point to the above actions? A display of force? A display of cruelty? Why was it done specifically so the US military could watch it?

The level of detail in this video is too mind boggling, from the clouds, the illumination from the "portal" to the pitot tube on the drone. Everything doesn't even make sense.

It'd be interesting to extract a precise equation of each of the helices. The mathematical term is just "helix".

My thoughts on the thermal footage, I have a background in electrical, nuclear, small amount of quantum and small amount of material physics, mechatronic, software, mechanical and electrical engineering, and comp sci (plus philosophy, economics, performing arts and opera but that's irrelevant).

Nice! Cool to see an antimatter operation on film! Endothermic as expected with energy state inversion. And look at that wavefunction displacement! If you go frame by frame (at about 2:03) you can see the atmosphere trying to equalize against some kind of neutral field barrier, before the barrier is removed and the remaining energetic detritus is allowed to equalize and evaporate!

I'm guessing the UFO formation was needed in order to properly focus the machinery needed to perform such an action, kind of like retroreflective tracking markers, who would have thought something so advanced would use triangulation! Base point math seems to still be of use further down the tech tree, or maybe said math is just what we call what is actually a physical constant.

Also noticed the UFO's pull in close just before the AM operation, probably to be within the field effect! Almost a basic lensing operation, they might have been actively stabilizing the various fields too. At 26fps (I counted) the AM implosion took roughly 166.666... milliseconds, or 0.16666... seconds. Cool to be able to see such advanced energy manipulation within a period humans can appreciate.

Note: Not currently in any of the fields mentioned above, as am studying disaster management in preparation for upcoming extreme weather events. Exciting!

How confident are you in the 8.8N coordinate? This would leave me to believe the video is fake. It's not very far from when the plane originally lost contact and that island chain has a population around 400,000, I feel like there would have been eyes on the plane during the morning.

I think 8.8S should be considered and we just can't see the negative sign on the video. 8.8S would fit the reasonable area for the plane to have moved, though it would still be a good bit north of the thought of disappearance line near 0z UTC.

8.8S also makes more sense meteorologically speaking. <https://imgur.com/a/QvGh4fl> Here I have a map with low level and mid level windspeeds. In the orange circle, this is where the plane would have disappeared using the lat long that the OP gave. There is a nice cloud at the southern edge of the circle, but further north where the coordinate actually lies the satellite imagery is pretty devoid of clouds. In the purple circle, this would be the area if you took OPs coordinates and made it 8.8S instead. This matches up meteorologically speaking with a far more expansive cumulus field like we see in the video. Low to mid-level mean winds are also 5 to 10 knots in this region (plane was likely flying somewhere between 3 to 6km if it's flying through cumulus). You wouldn't see much cloud movement in a video of a few minutes with low to mid-level winds that low. Finally, the blue line is where the plane was suspected to completely disappear just after 0z UTC. The only location where this video would make sense on the line is the far northeast portion, but even then that appears to be a stratus deck on satellite and not a cumulus field. The red dot is the approximate location of the UK/US military base.

I could be totally wrong on this. From what I can see in the video, the user scrolls it down. As they scroll the coordinates change. It looks like, as they go down, which logically would be moving south, the coordinates look to go from 8.838 to 8.836 around 23-25 seconds into the video, meaning the original coordinate was not a negative.

I show this post to a friend of mine. After reading he immediately asked:

“So, these aliens are teleporting - hijacking a plane (which is mh370 in this case) for the first time in history?” Why don’t they hijack before or again?

This question made me think. Can it be:

These orbs belongs to secret military-industrial complex or contractors which are obtained by reverse engineering from Roswell.

They tested these orb tech many times of course, but never with a real plane with passengers in it.

Maybe the pilot of mh370 really wanted to crash the plane, and he was being watched by the secret organization in military; and they saw this as an opportunity to test it on a real case with passengers.

They understood that the pilot of mh370 was eventually gonna crash it, and tested their orbs.

Great post. One other thing is the light flash from the disappearing maneuver. It is very much in line with similar recorded flashes, especially with the black triangles. There has been speculation that the different shapes of ships are due to possible stable configurations of different numbers of "anti-gravity" engines. In this case, they start rotating around the plane in the same triangle configuration, and then they have the same "light bubble" like jump visual.

Okay, finally, finally I have found something that explains one of my biggest, and solid questions I had regarding the incident. My number one problem with the footage was the the gray eagle drone has a top speed that is 300 MPH slower than the cruising speed of the Boeing 777. That would mean there is almost no shot the drone could catch up and get out ahead of the plane as it appears in the footage. The military exercises you had posted about would finally give me a reason as to why the drone was already up in the air at the time. Also the predator style drones as far as I have found through, research, cannot be launched via aircraft carrier it is still being developed according to an article in 2022. So it would have had to have been launched from land, way behind the Boeing, and would never catch up. That is unless your exercises had surveillance drones which is very plausible.

Because without the drone being in the air near where the plane already was it just isn't catching up to it. Now add to this the movement the plane makes, banks down right and drops in altitude. What's interesting here is when a plane is given an order from ATC and it cannot comply there is a standard procedure and move that you are supposed to do. You are to alter your course to the right or left 5 nautical miles then resume a parallel course from your original, in addition you are to drop to or below FL29. This would make sense because the maximum altitude of that drone is right around 29000 feet, and commercial liners generally travel higher around 33000 feet.

That would make sense if the plane got unclear commands, foreign comma it couldn't understand anything really and thought it was being told to do something and couldn't understand, therefore not comply.

Now I'm very skeptical, I'll be honest I love the whole scene but I generally like to look at both evidence and debunking as a skeptic. Try to see which one has the least conclusions you have to jump to, and lean that way. Finding out about the military exercises closes a large conclusion jump I had to make if I was right regarding speeds, and makes this much more interesting. I'm still not fully convinced either way but thank you for sharing.

Another idea/theory I had been floating in my head regarding the exercises/drones being up in the air already, was what if they were seeing anomalies prior and the exercises was more to investigate things. That obviously is taking quite a few leaps to get there but is an interesting thought.

Finally found the FAA article about the flight procedure I was talking about as well linked ENR 7.3 special contingencies in oceanic airspace

Which is interesting because while FAA it is specifically for things not covered while operating in oceanic airspace.

Edit: also I know it's impossible to tell if the pilot used the procedure listed in the FAA article, but I thought it was interesting it seemed so similar to what it describes and would put Boeing 777 in a cruising altitude that can be reached by the drone. I don't fully believe, or disbelieve the footage, but definitely interesting.

Before we even discuss the veracity of the videos, we must have one thing clear: the only known event these videos can be pinpointed to is actually the MH370. If not, please enlighten us with another publicly known unresolved mystery that is so closely related to what is depicted here. They're either a very elaborate and fastly produced hoax around the disappearance of the plane, or it is actual footage of what happened.

Regardless of what we believe, the video is clearly related to the MH370.

As obvious as all of this may sound; this is a reminder that nobody knows where these videos came from, nor who uploaded them to YouTube just four days after the plane went missing (besides their username at the time), nor where, how, or through whom they acquired them.

The purpose of sending them one can assume was to make them public, since the channel described itself as a platform for unexplained videos. But, these were the first of just a handful of videos uploaded to the channel. These videos didn't reach the user out of popularity, they were obviously acquired by other means. Whoever it is, is involved in the creation or propagation of them.

Let's not forget that at this point in time, the Pentagon was already creating false social media accounts and even interacting with unsuspecting online users to study and learn how to manipulate human emotion through their social media feeds. And they were already using AI for it.

What I find interesting about this is that the plane was obviously in some kind of trouble anyway. Then, these 3 UFOs come and teleport it and themselves away. Perhaps someone on the plane had access to help? Perhaps a NHI was on the plane, perhaps it's time travel, or perhaps they took them to their dimension because they were going to die anyway.

Another theory for both the satellite and the UAV to be at the location would be the use of SENTIENT from the NRO. It can direct satellites to what it predicts through its data.

I don't know enough about all the technical details to believe one way or another. I watched the Netflix series that suggested the following:

The plane was carrying US tech as cargo and one theory suggested US black ops shot it down because they didn't want China to get hold of it?

Another theory was that the plane was carrying certain people who needed to be got rid of - another theory why it was shot down?

Even if either of the above is true why would the pilot turn the transponder off and go on a different path for 7hrs then coincidentally get sucked into a portal by ufo's?

If the UFO's are back engineered US vehicles and they can create portals, they could also turn the transponder off and "fly" the plane somewhere remote to suggest it was crashed by the pilot.

Help me out because here because I'm struggling to understand.

this is all very interesting, but there are still a few major questions that have not been answered - would the pilot turned off their transponder 7 hours before disappearing and why would he veer off course to begin with? and what even is the original source of the video?

personally, I don't care about the shored debris, or the simulation data found on the pilots computer. those could have easily been fabricated to cover up the real story. even if this footage is real, there's still a lot of mystery left to uncover.

I believe the teleport effect is actually in line with what else is displayed. The effect looks a lot like a planetary nebula. In this case, the surface of the star is not held up anymore (because of not enough fuel), so it then drops and then bounces off a harder, compressed core. If you removed a sphere of air, the surrounding air would collapse in and bounce off itself in a similar fashion. The air would cool because the same heat energy would be spread over a larger volume and, hence, must get cooler. This is exactly what the video shows.

The other interesting thing is that the "exploding ring" is pretty circular. Does this mean we just happened to have a good straight on view, or is this effect the same from many perspectives (like a black hole where the back accretion disk can be seen,

The thing that blows my mind the most is while I haven't seen an ORB, I have seen an object that was illuminating our buildings, immediately took off in an identical, silent, path similar to the orbs in the video. If it was an orb, it'd have been about the size of a smartcar. The light was oddly not blinding, kind of like looking at one of those old spherical street lights if it was a bit too bright.

It kind of swooped around the building across the street, maintaining a glow, then shot off into the distance. About a second later, on a perfectly clear night sky, we saw what could be only described as a flash of lightning, but in absolute clear sky. I asked, "did you just see that shit?" to my friend, sitting beside me. They say "Yeah, what the fuck was that?".

I would have thought it was a fever dream if not for the fact my friend saw the exact same thing, with me.

I still actually don't believe this shit, but I've fucking seen this shit myself. I want this to be fake, honestly. This shit is terrifying. Like, why the fuck my random building in my random city? I kind of wonder if it's some kind of information recorder or something. It just doesn't make sense as to why it would be here.

Sorry, just saw this thread and it kind of blew my mind that I had seen what's very likely in this video. And even if I didn't, I don't know man.

This thread terrifies me to my fucking core. Like, actual cold shivers. I'm not trying to convince anyone, but if people I've met and trust have seen it, and I have seen it... yeah.

I'm scared.

He believes its not a black hole because there's no ring of energy surrounding it which indicates hawking radiation.

I also don't think it's a black hole, but for different reasons. He doesn't take into consideration the size of a black hole required to instantly engulf a Boeing 777, because Hawking Radiation is an incredibly slow process. It involves virtual particles popping in and out of existence near the event horizon. One particle goes into the black hole, but the other does not, resulting in a negative energy compensation the black hole has to make up for by leaking some of its total mass. There isn't an entire planes worth of virtual mass floating around the air at any given moment to cause this to happen via Hawking Radiation. If there were we'd all be dead. Second, the event horizon would indicate a high thermal reading, not a low one. Third, there's no presence of an event horizon at all. No black hole, and nothing for the plane to fall into. But a worm hole on the other hand? Possible

ACARS, the airline transponder for lack of a better term, was turned off, the transponder, giving plane identification and altitude, was later turned off. Assumed to be manually done by someone with know how.

Internet service with satellite provider remains on and continues to ping aircraft?

Assume this has been answered, but is there any evidence of anyone on the plane using this internet service?

Would assume the internet company Inmarsat, in addition to being able to continue to 'ping' the plane after the transponders were turned off could see if anyone using doing something benign like browsing reddit or watching youtube videos.

If it was aliens I would assume being able to remotely disable a transponder or nullify it would apply to satellite internet.

This is one thing that doesn't make sense to me.

another thing that doesn't make sense is that the satellite video shows the Lat/Long or X/Y position of the mouse cursor or screen. It doesn't show the time? Think both would be relevant to display for satellite images.

Has anyone looked at whether the supposedly leaked satellite footage is from a program or platform that military or civilian personnel are familiar with?

Why are military drones and satellites observed in the vicinity of the plane?

<https://forgottenlanguages-full.forgottenlanguages.org/2018/05/mh370-and-biodoctrine-passenger-57.html>

"2014 test scheme included the deployment of EV-D68 in North America, the deployment of Ebola in West Africa, and the deployment of DENIED in China. The Chinese deployment plan was abruptly aborted, on March, 8th 2014, when we realized at the very last moment that this new version of the MojV virus wasn't performing as expected. The carrier were two passengers in a Malaysia Airlines flight en route to Beijing. We had no option but to down the plane, though we obviously could not do it over populated areas, nor even in any land mass. We had to minimize the risk of accidental spreading of the virus. We crashed the plane with all its 227 passengers and 12 crew on board in the most secure area we found, in the middle of the Southern Indian ocean."

The MIC would not need to do this to an active passenger flight with actual civilians on it. important tidbits:

- Aerospherical Systems has broken with this tradition and is currently developing a radically new concept for transportation, particularly drone and human-cargo aircraft that relies on the use of a sphere to generate the required lift and propel the spherical aircraft through the atmosphere (or water).

- NASA studies have verified the potential of our approach. Radar signatures can be "tricked" using a sphere design. These features would be directly scalable to any sized sphere.

Wow this is some amazing research you guys have been doing with this footage. I'm feeling a bit disturbed by all of this really. I remember all of the chaos of that full week of searching for that aircraft. 3 minutes of radio silence then it started pinging again until it fell into the ocean..... curious if the Chinese satellites in that area at the time have the full picture of what happened. They released the photo of where they believe it fell into the ocean, but not the full flight path tracking. Wondering if someone within the government leaked that NROL-22 satellite imagery because it was so weird. We do seem to get some truth sometimes...i.e. Nimitz was on the web long before the official government acknowledgement, figuring out if it is real is the hard part.

"Some people have suggested that the colors presented in the thermal imagery are atypical for military footage. However, it's important to understand that the thermal coloring represents a configurable parameter for heat vision cameras. This feature is standard and can be adjusted even after the recording has been made."

Yes they are. Military display systems are monochrome. White and Black/Dark Gray. These images are artificial images generated from IR/Thermal radiation that are meant to represent what you could see if you saw heat. The goal is to produce an image where people can see as much detail as possible without getting confused by some color scheme.

Now we did use other tools that were scientific instruments for imaging IR. These could be configured to generate color images, but under most color schemes objects can become completely unrecognizable. These instruments are meant to be used in a controlled lab environment.

The best situation is to get all the raw data from the sensor in real time. Depending on the bandwidth between you and the sensor it might be necessary to send compressed data if you want real time imaging. 256 bit gray scale images usually compress really well.

I don't thank the creator of this generated cgi clouds, I think sheman started with a video recording of the clouds and a video of the airplane and then just put them together and ran a weird color filter over the first part of the video.

But, these were the first of just a handful of videos uploaded to the channel. These videos didn't reach the user out of popularity, they were obviously acquired by other means. Or maybe whoever it is is involved in the creation or propagation of them.

Let's not forget that at this point in time, the Pentagon was already creating false social media accounts, and even interacting with unsuspecting online users to study and learn how to manipulate human emotion through their social media feeds. And they were already using AI for it.

Also what about the recovered debris from MH370? The plastic back end of a seat and the flap that was recovered? What about the engine cover that was recovered from the ocean? What about the Malaysian airlines pamphlet that was found at a beach?

If this is what actually happened, I take solace in thinking maybe the passengers were returned by whatever abducted them. However, I don't think a government trying to keep disclosure at bay would let them rejoin their families. This many people telling this kind of story would be more than enough to cause mass hysteria and a firm belief that we aren't alone. Maybe the worse thing that happened to them wasn't done by the abductors but by our governments.

Another thing to consider is that passenger cell phones were still able to ring and one person even received a call from a passenger

.(<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/world/2014/03/11/malaysia-airlines-370-passengers-cell-phones/6285325/>).

Yes! What about the cellphone call? It was even recorded by the cameras but the girl was so fucking terrified that wasn't unable to answer the phone and she lost the call.

Also I remember reading something on Twitter about a weird voice message a guy received and that was related to this airplane, something like S.O.S they are not human with the coordinates of the Diego Garcia military base? The guy said it was not a hoax, that he really received that message and still does not know why.

I have a lot of questions;

Who is the original uploader and what happened to them?

Why did the drone start recording at that exact moment and cut it off that way? Or was the original vid much longer and spliced off?

Why is every documentary that i've watched about MH370 made no mention of this exact video?... Which made me think this was another plane, if it was even real.

If this was real, why isn't every person on the entire planet except this particular sub is talking about it? This is literal evidence that the "aliens" might be hostile and could change the whole perspective about aliens in general.

Kinda weird given that the analysis of others which kind of shows that it would be an enormous effort to fake it that way, especially with the data and the given time frame.

There are other analysis threads which go into detail about the questions you have.

What is odd, is I saw a video where a UFO was flying next to a plane. Then all of a sudden that mid-air distortion bubble showed up and it appeared like it had taken a rocket and shot it straight up in the air out of nowhere. I have no idea if any of these videos are fake as I am not that good to break them down as most of you do. But I do watch and look at everything as a possibility. But there is a video similar to this. If people have not seen it, I can search for it and send it. It is probably a fake. I have no idea nor am I proclaiming any of this is real nor am I saying any of this is fake. The subject is so deep. The possibilities are endless as we humans have no idea what is around us. Just like an aunt has no idea we are here.

Limited knowledge here, but 2 things come to my mind:

Why is the altitude presumably high? The video shows the plane flying in between clouds, that can't be too high above sea level, or can it?

There's videos on YouTube showing some impressive manouvers by commercial airliners. They are way more nimble than people would think.

Noticed you didn't mention this in here, but you may want to add it:

it was reported by Malaysian media that he had Diego Garcia programmed into his home flight simulator along with a few other locations.

Source (The Guardian)

The home-made flight simulator recovered from the pilot's home of pilot Zaharie Ahmad Shah included five practice runways, according to the Australian news site News.com citing a Malaysian media report.

The thinly sourced report is sure to fuel speculation and theories about what happened to the missing plane. It said:

"The Berita Harian Malay language paper quoted unnamed sources close to the investigation as saying that the airport runways were Male International Airport in the Maldives, Diego Garcia and three runways in India and Sri Lanka.

“We are not discounting the possibility that the plane landed on a runway that might not be heavily monitored, in addition to the theories that the plane landed on sea, in the hills, or in an open space,” the Malay Mail Online quoted the source as saying.

If there were multiple military operations running at the same time, doesn't it just make more sense that they accidentally shot down a civilian aircraft during them and then tried to cover that up? Would make sense why the Malaysian government took so long to respond multiple times and changed their tune just as many. Give them enough time to falsify the satellite info and crash debris.

The concept of the pilot not wanting to fly for another 7 hours if he was suicidal is a stupid argument. Why would you actively crash and die in an explosion while awake, when you could fly into the ocean while your oxygen slowly runs out and you die in your sleep.

What is the black hole object that is in frame when the plane disappears?

In heat sensing cameras what does black mean? Is it just total lack of temperature? Not hot or cold?

This could maybe be some anti-matter technology that creates black holes.

Any heat camera experts?

Not an expert. But from what I know blue/black is cold and white is hot. Someone else though said depending on the calibration it could be flip flopped or etc. They said sometimes the white and black just mean it's an "extreme" temperature but not whether extreme hot or cold.

Interesting videos never seen before & always suspected some kind of abduction scenario or pilot suicide.

If beings are able to create worm holes I'd be asking if time can be manipulated too, in the 3 minutes the plane was out of radar, the passengers could easily have been taken off before plane returned on it's final path.

The timing of the plane going off course for me is the biggest question. Why didn't the pilot repeat the frequency 1209 when signing off, did he know he was not going to contact them?

Or was it this point his plane was remotely taken over & then flown into the worm hole by the orbs. Could the aliens have known the flight was perhaps doomed, so chose this flight to save/abduct and return to cover?

So many questions

[deleted]

2y ago

Right, seems like something obvious to check doesn't it?

The OP included a link to side-by-side comparison of the two videos:

<https://imgur.com/p7NMOTX>

Freeze-framing through the two replays together shows that the positioning of the orbs does not always exactly match up when considering that the UAV view is of the left side of the aircraft seen from an aft viewpoint. I mean it is generally well done but not quite perfect. If the playback speeds weren't synchronised then you'd get this effect but they do look the same speed to me and positions line up for a good portion of the video, but I really don't think it is 100%.

For example, freeze frame at:

45s (remaining)

34s

28s

So, at a minimum one of the videos is faked....

Adding to the part about the 3 UFOs spotted by Chinese military. It might be worth noting that 2 months later, around 17 May 2014, there was a report of 3 UFOs crashing in China, with a photo of one of them that looks almost like a weird sphere! Here is the youtube video from back then:

I think this is a pretty good analysis, so far. And right now, my opinion on this either being real or a hoax is "undetermined."

One pertinent point that was touched on by the OP, that could perhaps prove, or disprove this - is by narrowing down the possible "satellite" footage responsible, assuming that is what we are seeing here in the Right Hand Footage.

Most of the capabilities of these are classified, however, some deductions can be made.

NRO L-32 NRO Launch 32

Also Known As (USA-223) *Launched 21 NOV 2010.

NRO L-23 Also Known As (USA-181) *Launched 02 MAR 2005

Note, info from what I could find. No notes of payload, sensors or capabilities, and I ain't gonna search for any of that.

I know for a fact that amateur astronomers like myself know how to find stuff in the sky, and I've watched a couple of ISS passes over the years.

I haven't been there in awhile, but they used to track sats and things, estimating orbital tracks and things. Though the possibility of the assets being highly classified, might not be much data there.

Whether or not one of these USA- (series?) sats was over the area where MH370 lost contact, remains to be seen.

I don't have the time to crunch that data right now, or try to find if they have archives for that date.

I've got an addition to this. I don't see a mention of the 4chan post that came out with the guy who smuggled his phone and the geotag information on the picture he took. Does anyone know if the name he provided matches the manifest of the passengers?

Additionally, the movements of the crafts are very specific, along with the pressure gradients they are creating traveling at those particular speeds and in those formations.

Has anyone created a 3d model of the movements at speeds that the craft are doing? There are some movements in their pattern that are out of view in the thermal, but can be assumed from the satellite imagery.

If you convert that 3d model to a 2d model and obfuscate that in a loop outwards based on time and center of mass/image being the airplane, you may find that the formations create a geometric pattern that is similar to a lot of ancient art/magickal sigils.

Lastly, shouldn't we be able to tell what the relative speed of the plane and craft are traveling at? Along with the cardinal direction, based on the clouds, weather conditions, radar of the day in the general area of the region? We have 3 minutes of video, assuming cruising speed and altitude, based on both angles, so we should be able to overlay that against weather data to come up with an approximate location for where/when the video was taken.

If nefarious UAP activity was truly involved this could provide some explanation for the 6-7 hour radio silence... Lots of close encounter reports include strange effects on time (contactee reports only a small amount of time passing while the rest of the world experienced more time). Maybe they went into a time bubble or whatever for what seemed to them like a couple of minutes but to the rest of us was 6-7 hours.

I have a working theory of what happened based on the assumption this video is real but I need some clarification to understand apparent contradictions.

The video shows that the plane was moving in a very erratic and unexpected manor. This actually matches previously understood information about the planes deviation from flight path that has cast suspicion on the pilot. Should we infer from this video that the pilot was both suicidal and also the plane was attacked by ufos? That seems less plausible than the experienced pilot was reacting to an attack (maybe he was trying to turn back). Did he lose comms? Did he lose navigation? It is unlikely that the pilot would have endured this attack or made such evasive maneuvers without communicating his distress. It is equally unlikely that his distress calls could have been covered up (too many ears could have heard it). He had to have lost ability to communicate before realizing he was under attack or making evasive maneuvers.

How might the inmersat signal differ in type to the transponder or comms signals? What could explain potential 3rd party interference with those systems but not the other? How does the 3 minute "gap" in the inmersat data align with the other timeline information? Was it soon after that hard turn back?

Please don't mention the daylight issue, I'm also working on the assumption that the images are actually showing advanced night vision. Mainly due to the fact that I find this a far more likely explanation than any other that has offered to explain the sat location data on this video's apparent conflict with the expected flight path and projected location at the 8am time that inmersat lost comecon.

My working theory: Pilot makes last handshake. Starts having issues with comms and nav. Sees ufos. Tries to turn back and/or evade. Continues evading until that three minute gap when plane blips out.

What happened next? Either A) Plane returns, but without living pilot or passengers. Inmersat login signal happens automatically. Autopilot keeps plane aloft until fuel runs out. B) plane returns with pilot unharmed but disoriented and unable to re establish comms or navigation. Fun theory: C) plane returns with imposters on board, military shoots down.

The teleport effect in the thermal video doesn't look very good, and I agree with that view. Considering the amount of work put into making this complicated hoax, you'd think they would have tried harder to make the disappearing part look more believable. I think this actually makes the video a bit more believable. It makes you wonder what this kind of technology really looks like.

This makes it seem like you are just forcing the narrative into the "it's real" viewpoint.

I am skeptical that MH370 was a UAP abduction because if that was the case militaries of various countries would be more than concerned and would have had to go public with some information at least.

I think it is fanciful to accept the abduction hypothesis because there is nothing to say that this clip hasn't been doctored. Until it's proven to be genuine, let's make minimal assumptions.

We assume that the video was made after the plane had crashed. This could have been someone's art project in a college course that they just had lying around and only slightly modified it.

Also - the 3 objects spotted by chinese satellites were debris floating in the ocean, not objects floating in the sky

And with regard to the plane being abducted and then returned - I mean maybe? that's kind of hard to prove/disprove. No less than the plane just crashing into the ocean like most people think.

Solution with the least amount of assumptions is often the right one. We can tell that the pilot had practice routes in the manner in which the plane disappeared into the ocean, we know that he had the know how to disable the transponder. It could have been as simple as him depressurizing the cabin and then everyone got hypoxia and passed out mid flight. This has happened before on a commercial aircraft back in 2005:

Hey, how likely do you guys think this video is linked to Dr. Avi Loeb's research on the coast of Papua New Guinea? He's found meteorite spherules, and his team is working right now to determine if the meteorite was of an artificial origin (aka ET intelligence). Dates seem to align between both events. The meteorite exploded on Jan 08, 2014, and the MH370 disappeared on Mar 08, 2014, any clues?

Edit: typo

Couple things. First that fact check is to verify if it was "mh370" that was teleported away. Not the videos authenticity itself. So that doesn't debunk the video, just that it's mh370. The wreckage though is my main reason for skepticism of the video and buy that argument.

I wanted to add a piece of information to this discussion. The whole topic of satellites, tracking a person or object reminds me of this The Guardian article from 2002

<https://www.theguardian.com/uk/2002/oct/13/humanrights.mobilephones>

This article claims that with a technology called CELLDAR, any moving object within range of a Cellular Tower can be observed through walls. The cell phone in the pocket of a person being tracked by CELLDAR is used for identification.

There is also a movie with Denzel Washington which shows the (fictional?!) technique to play back every situation, every moment live or in the past. I think it was about crime prevention in this movie or preventing crimes before they happen. I forgot the name of it.

Anyway, in 2002 there was a technology that could track people's movements through walls using computers and cell towers and display it graphically on a monitor.

So what was secret in 2002 if CELLDAR was no longer a secret, or what is possible 21 years later?

Maybe the video material which raises so many questions is not a video in the sense of a (live) recording but the graphical representation of what a technology unknown to us is capable of. I'm not saying it's CELLDAR but it gives us a hint of what might be possible.

This seems to be more of an advanced weapons test run more than anything. It would answer the question as to why they were filming at the moment that happened and give a motive for the captain

- to train for this flight track,
- turn off the transponder,
- and, tying back to the main topic, allow multiple angles for two different wavelength cameras to capture the event.

To extrapolate: US/NATO military has perfected some sort of antimatter weapon that can eliminate an aerial threat. Going further, looking at the acceleration of those three objects to lock onto the aircraft, I imagine it might be able to capture objects flying at much higher speeds than the aircraft.

As to the question "Why would they choose a commercial airliner and have a captain carry out this role?", my guess would be to publicize it to other nations and their militaries. The US trades the lives of 239 innocent passengers for press coverage for weeks. The press keeps international attention on such a mystery, leaving other militaries trying to piece together what had happened.

I have read this thread about the possibility of 2D cloud assets. For that to be possible you would need to find many different cloud assets with a matching shadow and light source, since with 2D assets you cannot manipulate the light / shadows the way this video depicts. I don't think this is even possible. The only way this to be faked was creating a full 3D scene with independent 3D clouds (maybe assets), but they would need to be animated independently, and realistically as shown in the video. This is a VERY HARD thing to do, more so in 2014, which is what is claimed in the original post.

Assuming this is real, what would the purpose be from a NHI perspective? I have a hard time believing it could've been a spur of the moment decision to create a wormhole/teleport a 777, as the video supposedly depicts.

If they wanted to abduct people, there are easier ways. If they wanted to abduct a plane or test the technology, why a full passenger jet and not a single engine plane? Not to mention that this is presumably one of the few planes that were under the kind of extensive video surveillance that this plane was clearly under at the time of the “event.”

I have a hard time believing this is real, but I have a harder time believing that a civilization with the technology to do what is depicted would just decide to steal a jumbo jet because they were in the area, or some other willy-nilly explanation.

So, if it was MH370, why was it taken, and not any of the other thousands of aircraft that would’ve been flying at the same time?

This could just be me, and BY JOE do I want this all to be true!

The satellite image shows the place from above (obvs..) and shows the plane moving through slightly 'staccato' framing. I understand the frame rate issue, but wouldn't we expect to see a BIT of movements in the surrounding clouds? I know the plane is travelling fast, but I would think that at 30,000ft+ windspeed (and therefore cloud speed) is faster and a little more 'animated'?

Again, I'm a HUGELY reluctant skeptic on this, but does anyone else feel me? Or can someone point me in a better direction of perspective?

Not only that, but couldn't that imply that this was in fact a human-created tech that did this? Filming a test of some sort of wild portal tech on an actual plane?

I remain extremely skeptical of this. I remember seeing this video years ago, and I swear it was explained as a "simulated" version of an MH370 disappearance caused by UFOs. But maybe I am wrong.

Well, knowing what we know now from our wonderful disclosure friends..

What if the UAPs power source or propulsion source, which we've been told uses extremely strong electromagnetic fields, messed with the plane's autopilot or navigation, as well as radio. With a strong enough source of EM, North could suddenly be shifted many degrees over.

Yeah, this is the part that is totally getting skipped over - if you suspend your disbelief and assume the video is true, the simplest explanation is that the plane was hijacked by the third party themselves. As in, they were potentially on the plane. Hijack the aircraft, turn off transponder, and fly out to sea to get as few eyes on it as possible.

A terrorist hijacking doesn't make sense. Neither does a pilot suicide/ultimatum scenario. Someone had to be flying that plane.

Try to put your self in Pilot's shoes . You get in a plane and think it will be another normal day at work...but suddenly you have three bogeys surrounding your plane which look nothing like anything you have ever seen..

You are so afraid after seeing them fly the way they fly So you try to shake them off by performing evasive maneuvers.

I don't know man..Just trying to think what I would do in the situation?

I think those things were following them and they were told to redirect their flight path over the open ocean instead of continuing into mainland China over several population centers. At that point drones and surveillance satellites were scrambled to monitor the situation and the footage from that is what we're seeing. That's also why the Malaysian government took so long to make an announcement.

If these videos are authentic (personally I'm skeptical) than I almost HOPE that the orbs seen are man-made reverse engineered tech.

I don't like the idea of aliens randomly disappearing commercial airliners and not returning them. That seems too aggressive for beings simply "observing" or "assessing". I know there would be different species with different motives but this aliens stuff has actually given me a bit of hope that there are other people out there who are concerned about us (in their own way) and that we might be close to exposing and dismantling the system the crooks in power have trapped us in.

This kind of evidence suggests something darker and makes me a little concerned. Disappearing the airliner doesn't necessarily mean the passengers were killed, but they weren't returned either. It's alarming.

Fred2606

2y ago

They were not returned for their families.

The aliens could be saving those important scientists from the impending explosion of the lithium batteries and later returned the people for our governments who couldn't explain and decided to hide the saved people.

2y ago

I lean towards believing that the videos are really of mh370, and from a drone and satellite as claimed, but the UFO stuff has been added to divert attention from whatever really happened.

I suspect it might have been a hijacking that was ended by the military, with the unfortunate method of destroying a civilian aircraft with all those people onboard. But remember if we thought another 9/11 was going to happen (somewhere in Asia, or perhaps at a military base), we (or another military) would probably shoot down a full 777, given what we knew of 9/11. This is just the explanation that seems most plausible to me personally, given all the data we have.

I would love to believe the UFO theory, for this to be real, but it seems more likely to be a really well-executed part of a coverup of something more mundane, to me. I am extremely confident the gov't could manage to take the real video from before the plane being shot down, and add super-accurate-looking, extremely convincing VFX, and then leak it, attempting to throw off the scent of whatever really happened.

I hope one day we learn the truth, whatever it is, for the sake of the families.

I think this is the most interesting evidence to suggest suicidal intent of the pilot. The flight path in located in system files on Zarharie's computer compared to the actual flight path. Almost identical.

Where was he going? We'll never know how or where it ended. But I do wonder why he seemed to plan on flying for so long and far.

Tinfoil hat question: what if aliens knew he was going to crash it and took the plane? I mean they're always abducting people anyway. There's 280 about to die. Or what if it was moved to a parallel dimension?

About the mysterious objects ABC news article link.

Converted to the metric system, the article mentioned 3 specific objects:

The largest object measured approximately 23.8 meters by 21.9 meters. The smaller objects are approximately 13.7 meters by 18.9 meters and 12.8 meters by 18 meters, according to the Chinese agency. (Reference: Airliner length 737-800: 39.5 meters)

Shape: The first and biggest structure is almost square in shape, with dimensions of roughly 23.8 meters by 21.9 meters. Two other smaller, yet still sizable, objects: One, a slightly elongated form, spans about 13.7 meters by 18.9 meters. The other, closer in size to the first but slightly more rectangular, is about 12.8 meters by 18 meters.

In the videos the shapes appear circular, spherical and all three have the same size but much much smaller than in the Chinese satellite measurements.

many people mention that rendering the clouds was a hard task in 2014. in reality games already did 3d volumetric clouds in real time by that point. i think Crysis 1 (2008) was the first game that did them...

from a technical point of view it was perfectly fine to make such fakes at that point in time for nearly no costs.

now the interesting thing i am curious about is. these videos came out in relative short after the disappearance. Was there actually all the information out by that point for someone to hoax it in his basement or may it have required some intel that only some agencies could have. And then why would they do it?

I started thinking about the teleportation part of the video and it resembles a wormhole. Astronomers and physicists have different ways of detecting black holes in space. I wonder if there is any sort of public scientific data available where it would be possible to see if there was any sort of a anomaly that showed up in the data on the day and suspected time this occurred

u/showmeufos avatar

2y ago

I'm not familiar with how to work with the data, but someone who knows more about it... would you be able to use NORAD publicly available TLE data to figure out which satellites were in the area at the time, and which may have taken the video if anyone thinks its actually from a satellite?

NORAD publishes satellite tracking data, and I think there's publicly available history.

I believe celestrak and space-track are the two sources?

<https://www.space-track.org/documentation#/faq>

<https://celestrak.org/NORAD/elements/>

Celestrak has been around since 2012 so the data may be there.

for non-developers, there's some sites like <https://orbitmapper.com/> that let you see current positions but idk if they let you go historical, some other site might.

u/aryelbcn Why does everyone say the pilot turned off the transponder? Could it not have been disabled by outside means? The timing of the transponder going off and the flight path deviation could suggest the plane was not under the pilot's control. I think this could be included since the character of the pilot was questioned but unsubstantiated by coworkers.

And note that the sat video was received by the original youtube uploader the same day the final military radar coordinates were released to the public. (March 12)

And note that the Malaysian president accused the CIA of a coverup of the crash on March 12.

And the videos were uploaded to 4chan in August 2014 as well as youtube

The videos are interesting but there is one thing that is a dead give away. This is a very human thing to do, why would an advanced race kidnap a whole plane of people in broad daylight with our military watching it happen? It seems like the consequences that follow wouldn't be worth it. It's an incredibly dumb thing for an advanced race to do. So yeah, it's a fake. A good one though.

"The 2014 test scheme included the deployment of EV-D68 in North America, the deployment of Ebola in West Africa, and the deployment of DENIED in China. The Chinese deployment plan was abruptly aborted, on March, 8th 2014, when we realized at the very last moment that this new version of the MojV virus wasn't performing as expected. The carrier were two passengers in a Malaysia Airlines flight en route to Beijing. We had no option but to down the plane, though we obviously could not do it over populated areas, nor even in any land mass. We had to minimize the risk of accidental spreading of the virus. We crashed the plane with all its 227 passengers and 12 crew on board in the most secure area we found, in the middle of the Southern Indian ocean."

Why do the thermal wakes of the UFOs lead the ufos for much of the time they are circling the plane? I would expect to see the thermal wake only behind the ufos. You can clearly see the majority of the spiral thermal wake following behind the ufos, as you'd expect, but if you look closely, you can see the thermal wake in front of the ufos. Take this with a grain of salt. NROL-22 is the publicly facing name that the NRO uses to acknowledge the launch. Nobody at the NRO, any 3-letter agency, or the contractor that built the satellite, calls it NROL-22, let alone have that designation displayed in telemetry. You could mention NROL-22 to any of the engineers who worked on the project and they would be like, "Errr... What?"

"The disappearing effect is crappy in the thermal video:

The teleport effect in the thermal video doesn't look very good, and I agree with that view. Considering the amount of work put into making this complicated hoax, you'd think they would have tried harder to make the disappearing part look more believable. I think this actually makes the video a bit more believable. It makes you wonder what this kind of technology really looks like.

Additionally, remember how Guillermo del Toro described his UFO encounter. "It was so crappy", and it was 'horribly designed'.

This is because we are used to slick and cool designs on Sci-Fi TV shows and movies. But we never really encountered a Sci-Fi element in real life. We have no idea how it might look."

These were my exact thoughts as well. It reminded me of Battlestar Galactica (the remake) that had these similar Faster Than Light jumps. The lens flares are quite similar and it appears very near to the videos.

Examples-

@ the 2:13 mark: <https://youtu.be/KHUVaqkBqhl>

@ the :18 mark <https://youtu.be/Y1pSxVz-XYo> (this one has multiple jumps)

If memory serves, the show ran back in 2013 so it's possible that the video is a fake. While I've dabbled in VFX previously the technology did exist back in 2014 to make the teleport/FTL effect. I am curious to find out whether not it's legit. Right now watching the Netflix doc so I have some more homework to do...

I agree with the poster that said they really hoped this was a fake. There are a lot of smart VFX folks out there. Is there really absolutely nothing any of them can find that points to this being a faked video?

Normally fake videos have something that gives them away, a bad frame, incorrect model, cloned items, something. And yes, this seems like it would have been hard with 2014 technology, maybe a composite? But if it is fake, there should be something findable.

The possibility of this being real is pretty disturbing to be honest.

I was about to make a lengthy post with some analysis, but yours looks good.

Additional proof that the clouds are indeed moving:

<https://imgur.com/a/OsysF20>

Thermal colours: The thermal colouring is just a setting for heat vision cameras, this is nothing out of the ordinary:

<https://www.atncorp.com/blog/black-and-white-thermal-imaging-vs-color-palettes-in-heat-vision-cameras>

Satellite angle shot:

Not all satellite shots are straight top view, in the case where the satellite is not located right "on top" of the target, the shots are slanted, example:

<https://www.pbs.org/wgbh/nova/spiesfly/phot-04.html>

Round UFOs claim:

This news article claims that rounded UFOs were detected in the vicinity of the MH370 flight before disappearing:

The first peculiarity is seen in the lower left of the screen. A round object appears in the vicinity of Flight 370 (and amid several others), which the radar does not automatically "read" as airplane. Suddenly, this round object takes the form of a "plane" on the radar screen and accelerates at a rate of speed that must be at least five times the speed of the surrounding planes, heading eastward, over the South China Sea - and just as suddenly the object stops and appears to hover in place."

<https://www.ibtimes.com.au/mh370-radar-detected-ufo-jet-goes-missing-malaysian-air-force-head-reportedly-confirms-sightings>

But debris was found:

Interestingly, it should be noted that debris associated with the MH370 flight was discovered. Taking into account numerous abduction narratives, if one were to entertain the notion that the plane was taken by UFOs, it is conceivable that it was subsequently returned to a different location, but maybe just the plane was returned.

And even if the plane was not returned and was indeed abducted and caught on camera by the military, there is a high chance that some fake debris would have been planted.

EDIT: The only debunking theory I see regarding these videos is "It is too crazy to be true". Remember folks, we are already into crazy territory. Remember a guy named David Grusch? claiming we have non-human craft and non-human bodies for 90 years? Yeah, nothing sounds so crazy anymore.

EDIT2: Made a new post:

I find this case to be fascinating on a meta r/ufo basis. There are many people bemoaning how this case is obviously fake. There are others that are digging super deep into it (like OP's post) and providing fascinating analysis that really makes me wonder.

I'm personally not sure if this is real. I often find myself disbelieving a lot of the posts here as rather obvious fakes or non-alien craft, but these videos leave me unsure.

It's just so weird to see this case being so polarizing in the community.

People think that you don't have to prove something is fake and that just assuming it is fake is rational critical thinking until proven otherwise.

But no, we have the government admitting explicitly that there are spherical objects that perform interesting maneuvers, and other objects of unknown origins which they can't explain, the allegations of Grusch, and decades of anecdotes. And then people ask "Well, where is all the video then?" while unironically dismissing all video which shows the extraordinary things they claim they want to see video evidence of.

People like OP are doing the rational, critical thinking for the rest of us, trying to falsify it. There are some legitimately smart and intellectually honest people here, despite the apparent polarization and lack of critical thought on both sides.

Every time there is an uptick in interest in this subject there is also an enormous uptick in inflammatory messaging on either side of this issue. The mods did an investigation into sock puppet accounts a couple years ago and this is precisely what they do they play both sides and sow derision.

I think even though the analysis points to real, it's so hard to reconcile in our brains watching a plane disappear or teleport. It just defies our understanding of possible events that can happen That's why the psychologically response is "pshh that can't be real" even though the analysis seems to point towards it is.

South Park has done so much damage to our society it's unreal, they did so much to push this idea that the only "sane and rational choice" is to assume everything is fake and sucks and if you believe in anything at all you're a dumb loser

We have people here who are like "wow it's weird this random decade old video (that itself makes no claims about anything that it is) has telemetry data matching up with a plane that disappeared, and it also shows a plane disappearing along side three orbs, strange too how the dates weather and geographic data all match up with a very famous missing plane that had a classified cargo manifest while seemingly being footage from both a US recon drone and spy satellite that would have reasonably been in the area"

Good thing there isn't any weird radar infections about that missing flight
<https://web.archive.org/web/20140502081107/http://au.ibtimes.com/articles/549105/20140423/mh370-malaysian-airlines.htm>

And ofc there would never be foia'd documents from the NRO (who helps oversee satellite Intel) referring to a "Mk370" crisis and the need for analyst from the continental us to be able to remote into sensor platforms in scifs outside the conus

I mean the part of your brain that is fighting it is a good and healthy skepticism. I mean there are ufo sightings yes but abductions are not nearly as able to be validated and this is just super crazy if true. It's good that it's polarizing in this instance because fantastic claims require fantastic evidence and everyone should be drilling down and trying to poke holes but if there's interesting real information we can analyze about it (like in the OP) then there needs to be another side of the argument so it isn't buried and ignored.

The reason I think the polarization is ok in this instance is the same reason I think it's good to have a defending and a prosecuting attorney. We want to get to the bottom of it and you need both sides for that

When we start to settle on physical debris with matching serials being found as proof these videos are hoaxes, I start to get worried. The NSA has intercepted packages containing computer hardware; routers, laptops, etc., opened those packages, modified the hardware and software as they needed to backdoor the systems, sealed them back up in manufacturer sealed packaging and sent them off to their destination. The government can do anything, creating some fake parts and throwing them into the ocean or on beaches does not blow my mind or enter the realm of the impossible; that shit is commonplace for a nationstate waging information and psychological warfare. I believe we need to investigate these videos until our eyes and fingers bleed from the effort.

Do we know if the debris are really part of that airplane? I mean, apparently they never were able to confirm the debris as parts of THAT specific airplane.

Opening_Relative_272

2y ago

The fact of the matter is they never found the plane. A full airplane. There should've been an oil and debris field lasting miles. It's hard not to find something like that and to not find it ever by anything not just the search party is stranger still. Many airliners have gone down over oceans and they are always found rather quickly.

Also worth noting that the bolted id badge was missing from the flaperon and according to the french investigators maintenance work that Malaysia Airlines has indicated it carried out on the flaperon does not exactly match that observed on the discovered piece.

The serial numbers don't help much. They aren't true confirmations. Debris can be planted.

"Malaysia's air force chief, Rodzali Daud, said military radar detected an UFO in an area in the northern Malacca Strait at 2:15 a.m. local time on Saturday about an hour after the plane vanished from air traffic control screens,"

This is somewhat notable, as the plane was last detected on military radar only 7 minutes after this, at 2:22am MYT. and then at 2:35am MYT is when it's presumed to have made a sharp turn to the south, based on the later Inmarsat pings, although it seems like it would have actually taken a bit longer for the plane to reach the airspace seen in the footage, as it's further NW than the presumed turn would have taken place.

aryelbcn

2y ago

The last Inmarsat ping was at 08:19 MYT. The claimed location of where this last ping happened is not 100% accurate, since they can only know the satellite-airplane distance and they just did some estimations of possible routes.

About the debris, I made a quick Google search and there was a lot of questioning about it, even back then and from the relatives. The "strongest" piece is a flaperon, but they said it was planted and was a spare part.

And then you have some plain ridiculous ones, as a bottle of water.

Despite its name FlightRadar is not radar, it tracks transponders. So unless the UAP decided to broadcast a transponder frequency, it would never appear on FR24. This video is almost certainly just a transponder being switched off then back on or a simple glitch.

Great post, adding on to the debris part:

I'm not sure which parts exactly were found, but I've seen atleast the door (or parts of it) was recovered. I'd say it's possible that the plane could've lost some parts during flight, if it was damaged for some reason (if we assume the video to be real, the teleportation could've potentially caused some damage to the plane, which later ended up in the ocean, not sure if small objects like that would end up being visible on the footage we have)

drama_filled_donut

2y ago

I don't think the debris matters in this debate on if the footage is real, honestly.

Scenario 1: ufo are edited in, we can assume the debris to be real.

Scenario 2: ufo are real, but then we can't assume anything as to what happened to the plane. Who's to say the ufo didn't abduct 200+ people and sauce the plane back in the ocean? The satellite tracking of the plane, closest to its perceived crash, are just a couple pings pretty far south of where it initially disappeared.

I guess if you found the debris to be faked, then it can make this video more likely to be true, but in a thread about proving debunks wrong, it's just extra conjecture.

I'm more inclined to believe that the underlying imagery is real (though the veracity of UAP and the splat in the image is still a question) than this is MH370, not just because the facts don't line up with MH370, but that the non-factual narrative you have to construct to make this work doesn't make sense. Recall that:

the pilot had to intervene manually to disable the transponders from the flight and make the particular maneuvers he made prior to the last primary radar contact, so does that imply the pilot would have to have some foreknowledge of what was about to happen?

if the satellite and drone were already tasked to MH370's vicinity, then again, that means those involved had to have foreknowledge that MH370 was being taken off its desired flight path (otherwise, this is a "why were they filming" question), the satellite imagery appears as if it is in broad daylight, while the majority of MH370's flight time was overnight, setting aside the time of day questions, the satellite imagery purports to be pointed towards the Andaman Islands, which is north of the generally accepted flight trajectory ("southern corridor") that this is an extremely sophisticated piece of disinformation, or an extraordinary fake, or,

I think two hypotheses seem plausible:

this is footage of some sort of extraordinary event (perhaps a test) involving a similar, noncivilian airframe

About aircraft velocity, 292kts might not be as slow as you think. You have to take into account altitude, pressure, and temperature.

Making some assumptions here but if aircraft was at 30,000ft, standard day (29.92) and temperature of -40C, the TAS (true airspeed) would be 482kts. That speed is very in the normal range for that type of aircraft.

Well done, and thank you. I'm frustrated by how quickly many people dismiss things as fake or CGI. We're confronting truly unfamiliar territory, which challenges our perception of reality. Numerous questions remain unanswered, and it seems the government has gone to great lengths to label believers as irrational. The stigma persists.

Exactly. For this to be fake, the guy who did it has to have an unbelievable level of knowledge about many different areas. But not a shallow knowledge, no. A details level knowledge. A polymath if you want.

The more we dig into it, the more remarkable details arise, contributed right here on Reddit by people with knowledge/expertise in many different fields. Knowledge that only people directly involved with that matter might have, not common knowledge.

And above all that, he was also a really talented graphic artist.

So either this was made by some kind of prankster genius, or it's real. There's no half ground here.

There's also the possibility that the footage is partially real and partially fake. So they took real imagery and edited it. Thereby preserving a lot of authentic details while adding some inauthentic ones.

That the plane is flying at an estimated 292kts is maybe why the wake turbulence is not so pronounced in the drone video. Google says reaper drones cruise at 150-170kts, so this also matches up with the plane buzzing by the drone. It would be nice to get some analysis on the drone footage and see if the plane's estimated speed matches up.

Doctrine vs Disclosure: Jacques Vallee's latest quote, "The universe is not a space time universe. What we perceive as space and time is a derived quantity from something else,...It's not just the physics. It's not just propulsion. It's our culture, our hopes, our visions of God, of other Powers."

Vallee actually did say some fascinating things: an NHI in a govt lab. May be controller of control system. Sophisticated communication in controlled conditions. The info acquired may destroy our culture and society. Also: a witness went inside the Trinity craft: egg shaped, empty inside, no engine

Of the proper times for invoking these angels

The Invocation for to call forth any of the aforesaid angels

Introduction

The Almadel (or Almandal, al-Mandal, Almādel, almadael, almodal, Almodellum Salomonis, Sefer ha-Almadil, מנדיל) referred to in this text is a kind of portable altar used for consecrations and for summoning spirits.¹ The altar is elevated above an incense burner, and holes (foramina) allow the smoke to pass through. According to the Latin text, the spirits will appear floating in the air above the almadel (two cannas = approx. 16 palms). (See demo prepared by Drs. Frank Klaassen and David Porreca). Versions of the text go back at least to the thirteenth century, and vary widely.² The text was apparently translated into Latin in the twelfth century from a now-lost Arabic version. It is possible the original was Sanskrit or even Persian.³

In addition to the unique version published by Vajra Regan, two main versions are known, distinguished as Almandal and Almadel. The former is closer to the Arabic source, while the latter apparently represents a significant revision and Christianization of the text.

The English versions (presented below) descended from the Christianized Almadel branch. The English text has been simplified from its Latin ancestor, and incorporates the use of a crystal ball; this contradicts the text's assertion that the spirits will appear floating in the air. The English versions are also reduced to only four altitudes. The first 2 correspond with those in the Latin Almadel, and the third corresponds roughly with the eighth. The last altitude in the English almadel doesn't seem to correspond to any of those in the Latin almadel, and the names are uncharacteristic of the others, suggesting it might be a later interpolation to compensate for a defective text.

1. Barbierato 2002 p. 70 also mentions a manuscript titled Altitudine Salamonis (Altitudine Salomonis). It was mentioned in a trial record of 1587, documenting actual use.

For a fuller introduction, see Veenstra, 2002.

2. See Vajra Regan 2018, pp. 277–333.

Table 2: Offices, directions, and times

The operation should be performed when the Sun is in the appropriate Zodiacal sign, as listed below. "And both the eastern and southern altitudes must be called from the first Luration all the way to the fifteenth, but the western and northern from the fifteenth Luration all the way to the end of that lunar cycle." Example: First altitude angels are only called when the Sun is in Aries (mid-March to mid-April).

EAST, Sunday, between sunrise until midday

1. Thaor: "[4] ... by that altitude are disposed beginnings, and the births of children whether disposed towards good or evil, and it is the first part of the heaven of the East, through which God bestows to all things which spring forth gratuitous gifts of his goodness. [5] And the fertility of creatures are bound and freed in that altitude, such as the ability of women to conceive [+or not conceive], and trees to bear fruit [+or not, and in great quantity or not]."

2. Corona: "its princes have the power over all acquisitions of things. So that all appraisals pass through their hands, and they have to distribute, take away, and give the bidding of God to people."

3. Heremon: "its princes have power over relatives and friends and over the movement of all waters, the sea, and all rivers, and over the material change of all things from place to place, and over the movement of the heavens and the stars and their rays, and over all movable objects with local movement."

SOUTH, Tuesday, from the morning until the ninth hour (nones)

4. Pantheon: "its principals have power over the successions of treasures and things, and it is in the middle [i.e. southern] parts of the heavens, and through natural dignity from the Holy Spirit they have the power to illuminate human intellect and arts, namely grammar and rhetoric."

5. Bym: "its principals have power through their office to move all animals with the movement of the heavens, according to nature, to propagating offspring and multiplying their species, whether underground, such as worms, or above ground, such as animals. And they govern the movements of animals to determined ends, themselves following as they are directed by God. And out of the gift of God they are able to infuse natural knowledge into people, namely, physics, medicine, alchemy, and their parts."

6. Noym: "[34] ... its principals, by the decree of God, have power over the state of the world, to move and to change monarchies, authorities, and rulers of the worlds out of one area into another. They distinguish masters from slaves and they immerse themselves in law, and they clarify laws and customs, and they compel demons, and defend people from their illusions. And they convey three areas of knowledge: Logic, music, and ethics."

WEST, midday to dusk

7. Baffor: "[36] ... Its princes have power over hostility and friendships of all creatures, and over lawsuits and battles everywhere on the earth. And they infuse astronomy, arithmetic, and music, by the gift of God." [per Jerome, like 3rd]

8. Decor: "[38] ... its princes have power over oaths which are made between creatures and God, and they compel them to keep their agreements, and they compel demons to keep their pacts with people and punish each by the command of God both in the first as well as the second movements, and they have power over separated souls, in order that they may rule them towards a good end, and they can cause life and death of creatures. And by their authority they infuse knowledge of theology, metaphysics, and geomancy." [per Jerome, like 4th]

9. Saphet: "[40] ... And they have power over the generation of the elements, from animals into their generation, and the princes with God's authority can quickly transport a person from one place to another, and they have mastery over all movement." [per Jerome, like 1st]

10. Bastra: "[41] ... they have the power to infuse temporal and intellectual dignities, if God permits, from the innocent time of Adam, which human senses are not strong enough to comprehend." [per Jerome, like 2nd]

11. Saruech: "[44] Their office is to exercise the judgments of God which are done in this world according to the flesh, and they restore a person to health and popularity. And he will tell him if a bad verdict directed at him or another in this world, and nothing else may be asked of him, except the teachings, life, and incarnation of Christ. He willingly teaches and declares these things which are hidden to people." [per Jerome, like 3rd]

12. And concerning this he should make his petition to her, and no other." [per Jerome, like 4th]

Notices of it include William of Auvergne (1228-1249), also the author of Speculum Astronomiae (1277) [Boudet, p. 145], as well as Johann Trithemius, Heinrich Agrippa, Johann Weyer, and Jacques Gohory⁵. See also Solomon entry in the Jewish Encyclopedia for more information.

5. The relevant passage by William of Auvergne is quoted verbatim in Gehr 2013 pp. 9-

10. Gohory (Compendium 1567, p. 203) mentions that he had recently acquired a copy on the death of a very dear friend, written on parchment, with well-ordered invocations, rubrified in cinnabar, and consecrated.

The main Latin manuscripts have been critically edited by Julien Véronèse in 2012.⁶ To this should be added the important study by Damaris Gehr in 2013.⁷

6. Véronèse, 2012.

7. Gehr, 2013.

The two versions are known from at least six Latin manuscripts and three German translations, dating from the fifteenth century.⁸

In the first version, which Véronèse designates "F" or "Almandal", the altar figure is constructed on a copper ("eris rubei") plate, held up by iron rods. The letters are written on candles (for night-time operations) or wands (for day-time operations)⁹, which are placed at the corners. Like the version published by Vajra Regan, it has the four gates that typify the Sanskrit mandalas. It is fumigated and exorcised for a week, whereupon the spirits will obey you in everything.

8. See below. See also Boudet, 2006, p. 149.

9. Albrile and Tortelli recently published an Italian translation (2018). According to version F of the Almandal, the wands should be made of Anthyllis barba-jovis (Jove's beard) — an evergreen shrub native to the mediterranean region. They should be decorated with silk ribbons of 4 colors: green, white, red, and yellow. In version F2, these flags (vexilla) are made of sandalwood, topped with the herb barba-jovis. (Albrile and Tortelli identify this as the succulent dewflower / Drosanthemum.)

According to ms. F, the names or words around the almandal read: "Utim, Elatym, Alpheia, Auphy, Hyn, Haralatym, / Haymeventi, Gregoniat, Claryn, Gergelatym, Gerahatyn, Gerhacym, / avedoch menbedach menedach nebedach heydach rabcheysaym, / hesatyn lachar nebesatyn lacarasatyn saatyn sephetim."

The names specified in version H2 are different (they include Otheos, Mortis, Eltyn, Gogota, Gogal, Alfucary, Alabrath, and others).

Version H2 (Gehr Ha1) specifies the size to be twelve digits (digitus) or 3 palms square, and one digit in height. The letters to engrave on the flags or candles are: "1) Almucul lehy algah Eytalchaa; 2) lehaaula vvelecog vetaullehil lehulleh haligy hyllazam; 3) cullum hylle halaly; 4) Culluzazyn ellicum illequezah allahy leu alchum guayeyley turgahnuam."

A related version, designated F2, has additional details: It specifies for example the size of the Almandal should be a square, one foot on each side, and a half-finger in height. It also specifies the day and the hour and a formula of consecration.

The second version, designated "Almadel", is similar but structured differently, and the almadel is made of wax, and is a one-half foot square.

Ritual apparatus 1: The Almadel figure

The almadel should be made from clean wax, one-half foot square. It should be colored as appropriate for the altitude being worked with (see table 1). Sacred names should be written on it with a new silver stylus.

Almost all of these names can be found in the Vinculum Salomonis, an early Solomonic magic text which figures largely in the Key of Solomon, Lucidarium artis Nigromanticae § XVII, Heptameron, and other magic texts. These include: El, Yava (seems to appear in corrupted forms Yara and Yatha) Adonay, Eloy, Heloym, Saday, Agla, Yoth, Elyon, Primeumathon, Ya, Onoytheon, and Anabona. Honoytheon appears in various forms as (SSM, L.2.f.55): Onoytheon, as well as Onaypheon, Onayfeon, and Oneyteon. (Chave-Mahir and Véronèse 2015 p. 162 and p. 162 n 152.) "Yoth Beth" is probably a corruption of "Yoth Heth", as it appears in the Halle ms. This leaves only "Pius" unaccounted for.

All of the early manuscripts vary somewhat in the details of the names and other design elements:

Ms. W (based on description): (In the first quadrant): Adonay, Alyas, Thelyon, Eloy, Pius. (Second): Helyon, Heloim, Helym. (Third): Yoth, Beth, agla (Fourth): Thetagramathon, Saday, Ya.

Note however, according to the description in the text, there should be only 12 divine names around the perimeter — one for each of the twelve altitudes (§§ 21-22; Véronèse 2012, pp. 145-146), thus showing that the list of names assigned to the East is defective here.

In the corners should be the "sign of Solomon." According to Véronèse, these are six-angled stars, but the manuscript doesn't use the word sexangulus/exangulus here, but it does for the central figure, and other manuscripts variously show five or six-pointed stars. Between those signs should be written: Honoyteon, Pneumathon, Yatha, and Anabona.

Ms. W2, based on description:

In the first quadrant: Adonay, Eloy, Pius. In the second: Helyon, Heloym, Helym. In the third quadrant: Yoth, Beth, Agla. In the fourth: Thetagramaton, Zadai, Yaya. And it should be known that between one square and the next must be written the name [*sign] of Solomon ... between the signs of the first quadrant this name should be written: Honoytheon, and between the signs of the second quadrant: Pneumathon, and between the signs of the third quadrant: Yatha, and between the signs of the fourth quadrant: Anabona.

Ms. Hs. 458 fol. 221r, BnF AI 160 fol. 246r (cardinal directions added):

Vat. lat. 3180 51r. Note: The drawing doesn't match the text, and appears to incorporate a number of variants. E.g. in drawing (1) "Adonay helon pius" and (2): "Adonay heloym pius"; in text: "Adonay Helmon pius". In drawing (1) "Helyon Heloy Hely" and (2) "helyon hely heth"; in text: "helyon helon hely".

Ms. H, fol. 243r, showing candles (shown here as open circles) going through the almadel rather than having feet or protrusions which support the almadel. Although the drawing reads "loth Beth Agla", the text itself has the better reading "loth Heth Agla". Note the golden seal (or signet) in the middle.

Coxe 25 p. 218. The name Pneumathon (or Primeumathon) seems to be missing from the diagram and the description. The text also says (like the others) that "between each of the angles (of the six-angled figure) should be written the name of God hel" which was not rendered in the original drawing. I have added them in here in red. It has also been rotated 180 degrees to better facilitate comparisons. Essentially identical is BSB Cgm 407.

Ad. 36674 fol. 152r (Mid- to late-16th century). This manuscript doesn't include any explanation of the diagram. Note the similarities with Coxe 25.

Gollancz fol. 20b: ADNI ALHIM RChMN (the last word means "merciful"; equivalent of Latin "pius"/compassionate) / Tetragrammaton ShDI IH / IVD BITH AGLA / OLIVN ALHI ALI; (inner) HVMAITAN / ANBN / IIR / PRIAAMRAVN.

Ritual apparatus 2: The candles.

According to the Latin text, "four candle holders should be made from the same wax, such that two parts should be above the almadel, and the third part below. Likewise there should be a lip on each candle holder on which the holy almadel can rest, and four candles should be made from the same wax, and in the top of each candle holder should be a hole, in which the candle should be placed." (Véronèse § 7 p. 137, my translation.)

The English manuscripts seem to have confused this, and instead state that one third of the wax should be used for the almadel, and two thirds for the candles.

Ritual apparatus 3: The garments.

According to the Latin text, the artiste should wear a garment that is the appropriate color for the altitude, namely, the same color as the almadel and candles. (Véronèse § 20 pp. 144-145)

Ritual apparatus 4: Incense and incense burner

The English version mentions only mastic as the incense of choice. The Latin specifies mastic in most cases, but for the rest:

fourth: saffron and frankincense

sixth: mastic and frankincense seventh: "incense" (thimiamata = Exod. 30:34?; / Coxe 25: cinnamon) and frankincense (thus) eighth: frankincense, mastic, and musk ninth: musk, saffron, and frankincense tenth: lignum aloes and white pepper

Ritual apparatus 5: The signet or golden seal.

According to the Latin text, a signet or seal should be made of gold or silver, and placed in the middle of the almadel. On it should be engraved sacred names, inverted. (verso modo or everso modo. See Véronèse § 13, pp. 140-141, and § L, p. 167.) The reason for this is explained later in the ritual: If the angel fails to appear, the conjurer should press the seal onto one of the candles, thus imprinting the sacred names in their proper form into the wax.

Mss. W and W2 give the sacred names as "Helyon, Adonay". The Halle ms. reads "Heloem Adonay" in text, but Heloem Adonay in drawing; the Vatican ms. "Eloem Adonay"; Coxe 25 reads "these three names: Heloym, Hel, Adonay." BSB Cgm 407 similarly reads "dise drey nomen Heloym, Hel Adoney."

It isn't clear whether Heloym (Elohim) אלהים, "God/god" or Helyon עליון "Most High" was originally intended.

Perhaps the extra name here — El/Hel — (also seen in the English mss.) was displaced from the hexagram in the earlier mss., and not originally part of the gold seal.

As seen above, ms. H (fol. 243r) depicts the golden seal as "perfectly circular" ("totius rotundum"), both in the drawing and the text, whereas the English manuscripts show it as triangular.

(reversed)

(or in Hebrew characters)

The early 16th century Hebrew ms. Genève 145 shows it in the shape of a pentagram, with the names "BR (?) / ShU (?) / AVN (?) / ADNI / ALHIM."

NOTE: As with the other examples, the holes in the four corners are for the candles. There are six incense vents at the points of the hexagram. The star-shaped signet shown in the center is for stamping the candles, and is not part of the almadel table itself.

According to ms. H2 (fol. 230r) the sigil ring should be wrapped in red muslim (sindon rubea) when not in use.

Proposed reconstruction.

Taking all this into consideration, here is a proposed reconstruction, with 12 names around the perimeter per §§ 21-22, all taken from the Vinculum Salomonis:

[145v]

Here beginneth the fourth part of this Booke which is called Salomons Almadel Art

By this Rule¹ Salomon obtained great wisdom from the cheefe Angells that governe the 4 Altitudes of the world for you must observe [that] there be 4 Altitudes, representing the 4 corners of the world, East, West, North and South. The which are divided into 12 parts, that is, every part or Altitude into 3, and the Angells of every of these altitudes have their particulars vertues and powers, as shall be shewed in this following matter &c c.

1. Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU, Harl. 6483: art.

[The Making of the Almadel]

Make the Almadel of pure white wax, but [+the others must be]² colloured sutable to the altitude [as will be shown]; it is to be four squares [square], and six Inches [over] every way; and in every corner a hole and write betwixt every hole with a new pen, These words or names of god, following, but this is to be done in the day and hour of Sol.

2. So Sl. 2731, Sl. 3648, NWU.

Write upon the first part towards the East,

Adonai, Helomi, Pine, and upon the second towards the south, Helion, Heloi, Heli,
and upon the west part:

Jod, Hod, Agla:

and upon the fourth part which is the north write these names:

Tetragrammaton, Shadai, Jah,

and betwixt the first and the other quarters make The Pentacle of Salomon thus [pentacle], and betwixt the first and [the] other quarters write this word, Anabona and in the middle of the Almadel make a six angled figure and in the midst off it a Triangle wherein must be written these names of god,

Hel, Helion, Adoni [*Adonai],³

And this last name round in the 6 Angled figure, [as well,]⁴ as you may see in this figure, here made it being for an example &c.⁵

3. Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU: Hell Helion Adonaÿ. Harl. 6483: Heli, Helion Adonai.

4. Lat: El.

drawing of almadel

5. The drawings given in Sl. 3825, Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU, and Harl. 6483 are essentially identical. The figure given by Waite in his Book of Ceremonial Magic is quite defective. The version in Idries Shah, Secret Lore of Magic, New York, 1970, p. 172, seems to be based on Waite, but with some attempted corrections not based on the original manuscripts.

[The candles]

And of the same wax there must be made four Candles, and they must be of the same colour as the Almadel is of. you must divide the wax into three parts, one part for to make the Almadel of, and the other 2 parts for to make the candles of,⁶ and let there come forth from every one of them a foot made of ye same wax, for to supporte ye Almadel with;

6. Candles: See the introduction. This seems to be a corruption of the Latin text, which specifies that one third of the candle should be below the almadel, and two thirds above.

[The golden seal]

This being done: in the next place you are to make a seal of pure gold or silver, but Gold is best wherein must be engraven these three names: Helion, Hellujon, Adonai;⁷ &c c.

7. Golden Seal: See the introduction.

[Of the First chora or Altitude (East)]

Nota The first Altitude is called Chora Orientis or the East Altitude and to make any experiment in this Chora, it is to be done in the day and houre of the Sun: and the power and office of those Angells is to make all things fruitfull & encrease, both Animals & vegetables, in creation & generation; advancing the Birth of [the] children & makeing barren women fruitfull, &c. Their names are those. vizt, Alimiel, Gabriel, Borachiel, Lebes & Hellison;⁸

8. Lat.: Arymyel, Gabriel, Barachiel, Lybes, Helyffan, Helyson.

Note: you must not pray for any Angells but those that belong to the same Altitude, you have a desier to call forth. and when you operate, set the four candles upon 4 candle sticks, but be carefull you doe not light them before you begin to operate, then lay the Almadel between the four candles upon the waxen feet that cometh from the candles and lay the golden seal upon the Almadel, and <and> [Then] haveing the Invocation⁹ redy written on virgins Parchment: Light the Candles and read the Invocation as is set down at the latter end of this part &c c.¹⁰

9. According to the Latin text, the petition is to be written down on virgin parchment.

10. This phrase is not found in mss. Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU, or Harl. 6483.

And when he appeareth, he appeareth in the form of an Angell carrying in his hand a fan or flagg, having the picture of a white cross upon it, his body is wrapped round about with a fair cloud, and his face very fair and bright, and a Crown of Rose flowers [is] upon his head: he descends¹¹ first upon the superscription of ye Almadel as if it were a Mist or Fogg.

11. Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU: ascends. Lat.: apparebit super sanctum almadel in aere ("it will appear in the air above the holy almadel").

Then must the exorcist have in readyness a vessell of Earth of ye same collour of [that] the Almadel is of, and the other of his furniture, it being in the form of a Basin, and put therein a few hot ashes or coales but not too much lest it should melt the wax of ye Almadel, & put therein 3 little grains of Masticke in powder, so that it fumeth and the smell may goe upwards threw the holes of the Almadel when it is under it, and as soon as the angell smells it he beginneth to speake with a low voice asking what your desier is and why you have called the princes and governors of his Altitude. then you must

Answer him, saying,

I desire that all my requests may be granted, and what I pray for may be accomplished, for your office maketh appeare and declareth that such is to be fullfild by you if it pleases god, &c, adding further the particulars of your Requests praying with sincerity [and] ^humility for what is lawfull and Just and that you shall indeed obtain from him:

But if he doth not appear presently, you must then take the golden seal, And make with it three or four marks upon the candles, by which means the angell will presently appeare as aforesaide: and when the Angell departeth he will fill the whole place with a sweet and pleasant smell which will be smelt a long time.

Nota. The golden seal will serve and is to be used in the operation of all the Altitudes. The Collour of the Almadel belonging to the first Chora is lilly [lily] white. To the second Chora a Perfect red Rose Collour; The 3d Chora is to be a green mixt with [a] white silver collour. The Fourth Chora is to be a black mixt with a little green of a sadd collour &c c c c c.12

12. Sad: a deep, dark color. See table 1.

Of the second Chora or Altitude:

Note: all the other three Altitudes with their signes and princes have power over goods [146v] and riches, and can make any man Rich or poor, and as the first Chora giveth Encrease and maketh fruitfull, so these giveth decrease and Barrenness, &c c c c c.

And if any have a desire to operate in any of the other 3 Choras or Altitudes, they must doe it on Sundays in the manner as above is shewed; But doe not pray for anything that is contrary to the nature of their office, or against god and his laws, but what God giveth according to the course of nature, that you may desier and obtaine, and all the furniture that is to be used is to be of the same collour as the Almadel is of, and the princes of this second Chora are named as Followeth Vizt: Alphariza, Genon, Geron, Armon, Gereion¹³ &c.

13. Latin: Alpharaym, Geon vel Gereon, Vereon, Armon, Beremon.

NWU: Alphariza, Genon, Geron, Armon, Gereimon. SI. 3648, SI. 2731, H: Aphariza ... Gereimon.

and when you operate kneel before the Almadel with cloathes of ye same collour in a closet hung with the same collours also, for the holy apparation will be of the same collour: and when he is appeared, put the earthen Bason under the Almadel with fire and hott ashes and 3 graines of Mastic in powder to fume as above written, and when the Angell smelleth the perfume, he turneth his face towards you, asking the Exorcist with a low voyage why he called the princes of this Chora or Altitude, then you must answer as before; saying:

I desire that my Request may be granted, and the contents thereof may be accomplished, for your offices maketh appear and declareth that such is to be done by you if it pleases god, &c:

you must not be fearfull but speak humbly saying &c:

I recomend my <my> selfe wholly into your office, and I pray unto your princes of this Altitude that I may enjoy [+and obtain all things according to]14 my wishes and desiers, &c:

14. So Sl. 3648, Sl. 2731, NWU, and Harl. 6483.

you may further express your mind in all particulars in your prayer &c. doe the like in the 2 other Choras that follow &c ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ ~.

The Angell of this second Altitude appears in the form of a young childe with clothes of sattin and of a Red Rose collour, haveing a crown of Red gilly flowers upon his head, his face looking upwards to heaven, and is of a Red Collour and is compassed round about with a Bright splendour, as the Beams of the Sunn; and before he departeth he speaks to the Exorcist, saying I am your friend and brother, and [he] Illuminateth the ayre round above with splendour, and [he leaveth a] pleasant smell, which lasteth a long time, &c c c c.

of the Third Chora or Altitude

In this Chora you are to doe in all things as you are before directed in the other Two. The Angells of this Altitude are named as foll: vizt Eliphamasai, Gelomiros, Gedobonai, Saranana, & Elomnia;15 They appeare in the form of children or little women drest in green and silver collours, very delightfull to behold, and a crown of Bay leaves, beset with Flowers of white and green collours upon their heads and they seeme to look a little downwards with their faces, &c. They speak as the others doe to the Exorcist and leave a mighty, sweet perfume behind them, &c c c c c c.

15. Sl. 3648: Eliphantiasai: Gelomiros: Gedobonai: Saranava, & Elomina;
Sl. 2731: Eliphantiasai Gelomiros Gedobonai Saranava & Elomina;
NWU: Eliphantiasai, Gelomiras, Gedobenai, Saranava, & Elomnia.

These names seem to be taken from Turner's edition of Ars Notoria § 24: "by thy archangels, eliphamasai gelonucoa. Gebeche banai Gerabcai, elomnit."

Version A (Véronèse p.42): "... per sacratissimos angelos tuos, Elypha, Masan, Gelomioos, Gedehantrai, Sasaramana, Elomuid.

Of the fourth Chora or Altitude

In this Chora you must doe as in the other [others], and the Angells of this Chora are called Barchiel, Gediell, Gabiel, Deliel, & Captiel. &c. These appeare in the forme of little men or Boys with cloathes of a Black colour, mixt with a darke green and in their hands they hold a Bird which is naked & their heads are Beare, only it is compassed round & [147r] Besett with Ivy [and] Berries. The[y] are all very beautifull and comely and are compassed round with a Bright shineing of diveres [divers] colours. They leave a sweet smell behinde them allso; but [it] differeth from the others something [somewhat] &c c c c.

[Of the proper times for invoking these angells]

Nota: There are 12 princes rulling besides those in the 4 Altitudes, and they distribute their offices amongst themselves, every one rulling 30 dayes [or thereabouts,] every yeare, now it will be in vain to call any of those Angells unless it be those that then governeth, For every Chora or Altitude, hath its limited time according to the 12 signs of the Zodiack and in that [what] signe the Sunn is in. That Angell or those angells that belong to that signe have the government: as for Example; suppose I would call the 2 first of those 5 that belong to the first Chora, Then chuse the first Sunday on March: that is after the Sun is entred [Aries], and then I make my Experiment; and so doe the like if you will the next Sunday after againe; But if you will call the 2 second that belong to ye first Chora,¹⁶ Then you must take the Sundays that are in Aprill, after the [Sun] is entered [Taurus]. But if you call the last of the 5th [five] Then you must take those Sundays that are in May after the [Sun] is entered [Gemini]; to make your Experiment in; doe the like in the other Altitudes, for they have all one way of working: But the Altitudes have a Name formed severally in the substance of heaven even as a Character, for when the Angells hear the names of god that are attributed to them they hear it by the vertue of that carecter [character]. Therefore it is in vain to call any angell or spirit unless you knew [know] what names of god to call them by; Therefore observe the forme of this Following conjuration, or Invocation &c c c c c.

16. This wording makes it clear that the original text had three altitudes for each quadrant, for a total of twelve. See table 1.

The Invocation [for to call forth any of the aforesaid angells]

O thou great mighty and blessed angell of god, N, who ruleth as the cheefe & first governing angell in the first Chora or Altitude in the East, under the great prince of the East whom you obey, and [who] is sett over you as king by the divine power of god, Adonai, Helomi, Pine; who is the distributter & disposer of all things, holly in heaven and Earth and hell; I the servant of that god Adonai, Helomi, Pine; which you obey, doe Invoke, Conjure & entreat thee N. that thou forthwith appeareth, & by the vertue & power of the same god, [Adonai, Helomi, Pine], I doe command thee forth [by him whom you do obey and who is set over you as king by the divine power of God, that you forthwith descend] ffrom thy order or please [place] of abode to come into me, and shew thy selfe plainly and visibly here before me in this Cristall stone, in thy owne [and] proper shape and glory speaking with a voice intelligible and to [unto] my understanding: O thou mighty and blessed angell N, who art by the power of god ordained to governe all vegetables and Animalls, and causeth them, and all other creatures of god to spring, encrease, and bring forth according to their kinds and natures; I the servant of the same your god I doe entreat and humbly beseech thee to come and shew unto me all things that I shall desiére of you, so farr as in office you can, or be capable to perform, if god permitt to the same;

O thou servant of mercy N, I entreat thee, and humbly beseech thee, in and by these 3 names of your true god, Adonai, Helomi, Pine, And doe constraine you in and by this [powerful] name Anabona, That thou forthwith appeareth vissibly and plainely in thy own proper shape and glory in and throwgh this Cristall stone; That I may visibly see Thee, and audibly hear you speake unto me, That I may have thy blessed and [147v] Glorious angellicall assistance; familiar, friendship, and constant society, communication and Instruction, both now and at all other times, to Informe and rightly Instruct me in my Ignorant and depraved Intellect Judgement and understanding; and to assist me both herein, and in all other truths, else what the Almighty Adonai, the King of Kings, The giver of all good gifts, shall in his Bountifull, and Fatherly Mercy be graciously pleased to bestow upon me; Therefore O thou blessed angell N. be friendly unto me, and doe for me, so farr as god hath given you power in office to performe, whereunto I move you in power and presence to appeare That I may sing with his holy Angells, O Mappa-la-man! Hallelujah amen.¹⁷

17. John Dee's records of his scrying sessions (TFR), Apr 14, 1584, has this phrase. I haven't identified an earlier source.

[Note this invocation is to be altered according to the Altitude and angell you wish to call forth.]¹⁸

18. This note is only found in Harley ms. 6483.

When he is appeared, give him or them a kind entertainment, and then Aske what is Just and lawfull; and that which is proper and suetable to his office, and you shall Obtaine it.

So endeth the Booke Almadel of Solomon. &c.

Scientists detect mysterious radio waves coming from beneath Antarctica's ice

A group of researchers in Antarctica have found strange radio waves coming from below the ice.

According to the results published in the Physical Review Letters, the mysterious radio waves were discovered by the Antarctic Impulsive Transient Antenna (ANITA).

During this experiment, the researchers analyzed signals traveling to Earth using a variety of instruments.

Using balloons to send the instruments up high into the atmosphere, the goal was to gain new understandings of cosmic events throughout the universe.

According to the release, the reason Antarctica was the site of these experiments was due to little to no interference from other radio waves.

However, the researchers found radio waves transmitting from under the ice instead.

Stephanie Wissel, associate professor of physics, astronomy and astrophysics from Penn State, and one of the researchers discussed in a release by the college, revealed they discovered the radio waves while searching for a particle known as neutrinos.

"The radio waves that we detected were at really steep angles, like 30 degrees below the surface of the ice," Wissel said in the release.

Wissel went on to explain that the radio waves should have been undetectable.

The waves would have had to go through thousands of kilometers of rock and would have been absorbed into the rocks.

She also said in the release that the team of researchers had no answer about how these neutrinos were detected.

According to Wissel, neutrinos are important to the understanding of the universe due to emitted by high-energy sources and are typically hard to detect.

Researchers used balloons to analyze signals traveling to Earth using a variety of instruments during the experiment.

Stephanie Wissel/ Penn State

Wissel said that you could have a billion neutrinos passing through you at any moment but they don't interact with you.

"So, this is the double-edged sword problem. If we detect them, it means they have traveled all this way without interacting with anything else. We could be detecting a neutrino coming from the edge of the observable universe," Wissel said.

Once discovered, these particles can reveal data and information about cosmic events that even the most powerful telescopes can not.

According to Wissel, the balloon is sent up 40 kilometers or 29 miles above the ice to catch emissions signals.

However, the researchers cross-referenced their findings with two other experiments and found that their results did not match up.

What do you think? Post a comment.

This means that what they found were not neutrinos but something else entirely.

Wissel said that there have been some theories that this could be dark matter, but it can't be confirmed and remains a mystery.

"My guess is that some interesting radio propagation effects occur near ice and also near the horizon that I don't fully understand, but we certainly explored several of those, and we haven't been able to find any of those yet either," Wissel said.

Interesting. Since scientists are baffled and don't have a clue, those mysterious radio waves under the arctic leaves a lot open to speculation. There have been rumors for awhile alluding to the sci-fi theory that aliens from outer space have managed to establish bases underground and in the oceans....

Some of the radio waves have been decoded as follows: "This is Casey Kasem with the Top 40 hits in the USA! Diana Ross and the Supremes coming in at number 9 with "Baby Love". And now it's time for our long distance dedication.. . "

I read the paper and found no discussion whatsoever that it might be a phenomenon of the ice itself, eg. piezoelectric shock-stress or tribo(radio)luminescent ice-fracture. Something analogous to the electromagnetic effects of seismically activated granite that have been discovered.

Saudi Arabia launches VR initiative bringing Kaaba's Black Stone to Muslims' homes
Technology lauded by Mecca's Grand Imam, but critics accuse it of 'tampering with religion'

Sheikh Abdul Rahman al-Sudais, the imam of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, launching the 'Virtual Black Stone Initiative' that will allow Muslims to experience Kaaba remotely (Twitter\@ReasahAlharmain)

Pilgrimage to Mecca brings millions of Muslims to Saudi Arabia every year. But now the kingdom has launched a virtual reality initiative that it says will allow Muslims to touch the Black Stone, a rock at the southeastern corner of the holy Kaaba, without leaving home.

Named the "Virtual Black Stone Initiative", the new VR technology would bring Islam's holiest site to Muslims' living rooms at a time when Covid-19 has hampered travel and Saudi authorities have limited pilgrim numbers to tackle the pandemic.

The 30cm-diameter rock at the Kaaba, known in Arabic as al-Hajr al-Aswad, is revered by Muslims, who believe it has fallen from heaven and dates back to the era of Adam and Eve.

Hajj 2020: Is it time to rethink how the pilgrimage is organised?

Sheikh Abdul Rahman al-Sudais, the imam of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, was the first to experience the scheme, sporting virtual reality goggles for the inauguration last week.

Sudais said that Saudi Arabia has "great religious and historical sites that we must digitise and communicate to everyone through the means of the latest technology".

However, not everyone is happy with the initiative.

Some social media users saw the use of virtual reality technology in holy places as "tampering with religion" and "fiddling with God's Sharia", while others wondered if Muslims will perform pilgrimage, which requires circumambulating around the Kaaba, using VR goggles from their homes instead of going to Mecca.

All able-bodied Muslims are expected to perform Hajj, the major annual pilgrimage to Mecca, at least once in their lives.

In July, Saudi Arabia allowed only 60,000 citizens and residents, who were fully vaccinated, to perform Hajj, a figure falling from 2.5 million pilgrims in 2019, before the pandemic.

Earlier this month, Saudi Arabia detected its first case of Omicron, the new Covid-19 variant, and imposed a travel ban on non-citizens from seven African nations.

This isn't the first Black Stone-technology crossover Saudi Arabia has attempted this year.

In May, Saudi Arabia took 1,050 high-resolution photographs over seven hours of the Black Stone, which Muslims touch, kiss, or wave while walking past it.

The photographs, which were 49,000 megapixels in size, took more than 50 hours to develop, revealing in sharp focus the details of the holy relic, which was once white but has turned black over the centuries due to use.

(NewsNation) — A team of researchers claims to have found what they believe is evidence of Noah's Ark at the Durupinar site in eastern Turkey, using advanced scanning technology to support their theory that the biblical account represents historical fact rather than parable.

Andrew Jones, lead archaeological researcher for Noah's Ark Scans, told NewsNation his team has been investigating the ship-shaped rock formation since 2019. The site was discovered in 1959 by Turkish Army Capt. İlhan Durupinar.

Neuralink patient explains first year of life with brain chip

"We have a shape of a ship, and then you look at the size of it ... exactly 300 royal Egyptian cubits," Jones said Thursday on NewsNation's "Vargas Reports." "That's what Moses wrote in the book of Genesis."

Many scientists say discovery is most likely natural geological formation

Though many scientists say the rock is most likely a natural geological formation, the team conducted nondestructive geophysical scans, including ground-penetrating radar and electrical resistivity tomography, which Jones said revealed structural patterns inconsistent with such formations.

The scans detected what appear to be chambers and corridors extending up to 30 feet underground. They say the scans reveal buried timber-like patterns consistent with a man-made vessel.

Noah's Ark at the Durupinar site

A team of researchers claims to have found what they believe is indisputable evidence of Noah's Ark at the Durupinar site in eastern Turkey, using advanced scanning technology to support their theory that the biblical account represents historical fact rather than parable.

Soil testing revealed the formation contains nearly "three times more organic matter" than surrounding areas, with elevated potassium levels that researchers suggest could indicate decomposed wood.

The site is located in the mountains of Ararat, matching the biblical account in Genesis that describes the ark's resting place.

Jones said the scans show three distinct layers of material, with what appears to be a central tunnel and side chambers with right angles, suggesting constructed walls and rooms.

Jones acknowledged that others have previously claimed to discover Noah's Ark but said his team will continue research until another site provides comparable evidence.

Washington gave Ankara prior notice of looming Israeli attack to fend off potential tensions over Syria, sources tell Middle East Eye

The United States notified Turkey of Israel's plans to strike Iran on Friday, a few hours before the strikes took place, two sources familiar with the matter told Middle East Eye.

The American notification late on Thursday may have helped prevent potential tensions between Turkey and Israel, who have recently found themselves at loggerheads in Syria over Ankara's increased presence in the country.

Israeli jets are believed to have used Syrian and Iraqi airspace to target sites across the Islamic Republic. Since December, Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's government has destroyed every aerial defence system in Syria, effectively leaving the country defenceless.

On Friday, Iraq's foreign ministry filed a complaint with the UN Security Council over Israeli aircraft using the country's airspace to strike Iran.

The Reuters news agency reported on Friday that the State Department sent a diplomatic note to several regional allies in the Middle East, including Qatar, informing them of the looming Israeli strikes on Iran.

MEE reached out to the Turkish foreign ministry and the US State Department for comment but did not receive a response by time of publication.

Tensions between Turkey and Israel have escalated as Ankara and Damascus have begun talks to establish several military bases in Syria to help train the country's fractured military.

Along with Lebanon, Iraq and Jordan, Turkey aims to help Damascus combat the remnants of the so-called Islamic State (IS) group and seeks control of the Tiyaas air base, also known as T4, in eastern Syria.

Although Ankara began operations at the base in April, activities have progressed gradually due to Turkish-Israeli deconfliction talks held in Baku, according to the sources familiar with the issue.

By allowing Israel to bomb Iran, Trump is pushing Tehran to go nuclear

Read More »

One of Israel's main concerns is the possibility of Turkey gaining control of Syrian airspace and potentially deploying Russian-made S-400 air defence systems there.

An Israeli official told MEE last month that Israel did not want Ankara to closely track Israeli aerial movements, especially in the event of an attack on Iran.

A Turkish source told MEE that Ankara was unlikely to deploy S-400s to Syria, as Washington opposes the plan. Instead Turkey is expected to deploy air defence systems targeting immediate threats such as drones and low-altitude attacks.

Since Israel launched its assault on Iran, Turkish President Recep Tayyip Erdogan has held several phone calls with regional leaders, including the presidents of the Islamic Republic, the US and Russia, advocating for diplomacy as the only way to resolve the dispute.

Over the weekend, Erdogan told US President Donald Trump that negotiations over Iran's nuclear programme were the only peaceful solution to end the conflict, and offered Turkey as a facilitator for peace.

According to Ankara insiders, the Turkish Air Force was placed on high alert as the government convened a series of security meetings to study potential emergency scenarios and spillover risks following the start of the Israeli military campaign.

In his phone call to Syrian President Ahmed al-Sharaa over the weekend, Erdogan advised Syria not to become involved in the escalation between Iran and Israel, and to remain alert to further risks and attacks by terrorist groups.

A MEE correspondent, who has requested anonymity, contributed to this report.

Symbol Comms / Acroamatics
Quick Comms: Sun
The world's best disinfectant.
sleepydude
Sep 12, 2023

So, just about every other month we get a news article with something like "Solar Storms may threaten to take us into an Internet Apocalypse!"

Every article then goes on some diatribe saying how "this can't happen" and "it's all exaggerated."

If so, then who is putting out the constant updates of impending solar doom? More to the point, why are so many outlets entertaining the idea?

Is it just for the clicks and headline baiting?

Or is something with Comms at play?

Well, you know me. I think it's Comms. Bi-weekly updates to Cabal members on the prospects of "taking it all down" and a new age of "post" internet culture.

But, what does it all mean? How can solar flares and storms threaten our internet infrastructure? Who determines whether or not these solar events are anything to be afraid of? Why all the fear porn surrounding these uncontrollable events?

Before we can jump headlong into Comms, however, let's take down the Sun and examine what it means. First let's examine what Alchemists thought, then step through the Freemason's lodge, and lastly examine it in the modern setting.

The Sun is a wide topic, and being a Quick Comms means I'm only gonna do a brief summary for now. A Long Comms is necessary in the future, but let's just stick to the basics for now.

Sun — Concerning Alchemy

The Sun in alchemy is considered a font of life. Its energy is responsible for sustaining life here on Earth. Photosynthesis, weather, and the like. Modern science accepts this as well, but Alchemists have a different approach to the Sun as it pertains to the esoteric meaning behind its nature.

The Sun dispels the night. The night obscures all sight.

Light is Truth.

Anything that emits light emits "truth." Some light is counterfeit, while other light is reflected. If you store sunlight, for example, it isn't a "reflection" of the truth but it isn't direct truth either. The Sun is the primary contributor and arbiter of the, capital "T" — Truth.

Most generally, the Sun is the Man as it pertains to what we call the "Nuclear Family Unit." It's the Mind and Decision Maker. The one which sets the rules for others to follow. The place from which Authority to Govern is derived. It's the Masculine Energy, as compared to the Feminine Energy of the Moon. It's also untarnishable energy, which is why Gold is associated with the Sun. Like Gold, it maintains a constant and reliable weight, as the perfect medium with which to weigh with the use of scales.

Anything organic you may burn derives its energy from this Primary Truth Bearer, we call the Sun. If you want to produce light(truth) you must burn "stored" truth in the form of fire, or Passion, in this case.

Anything that's "on the surface" is something the Sun can hit. If it hits it, it is exposed and will be revealed by its light in the face of Truth. Truth is all-powerful when directed. "Cold-hard" facts, aka Ice, melts as the light of the Sun bears down upon it. Therefore, just as "established" facts can be whittled away by the light of Truth, so too can all other such things find their foundations undone by the blistering sunlight.

Basically, the Sun is the Collective Conscience of Humanity. Land represents what we assume to be real. Some land is firm and barren. Some land is loose soil ready for planting. Other land, however, is a false foundation of “cold hard facts” we call “established” history. As opposed to “real” history. When the sunlight blares upon the surface of “established” history, it inevitably melts. What is left under the sheet of ice is either an empty abyss or firm permafrost and bedrock. If the Sun hits the black and endless abyss, then you know you have been deceived. It takes time for the Sun to melt away the ice and arrive at the foundation of the history we know, but when it does there is no mistaking whether what lies beneath is a chaotic maelstrom of lies and deceit or a firm foundation of reality capable of upholding any sacred pillars (statutes and laws) we seek to plant upon it.

When it comes to “Global Warming” this is what the Cabal fears most. They fear the heat of the Sun, which arrived upon the Dawn of the Great Awakening, melting away all of the fake historical (cold-hard, icy) information and uncover what is actually real and what is actually fake with the help of the Light of Truth, which is represented by the Sun.

But, I’m getting ahead of myself.

Let’s examine what the Freemasons Think.

Sun — Concerning Freemasonry
Take a look at these symbols:

Particularly, take a look at the Sun.

I’m sure you’ve seen the “face in the sun” symbol before. There’s also the one for the moon, but for right now we’re talking about the Sun.

For an individual, the Sun represents the Conscious Mind. The Moon represents the Subconscious Mind (Reflected Sunlight, Dreams/Visions), and the All-Seeing-Eye represents the place where inspiration comes from — your “Third Eye” which can pierce the veil and retrieve the “yet to be” from the Great Unknown. The Power of Individual Agency, Free Will, and the aspect of the Divine Spark we call Discernment or Self-Determination.

Respectively, the Sun represents the Collective Conscious Mind of the Masses. It represents where everyone is looking. The Will of the People. Including the “Mob Mentality.” What trend and hot topic everyone is paying attention to. What plants and animals alike use to measure the passage of time.

A mason builds large buildings from stone as part of their trade. Freemasonry is about “nation building” which is the next evolution of societal construction.

Part of this endeavor to “build” civilization is to plan and direct the Masses(think: planets) towards tangible ends. Rome wasn’t built in a day, as the saying goes. Therefore, in order to wrestle from the Masses all forms of labor that fulfil the grand pursuit of “building a nation”, or a “Solar System”, you must first convince them that the goal is worth the effort. Either through manipulation, coercion, blackmail, slavery, or otherwise, the People must agree to build the “thing” you want them to build. How you direct their energies, their passion, towards this end is depicted by the Sun.

The Sun, therefor, surrounds itself with all forms of Orbital Bodies, the Masses, and uses its Gravity to keep them in line and on predictable trajectories.

Those moments where everyone puts aside their differences and works in what way they can to serve the “Greater Good” represents the Day Time. The age of Work in the Field, only doable so long as the Sun is there to grant us sight. The Sun is the Direction as well as the Directives. Any grand movement, like a Celestial Movement, can only be undertaken if enough people pitch in to make it so.

Up until now, this is all generally “wholesome” but it does have a nefarious angle...

From a Cabal perspective, coercion, bribery, and slavery is the only method worth employing. It takes too much time to “enlighten” the Masses in order to convince them to “build the thing.” Instead, just trick them like you would trick a toddler into doing as you say. Lie to them, convince yourself it’s a White Lie, and get the job done. After all, it’s ultimately “for their own good.” They’re too stupid to think for their own benefit, so they need someone to tell them what to do, not waste time explaining what is moral or not. The ends justify the means, so lie now to get results and explain when they’re worth the effort.

That’s their logic anyways...

Sun — Concerning the Cabal

When they say “We need to block out the sun to cool the Earth” they mean that the Collective Consciousness, the Sunlight of the Collective Mind, needs to be obscured, lest it melt all the fake history that they’ve spend centuries freezing into your mind after endless brainwashings; we can’t have people asking “hot” questions that put us under a spotlight; we can’t have the world “leaders” find themselves in a “hot” seat and under investigation.

To a Cabal member speaking this language of metaphor, it makes total sense that we should simultaneously switch to Solar Power (Popularism/Celebrity Power) while also blocking out the Sun(Collective Conscience).

They are saying, both figuratively and literally, “If we can’t safely harvest the passion(heat) of the masses and redirect it with ‘solar panels’, we need to block it out.”

“Solar Panels” could be thought of as news panels and celebrity spokesmen who come in and tell you what to think and where to direct your attention. Mirrors, effectively, trying to “push back” against the growing tides of distrust in the Government “foundations.”

This goes into censorship.

Fire, but more particularly Heat is synonymous with Passion. When enough people give something their singular attention, their energies compound and turns into an intense heat. When angered, this heat turns into a flame which can only be smothered with the Blood of their oppressors, in the form of Mob Justice. It is, therefore, the intent of the Cabal to keep the heat low, and keep “Global Warming” and “Climate Change” from resulting in a “melting” of their established history such that they can delay the “great flood” indefinitely. Meanwhile, groups like BLM and ANTIFA work to “let off some steam” in ways they can direct against the People’s own will.

The Ice Caps represent this Established History. Antarctica represents the Esoteric Cabal history, including Secret Societies, Symbolism Comms, and most historical false flags, while the Arctic represents our current “surface” and “top” level understanding of the world, like how medicine “works”, or how stocks, taxes and businesses “work”, or how politics and media “work”. Everyday corporate and government scams, generally. These are the things, like with the Arctic, have no “basis” in legitimacy or derived authority. It’s all empty and based on circular logic when you look closely into them. They are built upon lies and only the dark abyss remains underneath. The Antarctic, however, does have a solid foundation under its ice sheet, but it is in the best interest of the Cabal to keep it from ever seeing the “light of day.” They turn everything in the Antarctic into folk takes and Conspiracy Theories to dissuade people from wondering what’s actually “under the ice.”

They can afford to lose the North pole, in some respects, but an Antarctic Melt would be the end of them as “unimaginable technologies” are revealed to the world. Tesla and UFO types of energy manipulation. Things that can lead to each person being so empowered such that they no longer have to abide by national or international governance. You can’t tax me if you can’t catch me in my UFO-powered flying RV. That kind of stuff.

It would be an end to their current “Climate” — as the slave masters with us sheep being the slaves.

The Sun, which burns up the viability of their One-World Order, therefore is none other than our Collective Consciousness and the general sentiment of Non-Compliance. They cannot have the Sun turn against them. They cannot lose control of the Collective Will.

They wish to hold the “Sun” in the palm of their hands — to decide when it gets to shine or not. With it they would have full control over what trends or waves the Mind of the Masses can perpetuate over the Globe. Like vampires, which spurn the Sunlight, they wish for a day they can rule in perpetual twilight, free from all the minds of the world from ever becoming their own Enlightened individuals who can think without need of any external light source, even the Sun. Comms pertaining to the Patriarchy, as the Sun is the Masculine Symbol, also allude towards this Twilight Age where “Men” are no longer in power, but instead their Artificial Light is; their “Fake News” directing all the movement of the Masses(think: planets/industries).

So, when you see Comms about the Sun taking out the Internet, they’re talking about the potential need of unplugging their toy, the World Wide Web, and going back to an age where Mankind was more manageable. They are always considering taking us back to the stone ages — to rule over the ashes lest the slaves wander free, or even worse, seeking for retribution from their former slavemasters.

In summary, the Sun can be thought of as “The Hottest Thing” going. It’s whatever is keeping most of the attention of the World at large and simultaneously burns corruption away for any moldering, dark Cabal fiends unfortunate enough to get caught out in the open and “exposed” for all the World to see.

That’s why we call Sunlight the best Disinfectant.

AKA, Free Speech.

Or Transparency and Accountability, if you prefer.

US considers 'sun blocking' to cool the Earth: What is it and does it really work?

Researchers hope we could cool the earth by Ispraying sun-blocking aerosols into the atmosphere. What has the UN said?

A White House report confirms that the US is open to researching solar radiation modification, or sun blocking.

It sounds like something out of a sci-fi novel, but some researchers want to cool the earth by reflecting sunlight back into space.

The outlandish idea is currently trending, after the US voiced interested in studying 'solar radiation modification' (SRM) as a possibility, according to a White House report last week.

Advocates claim it could reduce the devastating impacts of climate change, and even refreeze the poles.

"SRM offers the possibility of cooling the planet significantly on a timescale of a few years," the report states.

Earlier in the year, several news outlets also reported that the United Nations are keen to 'explore' it.

But just how viable really is sun-blocking technology - and what have the United Nations actually said?

How could blocking the sun stop climate change?

'Sun blocking' technologies - also known as 'solar radiation modification' - could theoretically cool down the earth by reflecting sunlight back into space.

One idea involves pumping sun-blocking particles into the upper atmosphere. This process of 'stratospheric aerosol injection' would involve planes spraying an aerosol like sulfur dioxide into the stratosphere.

This mist of particles would reflect the sun back upwards, shading the earth. The method has already worked - albeit accidentally. When Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines erupted in 1991, it released thousands of tons of sulphur dioxide. The global temperature temporarily dropped by 0.5°C.

In September 2022, researchers at Yale university argued that the injection method could hypothetically refreeze the poles.

Are the US and UN keen to explore this technology?

A White House report published last Friday confirms that the US is open to researching SRM.

"A programme of research into the scientific and societal implications of solar radiation modification (SRM) would enable better-informed decisions about the potential risks and benefits of SRM as a component of climate policy, alongside the foundational elements of greenhouse gas emissions mitigation and adaptation," it says.

However, the report also clarifies that no decision has been made to "establish a comprehensive research programme focused on solar radiation modification."

In February, several news outlets are reporting that the UN wants to 'explore' this technique.

This could give the impression that the organisation has approved sun blocking as a viable tool to fight climate change.

Unfortunately for tech enthusiasts, this is not the case.

The UN Environmental Program's recent report into SRM concludes that it is not currently a realistic or wise plan.

"UNEP concurs with the panel that, at present, large-scale, or operational deployment of SRM technologies is not necessary, viable, prudent or sufficiently safe, given the limited scientific understanding and uncertainty about the potential impacts and unintended consequences," says UNEP's Chief Scientist Andrea Hinwood.

"The review concludes that SRM cannot replace reducing greenhouse gas emissions."

Nonetheless, the body doesn't rule out the method altogether, with the report concluding that their assessment of the technique "may change should climate action remain insufficient".

What does the research on sun-blocking show?

Research into the sun-blocking technique has yielded mixed results. Even its passionate advocates usually call for a reduction in global emissions first.

The Yale report outlined a hypothetical plan to "turn the global thermostat", according to lead author Wake Smith.

If their plan was implemented, 125 high-flying jets would periodically spray the particles into the atmosphere at latitudes of 60 degrees north and south - roughly around Northern Alaska and the southern tip of Patagonia.

The particles would slowly drift towards the poles, cooling the earth below by 2 degrees Celsius.

The authors suggest that there is "potential global benefit" in their plan, which would cost around $11 billion (€11.3 billion).

"There is widespread and sensible trepidation about deploying aerosols to cool the planet," Smith says.

"But if the risk/benefit equation were to pay off anywhere, it would be at the poles."

But the plan poses other potential problems.

It would require 175,000 particle-spraying flights per year, which would release millions of tonnes of greenhouse gases into the air.

To address climate change, the world must rapidly reduce its reliance on fossil fuels, Smith warns.

"Game changing though this could be in a rapidly warming world, stratospheric aerosol injections merely treat a symptom of climate change but not the underlying disease," he says.

"It's aspirin, not penicillin. It's not a substitute for decarbonization."

For Bad Speech, Is Sunlight Really the Best Disinfectant?

Mar 29th, 2019

Not all arguments in support of free speech are good ones.

There are many good reasons to support free speech. Doing so upholds individual rights. It reinforces equality by allowing all voices, no matter how marginal, to be heard. Free speech is an indispensable tool for holding government and other powerful interests accountable. However, not all arguments supporting the necessity of free speech are good arguments. One popular but misguided argument for free speech is that it reliably exposes and drives out falsehood—the “sunlight is the best disinfectant” argument.

The phrase “sunlight is the best disinfectant” was introduced to American legal discourse by Justice Louis Brandeis, who served on the United States Supreme Court in the early 20th century. He penned the phrase in his book Other People's Money. Justice Brandeis was a pioneering thinker who advocated for more financial and government transparency as a way to combat corruption. He argued that simply making the actions of government officials more visible to the public was a powerful way of stamping out unethical behavior:

Publicity is justly commended as a remedy for social and industrial diseases. Sunlight is said to be the best of disinfectants; electric light the most efficient policeman.

Media Name: brandeis_l_0.jpg

Today, Brandeis's quote is frequently invoked in a different context. Free speech proponents often use the phrase when they insist on the importance of allowing fringe, controversial voices to be heard. Giving groups like white supremacists a chance to make their case, the reasoning goes, only causes them to expose their bankrupt worldviews for what they truly are. Supporters of this argument claim that, rather than censoring or shutting such voices out, it is much more effective to “shine sunlight” on dangerous or facile ideas and thereby eliminate them.

Those who support this line of reasoning are correct in many respects. Indeed, commitment to free speech requires permitting expression of even the most radical ideas. As Locke put it, censoring or penalizing radical voices is useless: “Penalties in this case are absolutely impertinent, because they are not proper to convince the mind.” If flat-earth theorists, racists, and other such parties truly believe what they say they believe, forcing them to be silent for the sake of avoiding confusion does nothing to correct error or highlight the superiority of other positions. On top of that, forced silence violates individual rights.

Though free societies are absolutely obligated to protect speech that is hateful, grossly ignorant, or unproductive, that does not necessarily mean that such a practice will always lead to greater understanding or enhanced knowledge. Human beliefs are heavily influenced by suggestion, repetition, propaganda, and the authorities people trust. People form their beliefs in ways that at best only loosely resemble reasonable, evidence-based thinking. That human beliefs are subject to such chaotic, arbitrary forces undermines the popular adage that “sunlight is the best disinfectant.” In many instances, indiscriminately amplifying any and all voices is counterproductive to the pursuit of knowledge. As information-sharing technology expands, radical extremist groups have managed to reach many more people and grow their ranks. And as information platforms become more powerful, having constructive dialogue may get even more difficult. Free societies must be willing to accept the possibility that absolute free speech will come at an increasingly greater cost to the pursuit of truth.

Assuming the goal is to gain more knowledge, more speech is not always better than less speech. Even in a free society, the truth does not always win out. Disinformation campaigns and propaganda can pull the wool over the eyes of entire populations. Fake news and conspiracy theories can spawn communities that systematically buck the tide of better, more widespread speech, doubling down on their isolated worldviews and even growing their numbers.

Human beings are not wired to think critically. Anthropological accounts of how human intelligence developed describe an evolutionary process that selects for traits that advance human cognition only insofar as doing so aids survival, traits like the abilities to make tools and engage in coordinated social behavior. This evidence reveals us as high level primates that managed to survive based on capacities that have little to do with our ability to discern abstract truths. While rigorous logical thinking and scientific skepticism may be valuable today, these abilities had little utility for most of our species's history. In fact, overly-rational thinking would have likely been a serious drawback to the success of homo sapiens because it would have prevented us from routinely making life-saving decisions despite limited information.

In the modern context, unsurprisingly, a host of psychological weaknesses cripple us when we try to reason and gain high-level knowledge. We struggle to overcome our biases, we are more likely to believe things that we hear more often, and we are over-inclined to believe those we trust even when they are poor sources of information. We gravitate to stories over facts, draw conclusions based on emotions, double-down on our views in the face of disconfirming evidence, and simply do a terrible job of organizing and weighing information. Culture, language, religion, social status, etc., are all factors that can severely limit the extent to which we are able to truly benefit from free expression and open dialogue.

For the sake of argument, assume the world has two basic groups of people: those who are close-minded and those who are open-minded. The open-minded are generally truth-seekers. They do their best to think clearly, overcome their biases, and not be influenced by their psychological vulnerabilities. As such, they generally consider new ideas carefully, even ideas they disagree with or perceive as unproductive or ignorant. The close-minded crowd, on the other hand, is generally unwilling to seriously consider their assumptions or biases. They see new ideas that challenge their beliefs as things to be defeated, not carefully considered.

Of course, misinformation and disinformation are nothing new, and humans have always been limited in their ability to think critically. Optimists may argue that, given the progress we have made thus far despite our weaknesses, such progress will continue. Technological advancement and the increasing accessibility of information, they may say, could even accelerate progress. Unfortunately, this is probably wrong for one key reason: open-minded and close-minded people play by different rules in the public sphere.

Note that close-minded people are not necessarily bad, nor are open-minded people necessarily good. For most of human history, it was impossible to even attempt being open-minded. Crushing poverty, omnipresent danger, and the time-consuming pursuit of scarce resources like food and shelter were more than enough to keep humans occupied. But a recent explosion in human progress and access to information has dramatically changed the world we live in, demanding that we utilize a mental toolset that is at odds with many of our other mental instincts.

As information-sharing technology gives a platform to both types of voices, it seems very possible that the close-minded crowd will win more converts. This is because they exploit all the weaknesses of human psychology—they play on fears, they reinforce biases, and they over-simplify things into a coherent narrative. These tactics are good both for quickly persuading others and for discouraging them from further inquiry. By contrast, the open-minded crowd's rulebook is characterized by prudence, willingness to be wrong, and a resistance to overly-reductionist accounts of the world. This yields circumstances where the close-minded person is far more likely to change the mind of an open-minded person than the converse. It is an uneven playing field, and the information age could be tipping it more and more in favor of the close-minded camp. For the close-minded group, new technology is a powerful tool for weaponizing and rapidly disseminating information that confirms pre-existing narratives. But for the open-minded crowd, new technology complicates things. It demands far more work of them, requiring them to sort through new facts, qualifying their claims and moderating their own beliefs.

As all voices become more readily amplified by technology, the close-minded crowd may begin to gain ground, dealing a heavy blow to the knowledge-building cause. But even if information-sharing technology does far more to spread ignorance and untruths than to build knowledge, protecting free expression on these platforms is still the right thing to do. Defending free speech in the public square is good because it preserves individual rights, not because it sometimes leads to greater knowledge. Libertarians and other advocates of free speech should defend it for the right reasons and with reality in plain view.

Navigating The Solar Storms Comms

Ships in space dodge waves of the solar variety!

Required Reading — Quick Comms: The Sun

So, it's that time again where we talk about the Sun and its production of "Solar Storms" that threaten to "Take out the Internet" due to the "Ionization of the Atmosphere."

Fearmongering aside, I do believe these are real threats to the Cabal and the Comms surrounding them are very much dire, just not in the literal interpretation...

How many "Solar Storm" events have come and gone with nary a light flickering this past two decades?

The biggest spike on Google Trends was from January to March, 2012.

Most referenced a then coming July Solar Storm.

It came and went, and then in 2014 (the second significant spike) reports came out in lockstep talking about the "near miss" that occurred in 2012.

"July 23, 2014: If an asteroid big enough to knock modern civilization back to the 18th century appeared out of deep space and buzzed the Earth-Moon system, the near-miss would be instant worldwide headline news.

Two years ago, Earth experienced a close shave just as perilous, but most newspapers didn't mention it. The "impactor" was an extreme solar storm, the most powerful in as much as 150+ years.

"If it had hit, we would still be picking up the pieces," says Daniel Baker of the University of Colorado." - NASA

First, to understand the Comms, let's briefly talk about asteroids and meteors...

In Comms, Asteroids are in reference to various forms of slush funds. They're filled with precious metals, news of them comes and goes in cycles, they vary in size and composition, and can spell doom should they "crash" into Earth.

When they do crash, they are called "Meteors."

An example of the most recent "Meteor" event would be the Silicon Valley Bank collapse.

For more space Comms, consider what it means when a stock "goes to the moon!"

Back to the Sun...

The “Sun” is the head honcho producer of light in a Solar System. If Light=Truth, then the Sun is the preeminent source of Truth for our little spec of dust floating in space. The phrase “sunlight is the best disinfectant” alludes to this esoteric concept.

But that’s not all the Sun represents. In general, it represents a Spiritual Consciousness.

“The sun is that of consciousness in the spirit”- The Pictorial Key to the Tarot

In other words, it’s general awareness in what is going on. An “enlightened” soul is one which not only knows the truth, but can share that truth. They can both read and write. Receive light, reflect light, and produce its own light, upon its own discretion.

A “Solar Flare”, then, is an outburst of Truth from the most immediate source of Truth available to us — The Collective Consciousness.

In short, a DECLASS event.

Dark to Light.

Truth Bombs. Booms.

A Solar Storm, then is the result of a massive Solar Flare. The accumulative volley of energy of that Storm is referred to as a Coronal Mass Ejection — or a CME for short.

These terms are important going forward, because they have modeled their cryptographic communications around the nature and dynamics of Solar Flares/Storms. This is how they warn one another of coming economic, socio-political, and mass media disruptions.

Net Zero

They are willing to “pull the plug” on the internet in order to prevent certain facts from “coming to light.”

Or, even just block out the sun by an artificial means...

Think: “Sunblock”

Another word for Censorship, really. If the Sun represents Consciousness, or the acknowledgement of events, then blocking it out definitely falls in the ballpark of Censorship.

It's all alliterative, as you can see.

The big take away is that they are spooked by something, and haven't been this spooked since January-March of 2012 in anticipation of the July 2012 CME event.

So, what happened that year?

Or, rather, what almost happened that year?

David Petraeus:

Petraeus and Broadwell engaged in a secret extramarital affair—exactly when is not clear—after years of close contact as biographer (Broadwell) and subject (Petraeus).

By the time Petraeus became Director of the Central Intelligence Agency in 2011, Broadwell had been working closely with him for years. She used nicknames for him such as "Dangerous Dave" and "Peaches".

In May 2012, Jill Kelley filed a complaint with the FBI after receiving disturbing emails from a user identifying as "kelley patrol". Kelley, her husband Scott, as well as her sister Natalie Khawam also happened to be friends of Petraeus and his wife Holly from the time Petraeus was stationed at CENTCOM in Tampa, Florida.

Petraeus and Broadwell used fake names to create free webmail accounts exchanging messages without encryption tools. They would share an email account, with one saving a message in the drafts folder and the other deleting it after reading it.

Do you really believe it was just an affair?

The timeline adds up with the Solar Flare, doomsday media articles.

That, and the "near miss" aspect of it all.

Here's what I think really happened:

Petraeus made a deal with his "biographer" to leak secrets out of the Obama Administration to anyone willing to buy. Book Deals can be lucrative, after all. As head of the CIA, I'm sure he had some good intel that could be acted upon. Truths(light) which would really put a damper on Obama's 2012 election campaign. Romney was a paid stooge, so international cells and White Hats would have been the interested buying parties.

Fortunately for Obama, his hoodlums found out about the scheme. To avoid a scandal, they shut down Petraeus, assigned him one of Obama's lawyers and debate opponents named Robert B. Barnett to keep an eye on him (lawyers can be really good babysitters), and then built up the story about an affair he was having with the biographer as a cover story. He lives, which is the preferred outcome to avoid any chinks in Obama's shiny armor from forming, and the crisis is averted. He also probably had some Dead Man Switches available if anything should have happened to him.

Then, what of the spike in 2014?

Well, let's let No Name's statements during that time put a bow on that bombshell:

Later, as the executive branch recommended pressing charges against Petraeus for the breach, Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.) wrote to Attorney General Eric Holder on Petraeus' behalf in late 2014. "Congress and the American people cannot afford to have his voice silenced or curtailed by the shadow of a long-running, unresolved investigation marked by leaks from anonymous sources," McCain wrote.

Therein lies a notable nugget of intrigue.

ISIS and Azov McCain probably still needed Petraeus to complete the 2014 coup of Ukraine and the, later, Syrian governments.

Keep in mind while all this stuff was going on in 2012, Snowden was making his moves within the NSA.

Snowden, by the way, is not a good guy. At least, not when Q was active. Who knows who he made deals with lately...

For reference:

"The directorate, sometimes known as "the Q Group," is continuing to track Snowden now that he's outed himself as The Guardian's source, according to the intelligence officers." - The Daily Beast - Published Jun. 10, 2013

If you want to know more about that, read up on one of my past GAW posts.

I'll have to do a dedicated post on @snowden and No Name in the future...

Point is, Obama ran a strict ship. Or, strict enough to not need frequent Arkancide like Hillary did. He played clever games to make sure people in the Cabal didn't view him as a bloodthirsty madman. He had to look "sophisticated" and "reliable."

"I mean, you got the first mainstream African-American who is articulate and bright and clean and a nice-looking guy. I mean, that's a storybook, man." — Joe Biden, describing fellow candidate Barack Obama.

Here Comes the Sun
So, what about the Sun again?

Oh, yeah, the Solar Flares are a coming!

As much as the Solar Flare Comms in the past had to do with Obama, I can only surmise that this is more of the same. We're about to get Obama news. Or, at least, there's the threat to the Cabal of it coming out.

Are we gonna get some Benghazi news? Petraeus was tied into those deals as well, if I recall.

Fast & Furious gonna have a sequel? The Border IS wide open after all.

Maybe Vaccine news is gonna come out, finally? Lines up with what happened in July of 2012 at least: GlaxoSmithKline settles healthcare fraud case for $3 billion

How about another mass shooting? July 20th 2012 was the Colorado Theater Shooting. Everyone does love a good distraction.

Or, news about Big Mike taking over for Biden? Is that why they are dragging their feet signing him up in Ohio? He's not all that popular there anyways, after East Palestine...

Oh, yeah, Palestine. How is that shaking up for O'Biden?

Not so well, huh?

Oh, well...

Anyways, it's starting to look to me that the "Big Sun" is about to set on Obama's tenure and third [Shadow] Presidency. Or does that make it a Sun "Rise"? Either way, I wouldn't say it's all due to the efforts of Trump and White Hats, mind you, but rather from the lack of faith instilled in him on behalf of the wider Cabal criminal network.

They're really starting to hate his ass and having to wipe up after Biden's frequent “accidents.” The Comms are breaking down, and they know they look like fools covering for the senile old pervert.

I’m only speculating here, mind you, but I think that’s generally what’s coming down the pipeline in the next 25 days.

It takes 25 days for the Sun to make a full rotation, so that’s my timeframe for these Comms.

And, remember — NASA stands for Not A Space Agency

Science Comms Appear to be Fearmongering Especially Hard Today

The chatter is hard to make out, but I can tell the excuses are flying left, right, and center.

sleepydude
Jul 18, 2024

Google News: Science

Boy, the financial/space Comms are really all over the place.

Canceling plans, asteroids, meteors...

All conveniently sized like the Eiffel Tower, Cruise Liners, or other obtuse systems of measurement.

Asteroids are funds — allocations of resources for specific projects.

Like slush funds.

“Landing” on an asteroid means tapping it for resources not of its original intent.

The strange measurement they give it denotes the origin and size of the potential funding source.

“Eiffel Tower”? Does that mean it’s a French investor?

“Cruise Liner”? Does that mean it’s a large enough sum to purchase your own cruise liner?

Only time will tell.

“Meteors” indicate a fund has collapsed, or crashed, like a stock might crash. This is why we call it “going to the moon” when a stock like GME has a vertical graph trajectory. What goes up must come down, and the higher a stock rises, the more powerful the impact when it falls.

“Close calls” indicate they are near to either being tapped or outright crash due to insolvency.

Meteorites/Craters are the aftermath where people “pick up the pieces” and try to salvage what they can from the fund — insurance policies and the like. Its the “too big to fail” philosophy.

“Black Holes” indicate that the slush fund is basically a Ponzi scheme. Money goes in aaaand—it’s gone!

They shorted the hell out of everything in anticipation for Trump's head to be cottage cheese by now. Lots of "meteors" are expected, and many asteroids are having "close calls" as their investors, who were promised a "sure thing" in Trump's death are now at all-time lows in confidence. I suspect some are having a "coming to God" moment in seeing the absolutely unexplainable mere grazing of Trump's right ear.

You have literal Satanists in the Cabal and then you have adherents who are just there to make money, get famous, and avoid the crosshairs themselves. They don't really believe all the mystical crap when they're forced to chant and holler along with "HAIL SATAN!" during their Bohemian-style get-togethers. They're just there for a paycheck and to feel in control.

When something like this happens...

When it looks pretty damn likely Trump has help from On High...

At the very least, it jolts some of these cultists into wondering if there really is something to this whole esoteric, cultish, mystic, pseudoscience crap. They might not grow a conscience overnight, but when a gambler starts to get a little superstitious they are likely not gonna tempt fate and roll the dice when there is suddenly a string of back-to-back improbabilities.

Is it wise to double or nothing when a coin just flipped tails ten times in a row?

"Don't tempt fate... cut your losses and run."

That's what a lot of the luke-warm cultists with money are thinking right now. They keep getting suckered by the Cabal big-wigs who claim to know everything and their portfolio looks like hot garbage. Betting on Mr. "Blue no matter who" has resulted in a disastrous series of losses. The "sure things" aren't seeming so sure anymore.

The NWO was never going to fund itself. They need backers. Those backers are damn tired of being taken advantage of by some chuckle-fuck clowns with fingers up their asses. If you see some CEOs backtracking on the DEI and CRT crap, it's a signal they are completely out on the prospects of the NWO.

The Cabal is fracturing. It already was a hodge-podge of begrudged mafia groups cooperating to keep the sheep in line and ensure a steady flow of ill-gotten gains, but now it's pretty damn clear the "Hidden Masters" aren't as unassailable as they once appeared.

The curtain is well past slipping now, and they aren't all-knowing, all-powerful, and all-present as they claim. When you deal with habitual liars, beware they won't also try to lie to you — their subordinates.

Understand the gravity of the situation...

Comms are supposed to be a backdoor for those “in the know” to get the real truth in a world beset by rampant Fake News and their glowie magicians. It’s supposed to be a reprieve from the lies and shenanigans of the Cabal scam artists. Faith in the Cabal’s Comms apparatus is imperative to the survival of their obscured, aristocratic ecosystem. If they cannot convince their subordinates that they are appreciated enough to not be lied to like the “common rabble” then the system breaks down. If you make all sorts of deals with promises you’ll not be scammed and then get scammed... Well, they might as well not have it at all! That’s a stark future for those who want to feel super-special and in a class above the useful idiots and ignorant masses.

It also means that those with money, who have been groveled to a lot lately by the top of the pyramid to fork over some more spending money, to “finish the job”, are starting to realize they are being and have been sold a bill of goods. Loans being dolled out with absolutely no intent of ever paying them off. In response to the constant defaulting, the backers are keeping their money to themselves, and battenning down the hatches for what appears to be an inevitable Trump second term. A lot are gonna be PISSED that the Cabal let it all slip through their fingers. When you invest in something; when someone tells you they are going to deliver and it all falls through... that’s enough to make you see red.

“YOU TOLD ME YOU WOULD HANDLE IT! YOU TOLD ME IT WAS A SURE THING! YOU’RE DEAD, YOU HEAR ME! DEAD!”

Desperation turns to violence.

Excuses aren’t enough to settle the debt, obviously.

Literal miracles having bankrupted people overnight are riling the spirit of some of these black-hearted psychopaths.

It’s scary for them to wonder if all this Cult stuff is real... if they are on the highway to hell...

It’s scary to think that maybe God is real...

It’s even scarier to think God is angry with you for betting against Him...

The Comms Pitch

Let's say you and a buddy are involved in separate businesses but want to work together by giving one another inside information — an act that may or may not be illegal. So, it becomes necessary to hide that stream of information being sent from one another away from prying eyes. At first you use couriers to send envelopes to one another, but after your ...

Narrative Code

Signal nomenclature

May 18, 2022

Why do we recognize symbols?

Standard code symbols are perceptible because they are obscure. A group of dots and dashes (morse code) or a random group of letters and numbers clearly indicate intention, even if they do not make sense without being decoded.

Religious symbols are recognized because they are either known, or because they are obscure.

What if you were able to hide a code in such a way that it was not noticeable to anyone except the intended recipient? How would you achieve that?

Invisible ink is a possibility, but what if you needed a larger number of people to receive the code, instead of just a single individual? You could use a publication such as a newspaper to print it in, but how could you successfully hide it?

Might a code based off of normal words and ideas work?

A narrative code.

Water = information

Bomb = explosive

Plant/tree = spy

Submarine = submerged

Using this type of code would allow a story to be written in such a manner as to also convey another message — the actual intended message.

What if groups of people who communicate this way, already exist? What if there are more than just certain groups? An entire covert world?

What if evil people communicate this way to avoid prosecution? What if good people communicate this way for hidden ops that work against evil? What if good people cannot make this information known without public shock, so they are forced to send messages in narrative code?

Who might be part of the covert world? Individuals involved in government? Military intelligence? Celebrities?

Sounds like a ridiculous conspiracy theory.... But what if it can be proven without a shadow of a doubt?

I'm going to give some examples that should be able to convince anyone of this type of code.

Please read this post to the end, as some examples will provide stronger evidence than others.

Example No. 1:

TURKEY

The CIA was formed in the same month that the government started announcements encouraging, "poultryless Thursdays"— September, 1947. The official turkey presentation began three months later, with Truman accepting a turkey from the National Turkey Federation, and the Poultry and Egg National Board. Every presented turkey was subsequently eaten, until in 1963, when JFK said, "Let's keep this one going," and refused it. JFK refused the 55 lb Thanksgiving turkey, and was assassinated three days later.

Coincidence, right? Not really. "55lbs" was a 5:5 signal, meaning "clear communications". By refusing it, he was telling the CIA that he would not cooperate with them.

There's a story that was recorded in 1865 about Abraham Lincoln having pardoned a turkey in 1863. 1865 is the year that Lincoln was assassinated, and 1863 is when the Emancipation Proclamation went into effect.

A very powerful group does not like having their "turkeys" refused.

This seems simple and silly, but it goes completely unnoticed by anyone who isn't looking for a covert message.

<https://www.history.com/news/a-brief-history-of-the-presidential-turkey-pardon>

SUBMARINES

On October 7, 2021, multiple media outlets reported that a nuclear submarine hit an unknown object.

<https://news.usni.org/2021/10/07/breaking-attack-submarine-uss-connecticut-suffers-underwater-in-pacific>

The captain that was in contact with the media outlets was named Captain Bill Clinton.

^Odd, but not necessarily anything specific. However, there was also this story in the news:

<https://www.politico.com/news/2021/10/10/maryland-husband-wife-arrested-espionage-case-515761>

Jonathan Smay Toebe and Diana Smay Toebe were accused of trying to sell nuclear sub secrets. Jonathan's age was 42, and Diana's was 45. They were arrested in Jefferson county.

"Jefferson" is Bill Clinton's middle name, and he was the 42nd President. "Diana" is similar to Hillary's middle name "Diane", and she ran in the 45th presidential election.

(Side note: Narrative code can be added to actual news, so the presence of narrative code does not necessarily mean the original story is false. There are many ways to alter or conform a story, in order to send an additional message.)

Bill Cosby (Bill C.) was also in hot water around that same time:

<https://nypost.com/2021/10/14/bill-cosby-accuser-says-he-drugged-raped-her-in-atlantic-city-suit/>

These three stories came out during the same week that Ghislaine Maxwell's co-conspirators were ordered to be named.

<https://www.thegatewaypundit.com/2021/09/court-orders-feds-disclose-identities-ghislaine-maxwells-unnamed-co-conspirators/>

Ghislaine Maxwell was a submarine pilot, which is likely at least part of the reason that the sub stories were used.

The co-conspirators were ordered to be named on Oct. 11th to be exact, and in the first sub story, 11 sailors were injured.

"11" itself is narrative code, simply meaning "time is running out", or "the end".

WWI officially ended on Nov. 11, at 11 o'clock. The meaning of "11" basically has to do with a clock, with 11 moving closer to midnight. Essentially, "the end of one thing, and the beginning of the next". The Doomsday Clock has a similar meaning: "the last possible moment to reverse course". Additional examples are provided by the following two films that play off that meaning:

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/11/11/11_\(film\))

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/11-11-11_\(film\))

^Two different films/links, although the links look the same.

11pm in military time is 23. "23" means "quick removal", which is essentially the same as "terminate, or the end".

Some examples:

-According to legend, 23 people stabbed Julius Caesar.

-Traditionally, a Grand Jury is comprised of 23 members.

-https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/23_enigma

-https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/23_skidoo_\(phrase\))

Here's confirmation for all the Clinton narrative codes: On October 14, 2021, Bill Clinton was reported to be in the hospital for a urinary infection that spread to his blood.

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/politics/bill-clinton-heads-home-after-spending-six-days-in-a-california-hospital-fighting-an-infection/ar-AAPD9Xn>

Urine = dirty water. "Water" is narrative code for "information".

("Plant" is another word for a "spy". Plants need water, and spies need information. There are also a few common sayings that relate water to information:

"That argument doesn't hold water."

"That idea muddies the water."

"The mind is like a sponge.")

"Dirty water/urine" would be incriminating evidence.

6 days = "6"/evil Six has historically been the number representing mankind, baseness, or corruption. (Goliath was said to have been six cubits and a span. The "number of the Beast" is "666".)

Bill Clinton was pictured leaving on the 17th, by a sign with the number "17":

<https://www.zerohedge.com/medical/bill-clinton-released-california-hospital-five-days-after-infection-spread-bloodstream>

"17" typically means "classified", i.e. Department of Energy Q/17 clearance, Area 51 (51 is three groups of 17).

These stories would then appear in the news within the exact same week, and be silent for the same weeks/months — which would be a very odd coincidence if they hadn't been narrative code.

For example:

Bill Cosby was brought back into the news:

- <https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/crime/will-bill-cosbys-case-make-it-to-the-us-supreme-court-chances-are-slim-legal-analysts-say/ar-AARBJYg>

- <https://www.nbcnewyork.com/entertainment/entertainment-news/watch-the-first-look-at-new-bill-cosby-docuseries-is-finally-here/3462422/>

After media silence since October, the Toebbe couple was also suddenly back in the news:

<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-10290275/Texts-reveal-wife-nuclear-scientist-accused-selling-secrets-wanted-flee-TRUMP.html>

Updates on the damaged nuclear sub were also in the news:

ENDURANCE

We have a "Go" signal/"Green light" on the 100th anniversary of Shackleton's death:

Dan Snow

On the centenary Sir Ernest Shackleton's death I'm aboard one of his old ships-@DiscoveryDundee- to announce that @HistoryHit is going on the expedition to find his famous shipwreck Endurance in the Antarctic.

We will be posting, podcasting & streaming the whole way

The Endurance shipwreck just so happens to be reportedly found on the 100th anniversary of Shackleton's funeral, and 107 years after it sunk:

<https://www.bbc.com/news/science-environment-60662541>

One of the main people on the Endurance22 mission was Dan Snow.

Dan Snow = SnowDan

Endurance SnowDan

Ernest Shackleton = E.S. = Edward Snowden

It sounds like information from Snowden was recovered.

(Possible connection: Stallone posts about "Polestar" on the 4th, and the Endurance was found on the 5th with an "emblematic polestar" on its stern. Also, the Endurance was originally christened as "Polaris".

ASSANGE and CHESS

officialsllystallone

A post shared by Sly Stallone (@officialsllystallone)

On December 2nd, 2021, Stallone posts a photo of himself in a plane wearing a hat with the letter "Q". There is also a person behind him holding up a book called, "EVERY LAST SECRET", by A. R. Torre.

In another post that same day, Stallone gives info on his Julien's Auction of memorabilia. One of the items to be auctioned is a figurine of "Judge Dredd".

Q = classified

Every last secret = testimony

Julien's Auction = Julian Assange

Judge Dredd = judge/court

On Dec. 10, Julian Assange is in the news:

<https://www.cnn.com/2021/12/10/europe/julian-assange-extradition-appeal-ruling-intl/index.html>

Also, the caption of the post was:

"Heading into the Storm...."

He later changed his post to say: "Heading into the Storm....As IN THUNDERSTORM!!! We are in a jet for god sake flying through the rain!"

But as you can see, it's blue skies out the windows, and sunlight is bouncing off objects in the photo. (Stallone was trying to dismiss the obvious hidden/cryptic meaning... narrative code isn't covert when it's too blatant.)

^However, that's only part of the message:

Notice in the airplane photo, the person holding up the book is pointing to the "e" in "Secret", and has their other hand raised (five fingers). Add that to the Q hat, and we have Qe5 — a chess move.

He posts again about the Q hat on the day of his Julien's Auction, Dec. 5th, and that's also the same day as Game Eight of the World Chess Championship. On Dec. 2nd, there was no chess game, but chess games were held on the surrounding days. Stallone picked that particular day to make a chess code — and sent the second "Q" post on Dec. 5th to indicate the date of the full chess code message.

<https://www.theguardian.com/sport/live/2021/dec/05/magnus-carlsen-v-ian-nepomniachtchi-world-chess-championship-game-8-live>

officialslystallone

A post shared by Sly Stallone (@officialslystallone)

In the chess game on Dec. 5th, Magnus Carlsen plays Qe5 on play #36, and Ian Nepomniachtchi responds with Qb2. The very last move of the game is Magnus playing Qf3, and white wins.

Yes, this means that the chess game was rigged in order to send a message.

Qe5 = 5:5 (clear communications)

Qb2 = stealth/covert (B2 bomber)

Qf3 = Fox Three (launch of active radar-guided missile/mission success)

"Qf3" is the same cryptic message that Julian Assange sent in 2018:

This is a photo of the famous game with Capablanca vs Marshall, 1918, and the very next move in the game is Qf3 (mission success).

For additional confirmation of Stallone's chess code, the author's name on the book, "Torre," is also connected to chess.

LOCKHEED SONIC BOOM

In 1971, Lockheed was going bankrupt, but in an unprecedented move, the Nixon administration bailed them out with a loan of 250 million dollars. The loan was specifically designated for the commercial TriStar L-1011 plane, nicknamed "Whisper Liner".

<https://www.nytimes.com/1971/05/14/archives/the-lockheed-loan.html>

In 1973, the same plane was at the forefront of a deal Lockheed made with Prime Minister Tanaka of Japan.

Lockheed bribed Tanaka to help promote the TriStar L-1011 to Japanese airlines, rather than the Douglas DC-10.

In 1975, this and other "deals" came to be known as the "Lockheed Scandal".

On July 27th, 1976, Tanaka, then former prime minister of Japan, was arrested as a result of the "Lockheed Scandal".

Notice, the very next day after the arrest of Tanaka, the Lockheed SR-71 set the world record for airspeed, at 3.3 Mach (technically 3.32). Not only is it a Lockheed plane, but the official nickname for this spy plane is "Habu", which is the name of a snake only found in Okinawa, Japan. Okinawa is also the place where Nixon kept secret nuclear weapons.

A "Sonic boom" is narrative code for "breaking news/breaking the airwaves".

Certain people were not happy about the arrest, and were sending a warning that they were fully prepared to create a "record sonic boom" if such actions continued.

^The additional implication of Okinawa being the location of "secret nuclear weapons," would mean that the information would be "explosive".

"Sonic boom"/"breaking the sound barrier" is essentially shocking news or the release of information that has been kept behind a barrier, that is, classified.

Speed of sound = information that you hear.

Habu = Japan

Okinawa = secret nuclear weapons = explosive/damaging

Snake = many people working as one, i.e.: https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Join,_or_Die

The Habu "sonic boom" must have been enough of a threat, because Tanaka was not charged with bribery, and only in 1983 was he was charged with "violations of foreign exchange control laws".

There was another related message:

July 25: Discovery of "Face on Mars"

July 28: Viking lander collects samples on Mars.

July 31: Announcement of "Face on Mars"

<https://www.cnet.com/science/the-face-of-mars-a-martian-mystery-turns-40/>

Meaning, if you "find a face" (indict certain people), this could result in "Mars" (war).

Paid Sick Leave + Pumpkin:

A "pumpkin" is a "scare op". (Think Halloween, Jack-o'-lantern, the Headless Horseman, or the color orange.)

What was the scare op and paid sick leave they were anticipating?:

The 2019 Military World Games were held in Wuhan, China, and they started on October 18th. Many soldiers who were there returned home sick, with the then unannounced new virus, Covid19.

Event 201, a pandemic simulation exercise in New York, also took place on October 18th. It was hosted by the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security, the World Economic Forum, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Here's how narrative code can point out people behind these types of ops:

On January 28, 2020, Charles Lieber was arrested for undisclosed ties to the Wuhan University of Technology, including setting up a secret research laboratory.

Lieber received funding from the WUT, the Chinese government, as well as through Harvard from the NIH, and the DoD:

<https://www.justice.gov/opa/press-release/file/1239796/download>

<https://www.navytimes.com/news/your-navy/2020/01/31/harvard-prof-released-on-1m-> bond/

^As mentioned in the article above, Lieber is also recognized for growing large pumpkins, and in particular, a 1,870 pound pumpkin in 2014, which was reportedly the 17th largest pumpkin in the world, for that year:

<https://abcnews.go.com/Lifestyle/meet-massachusetts-man-winning-1870-pound-pumpkin/story?id=26163871>

"1,870" = 187

The California Penal Code Section for murder, and also a slang word for murder.

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/187_\(slang\)), and https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/One_Eight_Seven

A Harvard professor with a secret seven figure job in Wuhan, who grows giant pumpkins, and makes them into Jack-o'-lanterns... What was his 2014 "187" pumpkin a message for?

In 2014, NIH funded a research project on bat transmitted SARS-coronaviruses:

<https://reporter.nih.gov/project-details/8674931>

It involved infecting "humanized mice".

The project helped fund Shi Zheng-Li, a virologist at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, as well as other researchers, to investigate bat coronaviruses.

The project ended in 2019.

The total grant funding for this project $666,442

"6", "666", or a variation thereof is used by certain corrupt people to communicate their affiliation. It's a type of cult, one might say.

"666" is known as "the Mark of the Beast". "6" has historically been the number for baseness and evil; it's the number which represents mankind, and mankind is corruptible. 666 represents a trinity of evil — man trying to take the place of God ("The Trinity").

Goliath was said to have been six cubits and a span, and another Philistine warrior was said to have had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. According to the book of Genesis, humans were created on the 6th day, which is probably the symbolic basis for connecting the number 6 to mankind.

A second phase of that bat SARS-coronavirus project further studied how bat coronaviruses could mutate to attack humans:

<https://reporter.nih.gov/project-details/9819304>

The funding for that project was $661,980.

Both projects were run by Eco Health Alliance, and their DUNS number just happens to end with "66".

The address associated with the first grant is: 1200 LINCOLN AVENUE

^Possibly because Lincoln was assassinated?

The address associated with the second grant is: 460 W 34TH ST 17TH Floor

^"17" as in covert/classified operations.

[https://taggs.hhs.gov/Detail/AwardDetail?
arg_AwardNum=R01AI110964&arg_ProgOfficeCode=104](https://taggs.hhs.gov/Detail/AwardDetail?arg_AwardNum=R01AI110964&arg_ProgOfficeCode=104)

Also, in 2014, Jeffery Epstein met with some of Charles Lieber's associates at Harvard University:

<https://www.nbcnews.com/news/us-news/harvard-science-professors-kept-meeting-donor-jeffrey-epstein-despite-his-n1028536>

Epstein had previously donated at least 6.5 million dollars to programs at Harvard.

Remember how the CIA said "... anticipating things before they happen." and the NSA "...consistently adapted to the next threat." The U.S. intelligence agencies couldn't stop the bioweapon release, but they could counter it. While the world was locked down, a number of covert ops were taking place. So, we started to get narrative code like this:

2021 news reports of a "pumpkin shortage":

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/foodanddrink/foodnews/2021-has-been-a-perfect-storm-for-a-pumpkin-shortage/vi-AAPQsDI>

<https://www.today.com/food/there-pumpkin-shortage-year-t235586>

Some other pumpkins that have been "cancelled":

<https://www.timeout.com/tokyo/news/there-are-currently-no-plans-to-replace-the-naoshima-pumpkin-040422>

^"... no plans to replace the Naoshima pumpkin."

The pumpkin was removed after a storm:

<https://menafn.com/1102823899/One-of-Yayoi-Kusamas-iconic-pumpkin-sculptures-was-Damaged-During-Typhoon-in-Japan>

"Heaviest pumpkin in US disqualified..":

<https://abc7chicago.com/heaviest-pumpkin-wisconsin-competition-record-books/11134014/>

^"pumpkins are like ice cream"

Ice cream = scream

"Mike Schmidt" = M.S. initials = MS-13/Guerrilla ops

https://www.wandtv.com/news/fungus-heavily-affecting-illinois-pumpkin-patches/article_e53b0d12-3024-11ec-9bb6-ebc0e065ea.html

^Sometimes there are names and words that come across as narrative code, but may only be coincidences. For instance, the owner of a pumpkin patch in the above story is named, "Penny".

"Penny" has to do with murder, i.e. 19th century Penny Blood/Penny Dreadful books and theatre. There's a reason Lincoln's image was put on the penny in 1909 out of all the U.S. coinage — it was a warning message to others who would follow in his footsteps. It was known as a "wheat penny", which also has the meaning of "removing someone" since wheat gets harvested. Even during the Civil War, there were already penny tokens circulating with Lincoln's image.

Louise Penny, the author Hillary Clinton has worked with, writes murder stories.

There are also Henry Penny stories (another name for Chicken Little) about someone freaking out about a possible imminent disaster.

In this instance, having a pumpkin patch and the first name, "Penny", might just be a coincidence, although it's possible that the news correspondent chose that particular person to interview, because of their name.

Here's a "pumpkin" example that ties back to the JFK and Truman turkey decode.

Truman avoided a "pumpkin" by accepting the CIA, that is, "the turkey meat".

<https://dinersjournal.blogs.nytimes.com/2009/11/23/the-way-we-ate-the-year-harry-truman-passed-on-pumpkin-pie/>

So, besides the leaked military documents, this is one way to show that covid did indeed originate from the Wuhan lab.

COVFEE

<https://www.theguardian.com/us-news/2017/may/31/what-is-covfee-donald-trump-baffles-twitter-post>

"Despite the constant negative press covfee"

Narrative code isn't usually difficult as long as you know the right context.

"Covfee" is actually really simple to understand if one already knows basic narrative code; all one has to do is to apply it to the sequence of events at the time.

"Covfee" is the word "coffee" spelt incorrectly, which would mean "spilled coffee".

- Coffee = filtered and heated water
- Water = information
- Filtered = bias/skewed (designed to make you think a certain way)
- Heated = designed to cause damage/make someone look bad

Coffee = negative or biased news coverage

There was a lot of positive news about Trump around that time, i.e., Kushner said there was no communication with Russia, Carter Page wanted to testify, Trump made his Memorial Day speech, etc.

The media attempted to distract the public by having Cathy Griffin display a fake bloodied Trump mask as though he had been beheaded, and by having Ken Jennings mock Barron Trump that very same day.

<https://web.archive.org/web/20170531131646/http://www.foxnews.com/entertainment/2017/05/30/kathy-griffin-holds-bloodied-trump-mask-in-photo-shoot-with-tyler->

The whole charade was disgusting, so rather than making Trump look bad, it invoked sympathy for Trump, from viewers.

Like the old analogy of trying to boil a frog, if you slowly bring it to a boil, it will stay in the pot, but if you try to place it in hot water immediately, it will jump out. Brainwashing doesn't happen overnight.

Daily news coverage = Daily coffee

What happens if the coffee gets spilt? Instead of just sipping on the daily news (filtered and heated water), the public will get burnt and react to the unpleasant heat... the situation backfires on the media.

They poured their coverage/coffee too fast, and it spilt.

Trump then trolled the media by misspelling "coffee", and also lightened the overall mood by creating a small riddle.

That's why you have people like Devin Nunes posting a picture of a coffee cup with the caption "...mornings always begin with a strong cup of #Covfefe..." He's trolling the people who create "coffee"/propaganda.

Once you start looking for it, finding narrative code shouldn't be too difficult. Interpreting it correctly is key, however. Narrative code requires knowing the correct context, and sometimes that requires knowing a fair bit of history, or even covert events. Try building timelines and connecting one piece of narrative code to another. Narrative codes aren't usually isolated remarks; as with everyday messages, there is usually an ongoing conversation or topic that's being added to.

This is really interesting and would really appreciate expansion on the themes; a lexicon by which to identify the comms in the wild and any other useful resources!

Narrativecode

Narrative Code

Signal nomenclature

May 18, 2022

Why do we recognize symbols?

Standard code symbols are perceptible because they are obscure. A group of dots and dashes (morse code) or a random group of letters and numbers clearly indicate intention, even if they do not make sense without being decoded.

Religious symbols are recognized because they are either known, or because they are obscure.

What if you were able to hide a code in such a way that it was not noticeable to anyone except the intended recipient? How would you achieve that?

Invisible ink is a possibility, but what if you needed a larger number of people to receive the code, instead of just a single individual? You could use a publication such as a newspaper to print it in, but how could you successfully hide it?

Might a code based off of normal words and ideas work?

A narrative code.

Water = information

Bomb = explosive

Plant/tree = spy

Submarine = submerged

Using this type of code would allow a story to be written in such a manner as to also convey another message — the actual intended message.

What if groups of people who communicate this way, already exist? What if there are more than just certain groups? An entire covert world?

What if evil people communicate this way to avoid prosecution? What if good people communicate this way for hidden ops that work against evil? What if good people cannot make this information known without public shock, so they are forced to send messages in narrative code?

Who might be part of the covert world? Individuals involved in government? Military intelligence? Celebrities?

Sounds like a ridiculous conspiracy theory.... But what if it can be proven without a shadow of a doubt?

I'm going to give some examples that should be able to convince anyone of this type of code.

Please read this post to the end, as some examples will provide stronger evidence than others.

Example No. 1:

TURKEY

The CIA was formed in the same month that the government started announcements encouraging, "poultryless Thursdays"— September, 1947. The official turkey presentation began three months later, with Truman accepting a turkey from the National Turkey Federation, and the Poultry and Egg National Board. Every presented turkey was subsequently eaten, until in 1963, when JFK said, "Let's keep this one going," and refused it. JFK refused the 55 lb Thanksgiving turkey, and was assassinated three days later.

Coincidence, right? Not really. "55lbs" was a 5:5 signal, meaning "clear communications". By refusing it, he was telling the CIA that he would not cooperate with them.

There's a story that was recorded in 1865 about Abraham Lincoln having pardoned a turkey in 1863. 1865 is the year that Lincoln was assassinated, and 1863 is when the Emancipation Proclamation went into effect.

A very powerful group does not like having their "turkeys" refused.

This seems simple and silly, but it goes completely unnoticed by anyone who isn't looking for a covert message.

<https://www.history.com/news/a-brief-history-of-the-presidential-turkey-pardon>

SUBMARINES

On October 7, 2021, multiple media outlets reported that a nuclear submarine hit an unknown object.

<https://news.usni.org/2021/10/07/breaking-attack-submarine-uss-connecticut-suffers-underwater-in-pacific>

The captain that was in contact with the media outlets was named Captain Bill Clinton.

^Odd, but not necessarily anything specific. However, there was also this story in the news:

<https://www.politico.com/news/2021/10/10/maryland-husband-wife-arrested-espionage-case-515761>

Jonathan Smay Toebe and Diana Smay Toebe were accused of trying to sell nuclear sub secrets. Jonathan's age was 42, and Diana's was 45. They were arrested in Jefferson county.

"Jefferson" is Bill Clinton's middle name, and he was the 42nd President. "Diana" is similar to Hillary's middle name "Diane", and she ran in the 45th presidential election.

(Side note: Narrative code can be added to actual news, so the presence of narrative code does not necessarily mean the original story is false. There are many ways to alter or conform a story, in order to send an additional message.)

Bill Cosby (Bill C.) was also in hot water around that same time:

<https://nypost.com/2021/10/14/bill-cosby-accuser-says-he-drugged-raped-her-in-atlantic-city-suit/>

These three stories came out during the same week that Ghislaine Maxwell's co-conspirators were ordered to be named.

<https://www.thegatewaypundit.com/2021/09/court-orders-feds-disclose-identities-ghislaine-maxwells-unnamed-co-conspirators/>

Ghislaine Maxwell was a submarine pilot, which is likely at least part of the reason that the sub stories were used.

The co-conspirators were ordered to be named on Oct. 11th to be exact, and in the first sub story, 11 sailors were injured.

"11" itself is narrative code, simply meaning "time is running out", or "the end".

WWI officially ended on Nov. 11, at 11 o'clock. The meaning of "11" basically has to do with a clock, with 11 moving closer to midnight. Essentially, "the end of one thing, and the beginning of the next". The Doomsday Clock has a similar meaning: "the last possible moment to reverse course". Additional examples are provided by the following two films that play off that meaning:

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/11/11/11_\(film\))

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/11-11-11_\(film\))

^Two different films/links, although the links look the same.

11pm in military time is 23. "23" means "quick removal", which is essentially the same as "terminate, or the end".

Some examples:

-According to legend, 23 people stabbed Julius Caesar.

-Traditionally, a Grand Jury is comprised of 23 members.

-https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/23_enigma

-https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/23_skidoo_\(phrase\))

Here's confirmation for all the Clinton narrative codes: On October 14, 2021, Bill Clinton was reported to be in the hospital for a urinary infection that spread to his blood.

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/politics/bill-clinton-heads-home-after-spending-six-days-in-a-california-hospital-fighting-an-infection/ar-AAPD9Xn>

Urine = dirty water. "Water" is narrative code for "information".

("Plant" is another word for a "spy". Plants need water, and spies need information. There are also a few common sayings that relate water to information:

"That argument doesn't hold water."

"That idea muddies the water."

"The mind is like a sponge.")

"Dirty water/urine" would be incriminating evidence.

6 days = "6"/evil Six has historically been the number representing mankind, baseness, or corruption. (Goliath was said to have been six cubits and a span. The "number of the Beast" is "666".)

Bill Clinton was pictured leaving on the 17th, by a sign with the number "17":

<https://www.zerohedge.com/medical/bill-clinton-released-california-hospital-five-days-after-infection-spread-bloodstream>

"17" typically means "classified", i.e. Department of Energy Q/17 clearance, Area 51 (51 is three groups of 17).

These stories would then appear in the news within the exact same week, and be silent for the same weeks/months — which would be a very odd coincidence if they hadn't been narrative code.

For example:

Bill Cosby was brought back into the news:

- <https://www.msn.com/en-us/news/crime/will-bill-cosbys-case-make-it-to-the-us-supreme-court-chances-are-slim-legal-analysts-say/ar-AARBJYg>

- <https://www.nbcnewyork.com/entertainment/entertainment-news/watch-the-first-look-at-new-bill-cosby-docuseries-is-finally-here/3462422/>

After media silence since October, the Toebbe couple was also suddenly back in the news:

<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-10290275/Texts-reveal-wife-nuclear-scientist-accused-selling-secrets-wanted-flee-TRUMP.html>

Updates on the damaged nuclear sub were also in the news:

ENDURANCE

We have a "Go" signal/"Green light" on the 100th anniversary of Shackleton's death:

Dan Snow

@thehistoryguy

On the centenary Sir Ernest Shackleton's death I'm aboard one of his old ships-

The Endurance shipwreck just so happens to be reportedly found on the 100th anniversary of Shackleton's funeral, and 107 years after it sunk:

<https://www.bbc.com/news/science-environment-60662541>

One of the main people on the Endurance22 mission was Dan Snow.

Dan Snow = SnowDan

Endurance SnowDan

Earnest Shackleton = E.S. = Edward Snowden

It sounds like information from Snowden was recovered.

(Possible connection: Stallone posts about "Polestar" on the 4th, and the Endurance was found on the 5th with an "emblematic polestar" on its stern. Also, the Endurance was originally christened as "Polaris".

ASSANGE and CHESS

officialslystallone

A post shared by Sly Stallone (@officialslystallone)

On December 2nd, 2021, Stallone posts a photo of himself in a plane wearing a hat with the letter "Q". There is also a person behind him holding up a book called, "EVERY LAST SECRET", by A. R. Torre.

In another post that same day, Stallone gives info on his Julien's Auction of memorabilia. One of the items to be auctioned is a figurine of "Judge Dredd".

Q = classified

Every last secret = testimony

Julien's Auction = Julian Assange

Judge Dredd = judge/court

On Dec. 10, Julian Assange is in the news:

<https://www.cnn.com/2021/12/10/europe/julian-assange-extradition-appeal-ruling-intl/index.html>

Also, the caption of the post was:

"Heading into the Storm...."

He later changed his post to say: "Heading into the Storm....As IN THUNDERSTORM!!! We are in a jet for god sake flying through the rain!"

But as you can see, it's blue skies out the windows, and sunlight is bouncing off objects in the photo. (Stallone was trying to dismiss the obvious hidden/cryptic meaning... narrative code isn't covert when it's too blatant.)

^However, that's only part of the message:

Notice in the airplane photo, the person holding up the book is pointing to the "e" in "Secret", and has their other hand raised (five fingers). Add that to the Q hat, and we have Qe5 — a chess move.

He posts again about the Q hat on the day of his Julien's Auction, Dec. 5th, and that's also the same day as Game Eight of the World Chess Championship. On Dec. 2nd, there was no chess game, but chess games were held on the surrounding days. Stallone picked that particular day to make a chess code — and sent the second "Q" post on Dec. 5th to indicate the date of the full chess code message.

<https://www.theguardian.com/sport/live/2021/dec/05/magnus-carlsen-v-ian-nepomniachtchi-world-chess-championship-game-8-live>

officialslstallone

A post shared by Sly Stallone (@officialslstallone)

In the chess game on Dec. 5th, Magnus Carlsen plays Qe5 on play #36, and Ian Nepomniachtchi responds with Qb2. The very last move of the game is Magnus playing Qf3, and white wins.

Yes, this means that the chess game was rigged in order to send a message.

Qe5 = 5:5 (clear communications)

Qb2 = stealth/covert (B2 bomber)

Qf3 = Fox Three (launch of active radar-guided missile/mission success)

"Qf3" is the same cryptic message that Julian Assange sent in 2018:

This is a photo of the famous game with Capablanca vs Marshall, 1918, and the very next move in the game is Qf3 (mission success).

For additional confirmation of Stallone's chess code, the author's name on the book, "Torre," is also connected to chess.

LOCKHEED SONIC BOOM

In 1971, Lockheed was going bankrupt, but in an unprecedented move, the Nixon administration bailed them out with a loan of 250 million dollars. The loan was specifically designated for the commercial TriStar L-1011 plane, nicknamed "Whisper Liner".

<https://www.nytimes.com/1971/05/14/archives/the-lockheed-loan.html>

In 1973, the same plane was at the forefront of a deal Lockheed made with Prime Minister Tanaka of Japan.

Lockheed bribed Tanaka to help promote the TriStar L-1011 to Japanese airlines, rather than the Douglas DC-10.

In 1975, this and other "deals" came to be known as the "Lockheed Scandal".

On July 27th, 1976, Tanaka, then former prime minister of Japan, was arrested as a result of the "Lockheed Scandal".

Notice, the very next day after the arrest of Tanaka, the Lockheed SR-71 set the world record for airspeed, at 3.3 Mach (technically 3.32). Not only is it a Lockheed plane, but the official nickname for this spy plane is "Habu", which is the name of a snake only found in Okinawa, Japan. Okinawa is also the place where Nixon kept secret nuclear weapons.

A "Sonic boom" is narrative code for "breaking news/breaking the airwaves".

Certain people were not happy about the arrest, and were sending a warning that they were fully prepared to create a "record sonic boom" if such actions continued.

^The additional implication of Okinawa being the location of "secret nuclear weapons," would mean that the information would be "explosive".

"Sonic boom"/"breaking the sound barrier" is essentially shocking news or the release of information that has been kept behind a barrier, that is, classified.

Speed of sound = information that you hear.

Habu = Japan

Okinawa = secret nuclear weapons = explosive/damaging

Snake = many people working as one, i.e.: https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/Join,_or_Die

The Habu "sonic boom" must have been enough of a threat, because Tanaka was not charged with bribery, and only in 1983 was he was charged with "violations of foreign exchange control laws".

There was another related message:

July 25: Discovery of "Face on Mars"

July 28: Viking lander collects samples on Mars.

July 31: Announcement of "Face on Mars"

<https://www.cnet.com/science/the-face-of-mars-a-martian-mystery-turns-40/>

Meaning, if you "find a face" (indict certain people), this could result in "Mars" (war).

Paid Sick Leave + Pumpkin:

A "pumpkin" is a "scare op". (Think Halloween, Jack-o'-lantern, the Headless Horseman, or the color orange.)

What was the scare op and paid sick leave they were anticipating?:

The 2019 Military World Games were held in Wuhan, China, and they started on October 18th. Many soldiers who were there returned home sick, with the then unannounced new virus, Covid19.

Event 201, a pandemic simulation exercise in New York, also took place on October 18th. It was hosted by the Johns Hopkins Center for Health Security, the World Economic Forum, and the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Here's how narrative code can point out people behind these types of ops:

On January 28, 2020, Charles Lieber was arrested for undisclosed ties to the Wuhan University of Technology, including setting up a secret research laboratory.

Lieber received funding from the WUT, the Chinese government, as well as through Harvard from the NIH, and the DoD:

<https://www.navytimes.com/news/your-navy/2020/01/31/harvard-prof-released-on-1m-bond/>

^As mentioned in the article above, Lieber is also recognized for growing large pumpkins, and in particular, a 1,870 pound pumpkin in 2014, which was reportedly the 17th largest pumpkin in the world, for that year:

<https://abcnews.go.com/Lifestyle/meet-massachusetts-man-winning-1870-pound-pumpkin/story?id=26163871>

"1,870" = 187

The California Penal Code Section for murder, and also a slang word for murder.

https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/187_\(slang\)), and https://en.m.wikipedia.org/wiki/One_Eight_Seven

A Harvard professor with a secret seven figure job in Wuhan, who grows giant pumpkins, and makes them into Jack-o'-lanterns... What was his 2014 "187" pumpkin a message for?

In 2014, NIH funded a research project on bat transmitted SARS-coronaviruses:

<https://reporter.nih.gov/project-details/8674931>

It involved infecting "humanized mice".

The project helped fund Shi Zheng-Li, a virologist at the Wuhan Institute of Virology, as well as other researchers, to investigate bat coronaviruses.

The project ended in 2019.

The total grant funding for this project $666,442

"6", "666", or a variation thereof is used by certain corrupt people to communicate their affiliation. It's a type of cult, one might say.

"666" is known as "the Mark of the Beast". "6" has historically been the number for baseness and evil; it's the number which represents mankind, and mankind is corruptible. 666 represents a trinity of evil — man trying to take the place of God ("The Trinity").

Goliath was said to have been six cubits and a span, and another Philistine warrior was said to have had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot. According to the book of Genesis, humans were created on the 6th day, which is probably the symbolic basis for connecting the number 6 to mankind.

A second phase of that bat SARS-coronavirus project further studied how bat coronaviruses could mutate to attack humans:

<https://reporter.nih.gov/project-details/9819304>

The funding for that project was $661,980.

Both projects were run by Eco Health Alliance, and their DUNS number just happens to end with "66".

The address associated with the first grant is: 1200 LINCOLN AVENUE

^Possibly because Lincoln was assassinated?

The address associated with the second grant is: 460 W 34TH ST 17TH Floor

^"17" as in covert/classified operations.

[https://taggs.hhs.gov/Detail/AwardDetail?
arg_AwardNum=R01AI110964&arg_ProgOfficeCode=104](https://taggs.hhs.gov/Detail/AwardDetail?arg_AwardNum=R01AI110964&arg_ProgOfficeCode=104)

Also, in 2014, Jeffery Epstein met with some of Charles Lieber's associates at Harvard University:

<https://www.nbcnews.com/news/us-news/harvard-science-professors-kept-meeting-donor-jeffrey-epstein-despite-his-n1028536>

Epstein had previously donated at least 6.5 million dollars to programs at Harvard.

Remember how the CIA said "... anticipating things before they happen." and the NSA "...consistently adapted to the next threat." The U.S. intelligence agencies couldn't stop the bioweapon release, but they could counter it. While the world was locked down, a number of covert ops were taking place. So, we started to get narrative code like this:

2021 news reports of a "pumpkin shortage":

<https://www.msn.com/en-us/foodanddrink/foodnews/2021-has-been-a-perfect-storm-for-a-pumpkin-shortage/vi-AAPQsDI>

<https://www.today.com/food/there-pumpkin-shortage-year-t235586>

Some other pumpkins that have been "cancelled":

<https://www.timeout.com/tokyo/news/there-are-currently-no-plans-to-replace-the-naoshima-pumpkin-040422>

^"... no plans to replace the Naoshima pumpkin."

The pumpkin was removed after a storm:

<https://menafn.com/1102823899/One-of-Yayoi-Kusamas-iconic-pumpkin-sculptures-was-Damaged-During-Typhoon-in-Japan>

"Heaviest pumpkin in US disqualified..":

<https://abc7chicago.com/heaviest-pumpkin-wisconsin-competition-record-books/11134014/>

^"pumpkins are like ice cream"

Ice cream = scream

"Mike Schmidt" = M.S. initials = MS-13/Guerrilla ops

https://www.wandtv.com/news/fungus-heavily-affecting-illinois-pumpkin-patches/article_e53b0d12-3024-11ec-9bb6-ebc0e065ea.html

^Sometimes there are names and words that come across as narrative code, but may only be coincidences. For instance, the owner of a pumpkin patch in the above story is named, "Penny".

"Penny" has to do with murder, i.e. 19th century Penny Blood/Penny Dreadful books and theatre. There's a reason Lincoln's image was put on the penny in 1909 out of all the U.S. coinage — it was a warning message to others who would follow in his footsteps. It was known as a "wheat penny", which also has the meaning of "removing someone" since wheat gets harvested. Even during the Civil War, there were already penny tokens circulating with Lincoln's image.

Louise Penny, the author Hillary Clinton has worked with, writes murder stories.

There are also Henry Penny stories (another name for Chicken Little) about someone freaking out about a possible imminent disaster.

In this instance, having a pumpkin patch and the first name, "Penny", might just be a coincidence, although it's possible that the news correspondent chose that particular person to interview, because of their name.

Here's a "pumpkin" example that ties back to the JFK and Truman turkey decode.

Truman avoided a "pumpkin" by accepting the CIA, that is, "the turkey meat".

"Despite the constant negative press covfefe"

Narrative code isn't usually difficult as long as you know the right context.

"Covfefe" is actually really simple to understand if one already knows basic narrative code; all one has to do is to apply it to the sequence of events at the time.

"Covfefe" is the word "coffee" spelt incorrectly, which would mean "spilled coffee".

- Coffee = filtered and heated water
- Water = information
- Filtered = bias/skewed (designed to make you think a certain way)
- Heated = designed to cause damage/make someone look bad

Coffee = negative or biased news coverage

There was a lot of positive news about Trump around that time, i.e., Kushner said there was no communication with Russia, Carter Page wanted to testify, Trump made his Memorial Day speech, etc.

The media attempted to distract the public by having Cathy Griffin display a fake bloodied Trump mask as though he had been beheaded, and by having Ken Jennings mock Barron Trump that very same day.

<https://web.archive.org/web/20170531131646/http://www.foxnews.com/entertainment/2017/05/30/kathy-griffin-holds-bloodied-trump-mask-in-photo-shoot-with-tyler-shields.html>

The whole charade was disgusting, so rather than making Trump look bad, it invoked sympathy for Trump, from viewers.

Like the old analogy of trying to boil a frog, if you slowly bring it to a boil, it will stay in the pot, but if you try to place it in hot water immediately, it will jump out. Brainwashing doesn't happen overnight.

Daily news coverage = Daily coffee

What happens if the coffee gets spilt? Instead of just sipping on the daily news (filtered and heated water), the public will get burnt and react to the unpleasant heat... the situation backfires on the media.

They poured their coverage/coffee too fast, and it spilt.

Trump then trolled the media by misspelling "coffee", and also lightened the overall mood by creating a small riddle.

That's why you have people like Devin Nunes posting a picture of a coffee cup with the caption "...mornings always begin with a strong cup of #Covfefe..." He's trolling the people who create "coffee"/propaganda.

Once you start looking for it, finding narrative code shouldn't be too difficult. Interpreting it correctly is key, however. Narrative code requires knowing the correct context, and sometimes that requires knowing a fair bit of history, or even covert events. Try building timelines and connecting one piece of narrative code to another. Narrative codes aren't usually isolated remarks; as with everyday messages, there is usually an ongoing conversation or topic that's being added to.

This is really interesting and would really appreciate expansion on the themes; a lexicon by which to identify the comms in the wild and any other useful resources!

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2025/01/20/covid-decoding/>

I have many decodes even more clear than this one, I picked this to begin because it's an event everyone knows. My old intro's picked other decodes to begin so don't think this is some grand exception of my work.

This is a basic decode, and if you look closely, you'll notice even more messaging, but most don't know to look and I'm going to explain why that is.

I'll explain why the world hides itself like this and you'll also understand why my work is as hidden as it is.

Congratulations on finding me.

Secrets of Herding Sheep

The reason this secret world exists is because of historic educational differences between the ruling classes and the masses.

The world has coordinated events this way since ancient times, because both King and subject speak the same language.

Thus they had to "say" without saying, and this is how truth became forever hidden in plain sight behind symbolic communication.

That's the quick answer, and symbol based communication has evolved across centuries. It is preserved in history books with footprints that unravel every secret about this world which is what I deconstruct across thousands of decodes.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/05/30/all-decodes-categorized/>

You didn't grow up with it so it will be a challenge to adapt, but if you wish to try that's what my work exists for.

Education Today Vs 666 Years ago

People are conditioned to a fantastical view of the past with peasants as geniuses and kings as idiots, but I'm going to hammer home the gravity of historical differences.

There were MILLIONS of lower-class underneath a single King and a royal family. Common folk that statistically speaking most reading this today are descended from.

In this ancient world the common folk and ruling class spoke the same language, but with a vast difference in education.

In the 1600's only 10% of the people could read and almost all of them were upper class men, yet in the modern world children learn to read in the earliest years of school.

Thus the level of education for most back then was lower than a child today (at least for reading). Now imagine this dichotomy of communication and what it entails for leading (or exploiting) subjects.

Consider how a person today may spell out the word "VET" so that a dog doesn't freak out in a car.

I've seen a similar tactic used in shows by parents spelling out words children don't know to avoid them realizing a conversation is too adult for them.

In both cases the goal is to hide information from the less educated because the adult in charge knows what's best for them.

Reconcile with the ruling class of the old world. If they were to proclaim the equivalent of taking their people to the "VET" how might the masses react?

It's likely they would be overthrown, a famous example is "Let them eat cake" and while today it's often said to be a lie that it was even said, it was for generations reported as factual.

The masses assumed the far more educated upper class were stupid enough to say something that would get them overthrown. They aren't, and it's a cultivated ignorance of today that allows people to underestimate the ruling classes to such an extent.

People are not meant to understand and are meant to be like sheep. A sheep bred to follow and unable to understand plans laid out before them.

The obfuscation used both then and today is approximate to spelling out V-E-T to keep a dog from panicking.

If blunt language was used, people would not necessarily accept it. Thus, a disconnect of language between rich and poor has been cultivated across generations.

The trick you aren't meant to understand is communication often has layers of symbolic obfuscation applied.

This is necessary because rich & poor speak the same languages, thus it has to be hidden in plain sight in a way that even if exposed by a reader it can be denied.

These tricks are no more complex than comparing the masses to herded sheep.

All major coded communication takes a form like this and if you understood the symbol of calling a follower a sheep then you already understand both the concept and countless examples that you never considered looking at that way before!

Using symbolic language gets around the problem of being held accountable to the masses.

You aren't saying the thing that will upset them, you are saying something else entirely and those people go from being an angry mob to docile following sheep.

Deconstructing these obfuscations have been at the core of what I've done over the past 7 years.

These deceptions stretch back as far as history goes and it remains consistent into the modern age.

With enough practice you can work your way through history the modern age and realize we are in the middle of the same conversations!

My best work is provable so long as you can interpret probability.

It's why autists like me latched onto Q as they used the same methods to avoid breaking Nat Sec laws.

What I present in my strongest presentations pass the threshold for mathematically impossible coincidences many times over. But talk is cheap so I'll show you a teaser of the kinds of things I cover everyday right now.

Proof #1 Mathematical Impossibilities

+120 Days = 07/23/2021

07/22/2021 Joe Biden: "150 years ago I was Chairman of the Judiciary Committee"

Do you see why that's mathematically impossible? One gaffe counts to the next! I explain what this means in this post <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2025/01/25/biden-countdown-thread/> but I suggest you continue reading my introduction for now as it'll make more sense if you have a better framework for the basic concepts.

How about this next one...

09/26/2017 = Russia Hides Nuclear accident at military base

09/27/2017 = Hugh Hefner Dead

08/10/2019 = Jeffrey Epstein Dead

This one I'll explain later in this post extensively, but it's another example of an impossible coincidence as we have the 2 people most famous for being assumed blackmailers having an exact relationship to secret Russian nuclear accidents. It's not like secret nuclear accidents or the most famous person tied to blackmail dies every other day or even decade so for them to line up like that? There's a purpose to it!

Anyway, it'll make sense before the end of this page. Context is always king, and this is why the first example I start with is something I know everyone remembers.

Proof #1 Trump Vs MSM

Sometimes a symbolic small news story exists to coordinate larger one.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=BfVu0pwBNVc>

10/06/2016 CABLE GUY breaks JOHN's Arm in DISGUSTING TAPE

10/07/2016 NBC/ABC/CBS (CABLE GUYS) First Air DISGUSTING TAPE of Donald JOHN Trump

The day before the Access Hollywood story broke.

This was the news media hyping up the news media for the onslaught against Trump.

Just like how Larry the "CABLE GUY" Broke a guy who shares the name of Trump, so to would the "CABLE GUYS" break Trump with the scandal video.

If there was ever a motive for a large section of the media to coordinate against any human being anywhere... it's obviously Trump!

Trump's campaign was built off combating the MSM. The "Enemy of the People" as he named them.

What you have read so far is the basics, I will show more advanced techniques but before that let's make sure we are on the same page.

Do you believe it is unlikely the news media would plot out media attacks?

How do you think talking points begin?

Here is a screenshot from Wikipedia defining an "October surprise".

Notice that an October surprise can be "deliberately planned." and the example they give is the Access Hollywood tape.

This establishes that political attacks can be planned and the specific one given is that same Access Hollywood tape! This is the literal definition given by Wikipedia of a pre-planned out media blitz! Therefore, we can say with certainty that if there was ever a logical point to send a comm coordinating a media attack, THIS would be the one they would do it with!

It may seem redundant to continue given how clear this messaging is, but as this is the first example I expect people to see when they view my work and as such I want no doubts in minds before we go deeper.

The breaking of the "Funny Bone" should be obvious if you remember 2016.

Remember when Megyn Kelly's attempted to bring up his "sexist statements" and it all turned into a win for Trump with a joke.

That didn't work with Access Hollywood.

Trump got out of Access Hollywood heat by bringing the Clinton accusers with him to the debate 2 days after the tape went live.

"Trump may have said some bad words, but Bill Clinton raped me and Hillary Clinton threatened me."

Actual quote from the event, it's powerful!

Thus Trump agreed with the assessment and did not "laugh it off" he instead made the argument that Clintons actions were worse than his words.

Take a step back and look at the whole picture.

10/06/2016 CABLE GUY breaks JOHN's Arm in DISGUSTING TAPE

10/07/2016 NBC/ABC/CBS (CABLE GUY) First Airs DISGUSTING TAPE of Donald JOHN Trump

What are the odds that the day before Donald JOHN Trump's big scandal of a DISGUSTING VIDEO meant to BREAK Trump broadcast by CABLE someone named JOHN would get broken by a man named CABLE GUY?

This was not a random news story, it was a staged event sending a message to heat the media burners for the Access Hollywood Tape. For CABLE to get ready to break Trump!

The "Cable Guy" broke the "funny bone" of "John". (Donald JOHN Trump can't laugh off this scandal)

If media is owned by people plotting political attacks, might they run symbolic media to better hype up the people to push it pre-release? When you think of it that way, it'd be stranger if they didn't.

Trump was neck and neck with HRC and this tape was supposed to break him. "It's a close competition. Until it isn't and (Donald) John (Trump) Breaks" A video with an all-caps WARNING: "HORRENDOUSLY GROTESQUE"

This was the how that video was promoted across the media! NBC dug up the tape and it became the scandal of the season.

It generated record-breaking news traffic. Now you know how they prepared to coordinated it!

This story is not unique. It's not a coincidence, and this is just one of thousands of examples I go through on my blog.

This is what the Cable Guy posted on Instagram the next day.

FOX is BEATEN UP. Fox News was synonymous with being the only network helping Trump back then and his own character "CABLE GUY" is standing behind him. "WHO DID THIS!?!!" with laughing emoji's.

The joke is in how he (CABLE) did it. You now understand an inside joke for the comms aware!

Given how big the Access Hollywood Push is, you may wonder why it wasn't coordinated with a bigger star.

How about Tom Hanks?

10/05/2016 GALAXY OF STARS ASSEMBLE (For WAR)

10/06/2016 NORMANDY (START OF WAR FRIDAY!) BANG! "Girl's Recommended" = girls are better to react to comments about grabbing women

10/06/2016: CABLE GUY breaks JOHN's Arm in DISGUSTING TAPE

10/07/2016 FRIDAY (WAR!) NBC/ABC/CBS (CABLE GUY) First Airs DISGUSTING TAPE of JOHN Trump

You can see big stars were hyping it up as a literal war effort.

Is that surprising? I wouldn't think so given the legendary war Trump has had with the top of Hollywood.

How many stars can you name that support Trump in 2016? Unless you say Kanye West you aren't likely to come up with any, and given how the world reacted to that....

11/18/2016 Kanye West Booed after saying he supports Trump

11/21/2016 Kanye West is Hospitalized for 'Psychiatric Emergency'

You can find more if you dig around this time on celebrity social media, albeit some surely deleted those posts afterwards.

You may wonder why Trump said such things in the first place, and this too was coordinated with comms.

Take a look at the original recording of those lewd lines, it was a comms vehicle for the scandal. <https://web.archive.org/web/20200518230818/https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QAGMlvGYNnI>

Video no longer on YouTube, but archived.

Segment was called "The Donald Delivers" As in delivering blackmail"

I highlighted a few lines from the broadcast that give away the comms. " They were Helping Donald run his lines". "Donald.... does what he's told"

This was 2005 as he was rising with Apprentice after a long period of falling stardom.

That recording was the promise to MSM he was ok to promote. A secret in a lock box. Something that would not be used to destroy him so long as he played along.

That recording was the promise to MSM he was ok to promote. They had only just started to promote him and now that both sides were sure this promotion would be effective (not a dud for either) they consummate the relationship with the blackmail.

A fee taken for bigger stardom. A secret in a lock box. Something that would not be used to destroy him so long as he played along.

We can safely assume the same is true of many other celebrities and politicians!

Possibly all of them! Because why would they give a voice to someone they can't control? Especially when such things are so easy to coordinate using symbols.

Speaking of which... what kinds of symbols do you think are used for blackmail?

What creates the largest BOOM? This next section crosses that threshold of mathematically impossible coincidences many times over!

Proof # 2 BOOMS

The most secret things in this world can't be seen by looking directly at them.

They are disguised in plain sight with symbols, and because it's symbolic the most officially secret things like NUCLEAR BOMBS are themselves symbolic.

Coded discussion for something different!

The most secret thing in this world is the blackmail operations of powerful people.

07/01/1946 Bikini Atoll: First Post War Nuclear Detonation

07/05/1946 Bikini Debut: Named After Atomic Tests

Famously SCANDALOUS for the time and would only be worn by A STRIPPER.

Nuclear secrets can be easily seen as “coincidences” pile up.

Ever hear of nuclear lubrication?

Did you know the first nuclear weapons could only keep uranium lubricated with Oil from SPERM whale?

No other oil would do, only SPERM!

Sounds like a symbol for something else?

The trick to pulling back the veil of obfuscation is mathematically impossible patterns.

For example, if we dig into famous blackmailers, we are quickly going to find connections to nuclear history that goes far beyond any possibility of coincidence.

The name most associated with blackmail and child perversion today is Jeffrey Epstein.

He was the financial manager for the owner of VICTORIA'S SECRET from 1987 until his arrest for involvement in soliciting child prostitution in 2007.

Before Epstein was on everyone's lips for that the most common name given was Hugh Hefner and Playboy.

These are the two names given by Q and it follows logic as they each had decades of access to young girls through a magazine that takes pictures of women in lingerie.

Not just Q, but an extensive history of MSM reporting on each tying them to these practices.

I bring these two up in this relationship to give context for a nuclear connection between them.

Read this next one carefully because this is where we cross the threshold into mathematical impossibility, and we will cross it many more times afterwards.

09/26/2017 = Russia Hides Nuclear accident at military base

09/27/2017 = Hugh Hefner Dead

08/10/2019 = Jeffrey Epstein Dead

The end of each preceded by 1 day with a secret nuclear spill.

As in the messy “nuclear spill” naturally accompanying ending a face of blackmail.

These are GROUPS, does the remaining network follow along with the agenda of ending? Or do they detonate?

Hence CLEAN UP!

This is probably why same day of the nuclear emergency, we have a record breaking sale of an “uncut diamond” biggest in the world.

09/26/2017 Worlds Biggest Uncut Diamond Sold

09/26/2017 Russia Hides Nuclear accident

09/27/2017 Hefner Dead

08/07/2019 5th National Emergency Test

08/09/2019 Nuclear Accident

08/10/2019 Epstein Dead

What are the odds on that?

There have only ever been 6 Nationwide Emergency Alert Tests and half of them coincided with the 3 biggest events tied to Epstein & Hefner’s over the last decade.

You may be wondering if “Nuclear” is symbolic for a BOOM, then what ended World War 2? Well, first of all plenty of real things are also used for symbols so hypothetically nuclear weaponry could be entirely real and also used as symbol... it's not, but it could in theory.

I know it's not because when you dig into the details of those bombings with an eye for symbolism you realize the true history.

08/09/1945 Atomic Bomb Dropped on Japan

08/10/1945 Playboy's First Artist: Disney's Duck Pimples

The symbol of this cartoon gives a big clue to another side of what was going on.

A cartoon about being terrified after hearing scary news on the radio.

This was as the world first heard the scary news of nuclear weapons on the radio!

This is what nuclear bombs were, exactly what it's described as almost everywhere.

A SCARY DETERRENT.

This was as Disney was officially working with the army on military propaganda thus it's unlikely coincidental they would make a cartoon about “scary radio news” the same time their employer in the Army pulled off the ultimate scary radio news.

1 Bomb = Load equal to 6 trillion dollars' in capacity of bombs

Nuclear bombs are an idea designed to be as scary as possible as a deterrent.

Nuclear bombs are definitely not ONLY used for symbolism of blackmail, but they also aren't real, at least not in how described.

What they really are is symbolism of a BOOM!!!!

Certain things like blackmail are going to be more commonly used as the symbol.

Note the sub-headline under the first nuke. HIRAM JOHNSON death – the guy acting as strongest opposition to making an alliance with Russia.

08/06/1945 Hiroshima A-Bomb "Little Boy" Uranium

08/06/1945 California NUCLEAR BOMB Quakes

08/06/1945 Hiram Johnson "death" California

The first nuke sets up the second one because notice just before his death he fought to the end against international alliances.

08/09/1945 Atomic Bomb Fat Man Dropped (Most hear on radio)

08/09/1945 Soviet Invasion of Manchuria: Removal of gained Territory by Japan in China & Korea

Japan had an agreement not to invade, thus this was not what they expected to happen.

Hence it was the real BOOM.

It's not like those cities weren't bombed mind you, but it was regular bombing which was something that would not have made them surrender.

The big BOOM that did make them surrender was the alliance and invasion of Manchuria.

To admit the truth would be akin to saying the final straw was foreign territories rather than their own people's lives, so yea, they needed an out for that PR disaster, and that's another thing nuclear bombs provided. A way to give up with minimum honor loss.

tl:dr There is no magic device that can fit in a suitcase and blow up a country.

I decode many more nuclear symbols in other posts, some more damning than these as I left out major parts of my decodes for the sake of quickness.

Next up I'm going to prove that these types of comms stretch back centuries just as I claimed in the first section.

Proof 3: Kings & Killers

The origin of modern astronomy began with Galileo discovering 4 moons of Jupiter.

He named the moons after his financial backers, the 4 Medici brothers.

Those names were changed after 2 centuries to hide one of the biggest secrets in history!

In 1610 "JUPITER" + "MEDICI" was the most popular subject of discussion in the world, but that had nothing to do with astronomy!

This is because in 1610 the King of France was synonymous with the Roman god Jupiter and he was ASSASSINATED in 1610 giving his throne to his wife a MEDICI.

01/13/1610 Jupiter's Fourth Moon discovered by Galileo. Named MEDICI with ROMAN NUMERAL IV.

+4 Months

05/13/1610 MEDICI CORONATION Wife of "Jupiter" King Henry IV of France

05/14/1610 King Henry the IV of France assassinated

4/4/4/4 – IV/IV/IV/IV

Same reason as this!

10/06/1600 King Henry IV Marriage Celebration to MEDICI

10/06/1600 BIRTH OF OPERA: Officially made for the Marriage Celebration of King Henry IV & Marie Medici

A plot bout a tragic WEDDING DEATH and the new husband having to go to the LAND OF THE DEAD

The origin of modern astronomy as well as Opera are both traced to the marriage of King Henry IV.

This is because the assassination was an important PSYOP.

The Opera began the message while the Jupiter IV Moon "discovery" defined a timetable!

A MOVIE produced for effect

Notice the assassin had 3 failed prior trips to visit the king, all to share a "vision" with King Henri IV of France about converting protestants into Catholic.

Meaning his FOURTH visit to King Henri was the assassination!

So many IV/4!

01/13/1610 Jupiter's Fourth Moon discovered by Galileo. Named MEDICI with ROMAN NUMERAL IV.

+4 Months

05/13/1610 MEDICI CORONATION Wife of "Jupiter" King Henry IV of France
05/14/1610 King Henry the IV of France assassinated

Those moons were the "first celestial objects to be discovered" other than the sun.

They were originally not called moons but "STARS"

Why "STAR"? What is a Star today?

Remember how the wedding coincided with the first famous Opera?

Look up famous plays and what you'll find are endless links coinciding with that exact same time!

This is because Shakespeare had just began and his very first works were about KING HENRY VI and IV.

Define "STAR" in modern terms, as in CELEBRITY.

This was deemed necessary due to the religious wars between Catholics and Protestants.

King Henry IV ENDED THAT WAR in 1598 by giving Protestants rights previously reserved for Catholics.

This ended hostility with Protestants, but how to do the same with Catholics?

The point was in creating a spectacle!

10/06/1600 King Henry IV Marriage Celebration to MEDICI
10/06/1600 BIRTH OF OPERA: Officially made for the Marriage Celebration of King Henry IV & Marie Medici
An Opera about a WEDDING TRAGEDY.

2-4 MILLION DEATHS in this war.

How to diffuse that?

Having the newly converted Catholic King just married to a Catholic Medici and then back-stabbed by a Catholic zealot?

This was taking a warlike environment and dumping cold water to cool everyone off!

But more importantly it gave both sides what they wanted.

Protestants got the rights of Catholics thanks to Henry IV's Edict, and Catholics got the Catholic leader they wanted!

His death meant the Catholic Marie Medici took over!

Characterized by rabid Catholic favor!

Compared to Henry IV who was raised Protestant this was the ultimate Catholic to placate the enraged.

As Regent for her underage son she reversed policies to favor Catholics until her Catholic raised son, the new King of France, forced her out of power.

It's all a "movie"!

The discovery of the first ever "celestial objects" the "MEDICI STARS" by Galileo.

This is narrative control via "STARS" which is why it coincides with the origins of cinema.

It all became vastly more important thanks to the then new Printing press.

It was that very same printing press that birthed the Protestant movement in the first place!

Allowing the mass spreading of ideas like freedom and questioning those in power!

Hence why narrative control became essential and the origins of STARS is crucial to that!

But there is much more to it than just that, and once again I'll cut it off for the sake of brevity. It's an important lesson that ties into this next section.

This next section is a subject all conspiracy theorists know and yet almost none of them understand it because those conspiracy theories themselves are often disinformation. The truth can be deconstructed here the same way it is everywhere else, with symbolism and patterns!

Proof 4: JFK Secrets

11/22/1963 JFK Assassination Date

This is educational as it clarifies a precise sequence of events that I already extensively decoded from other angles.

The new reporting also discusses JFK watching the assassination focused movie Manchurian Candidate before it was released.

A movie about a killer brainwashed by the Russians sent to kill a presidential candidate.

If you've never read my Assassination decode this is a perfect time to do so as I had already decoded it as a movie long before this new revelation. It's a decode far beyond any chance of coincidence.

For example, often JFK's assassination is put in context of Lincoln for similarities. This is a crucial point for reasons that'll become very clear when the symbolism is broken down.

But rather than make this needlessly confusing, let's stay focused on JFK & Lincoln. I'll return to the sports comms later.

If you search for the two most famous assassinations in history the top two returns are JFK and Lincoln!

Not just that either.

If it was a plan, why? What do JFK & Lincoln have in common?

Did you know it took the shock of JFK's assassination to outlaw segregation?

He failed at getting the votes for legislation despite years of effort, but his death gave his VP the momentum to get it through!

This was the important legislation on race since Lincoln freed the slaves!

To do what Lincoln did AGAIN, but right this time! (without segregation)

Note how the last one listed of those famous speeches was about MLK by RFK right before his own assassination.

The speech given just before that was MLK's final speech.

That last speech before death he ends his speech talking about how he might be assassinated soon!

You see how these "assassinations" get invoked over and over again for coordination.

Another reason ties into the effort to create an identity separate from the past, but that's a larger subject.

For now, the critical point is assassinations.

I could go into many more of my stronger decodes for this intro as I've barely touched on the best ones, but the longer I make this page the more likely people will ignore so I'll stop soon.

To return to Q for a moment... they outright bluntly described the symbolic system on multiple occasions.

Why else would they bring attention to Rothschild singing "Eagles" songs as a reference to Clinton's SS code name? It's not as blunt as the patterns I present, but it's the same methodology.

This is because there is something important going on behind the scenes in the world today, something I've been long decoding, and you can begin to see it as well.

I suggest reading some of the following posts first as many of my regular posts have great decodes they are mixed with naked research and speculation. If you do go into the archives, keep in mind that I've been doing this a long time now and the rate of improvement means newer is almost always better.

WIP – Vast Majority of my decodes are not included or even represented as I always decode more every post than I remember to append here.

Some of the ones here are common enough they are akin to building blocks for more complex comms, but for the most part decoding relies on situational context. You won't learn comms by memorizing specific comms, you learn it by understanding how to identify symbolism when reconciled with history.

Also, any linked article that doesn't look like it pertains to the comm in question – it means somewhere in the post is an example of the type of symbolism decoded.

Giant Pandas and Labubu <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2025/11/04/giant-pandas-decoded/>

Dog = Pets. Dog’s are common symbolism used all sorts of ways to communicate. Most commonly they define a relationship with one person (dog) working diligently on behalf of another (Master). Defining characteristics: Leashed, loyal, and they bury things. Dog names, colour, breeds, etc all can further define a comm.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2022/10/13/human-evolution-technology/> PUG = Pick Up Group

Westminster Dog Show <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2024/08/21/micro-decodes-nvidia-gpu-westminster-dog-show-body-swap-etc/>

Baby = New Ops – this is actually nearly identical in use to Dog as a comm in that it’s someone doing ops for someone higher up in a chain, Major difference tho is a baby generally involves an extra person and thus multiple agents working on the op.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/07/22/clown-pi/> Often to get one kid into the ops world it’s required to put another child thru the MK system. It functions as practice for ops, as well as potential utility in driving the victim.

Dolphin = REMOTE CONTROL

Number/Letter Comms:

They can be invoked via the number itself or by using a set of things like a sequence of images with the number comm being the “wink” to send a message. It’s also commonly used with videos via the timecodes (disinfo for example will often put a wink at a timecode comm so that clowns know to promote it), or in articles with the specific word in a paragraph, and many more.

Countdowns <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2025/12/20/countdown-highlights/>
666/66/6 – Now you are surely aware of 666, but 66/6 are also frequently used when 666 would be illogical (like when the number set involves less than 100 or 10) 6 is an extremely common number tho, so never use it as the basis for the comms identification. It’s easier to notice it via grammatical choices “errors” and timecode usage. <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/03/03/33-and-666/>

9/99/999 – This is 6 but flipped. Thus it’s used to define someone who has betrayed the 666. 6->9

17/Q – Q is the 17th letter and Q just so happens to be the designation for the highest level of classification – therefore 17 is often used to denote something is very secret.

187 – Penal code for Murder. Frequently used in pop culture to define murder, very frequent in comms. <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/01/29/187-comms-history/>

87 – Murder charge (invoking 187 as a comm when only 2 digits are present)

Hair = hairstyle comms: (various styles being distinct comms) – but also by itself as puppet string comms.

Tail = Tale: Can be used with ponytail, animal tail, or vestigial tail to represent a story to be told.

Brain = MOSSAD <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/20/sr/>

Flatulence = speaking openly about cult. It makes more sense if you think about it in practical terms. How do you keep your child quiet about the cult? Answer: Every-time they say/do something that risks exposure you embarrass them with accusations of farting = they quickly shut up + instantly associate talking about whatever it was with shame.

Defecation= Evidence: This is the same principle as the one above when used for embarrassment, just the next logical step. Not “just speaking” but leaving traces of evidence somewhere.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2022/03/05/discouraging-rats-past-present-and-future-deconstructed/>

Black-Eyed Children = Rejected child: Sacrificed into MKUltra (Or simply ignored and not told anything) Black Eyed = see nothing Loch Ness Monster = "Monster" with information under the "Loch/Lock" i.e. a sexual predator under control via blackmail.

Big Foot = Mass Mob/Protest potential

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2024/05/03/deliverance-vietnam-psyop-duel/>

Neanderthal = Politician that held office but recently lost it. – I cross referenced a bunch of these articles to solve this one. The symbolism of a being that couldn't adapt to changing times (Election) and so the modern man came and took over their territory. (I'll have a post focused on this one July 2022)

Crop Circles = Ops being advertised to other agents to join in Nature comms: Plant based

Green Plant = Plant: As in someone in a position specifically <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/> -Real plants are frequently used, plant tattoos, shirts, green dyed hair and so on. The type of plant can make for a more complex comm. A simple household potted plant is very different than a giant tree after all.

Blue Water = Information: Because plant = plant, what can you do with a real "plant" to send a message? The simplest things that can be done inconspicuously are giving it water and sunlight. And since the #1 thing needed to convey in the spyword is getting "info" to "plants" – water was likely the logical choice to represent this.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2022/10/30/coffee-water/>

Yellow Sunlight = Reward: Plants being put out in the "sun" so they can "grow" can be funding, or many other types of support. It's the reward plant's work for.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Other potential color comms in this system include brown dirt as "Nourish" and Red Fire as "Spreading Burn" both of these make sense logically, and I have seen signs they are used in this way, but I haven't seen enough examples to call it "high confidence" like I would the other 3. It is merely a hypothesis, for now.

Colour Comms

Green = Ally (Plant) <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Yellow = Reward (Sunshine) <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Blue = Info(Water) /Democrat

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/Orange> = End (Sunset) <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Red = Various – This one is really contextual – it can connect to plant comms in some cases as "fire" spreading to punish – but it's also used for communism

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/12/30/lets-go-brandon-king-cuff-cards-maxwell-marvin/>

Dark = Hidden <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

comms/

Light = Visible <https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Dark -> Light = To Make Visible

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Blue -> Green = Info To Plants

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/02/25/plants-and-water-comms/>

Black & White = Clearly defined without any room for confusion.

<https://decodingsymbols.wordpress.com/2021/03/11/biden/> In some cases can imply "old"

The Lord of the Rings is "this world we live in at a different stage of imagination." -

J.R.R. Tolkien

For a decent introduction, it is recommended that you first read this other Substack post:

Code of the Ring

The Covert War of the 19th- and 20th- Century, and the Great Ring Code

Deciphering this narrative-imbedded code requires finding the exact historical context and conversation, and verifying it with a timeline of events. This is what we have endeavored to do. Part of this account of covert events and plans was hidden by Tolkien within certain of his writings. Tolkien was a Signals Officer in WWI, and he developed code that...

This current post will delve further into Tolkien's works, as well as offering more evidence to support certain conclusions drawn in the above linked post. It will also branch into connected areas of narrative code, including predecessor symbols of Sauron's Ring. A timeline structure is used, and as such, some of the associations may only seem like uncanny coincidences at first, but towards the end, patterns and connections will arise that are mathematically impossible, unless they were intentional.

'Sauron's Ring' is narrative code for the 'Rothschild's power,' however, previous to Tolkien's work, there were other symbols that were also used to communicate about the Rothschilds' power. One of the earliest of these narrative code symbols was the 'Nautilus submarine' from the book, Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, by Jules Verne. This particular book, and the narrative code messages contained therein, is the reason why the publication of The Lord of the Rings was in 1954, the same year as the launching of the USS Nautilus submarine SSN-571. Tolkien himself affirmed the connection between the two narrative code symbols when he said that Sauron had the Ring for 1,850 years – he was indicating the date to the start of the Rothschilds' 'Ring,' that is, the year 1850.

There are quite a few notable events from that year:

- Nathaniel de Rothschild moved to Paris.
- The Pope returned to Rome.
- Rothschilds' Second Loan to the Holy See
- The U.S. prototype ring cent was created.
- The first Submerged Telegraph line was laid.

This post will go through each of those events, though it is worth noting that the narrative code surrounding the Transatlantic Submerged Telegraph is by far the most informative.

ROTHSCHILD STRATEGIC RELOCATION

Nathaniel de Rothschild, born in 1812, moved to Paris in 1850 to work in the banking business owned by his uncle, James Mayer Rothschild.

*James Mayer Rothschild, along with Nathan Mayer Rothschild, were the Rothschilds that forced England into debt through their financing of the British Army, and their manipulation of the stock and bond market.

POPE'S RETURN TO POWER

In 1849, Pope Pius IX had to flee Rome, and he was only able to return after the French army invaded Rome.

*This was important to the Rothschilds' power because the Rothschilds controlled the Holy See via their 1832 loan agreement. The loan included a clause stating that the Holy See could not take a new loan from another firm, without first informing and giving preference to the Rothschilds. If the Rothschilds could match the loan of their competitor, then the Holy See was legally obligated to take the loan from the Rothschilds. As a result of this legally binding agreement, the Holy See was held captive to the Rothschilds, as their only bank.

SECOND LOAN TO THE HOLY SEE

The Pope's return to power would also directly connect to another event, namely the Rothschilds' second loan to the Holy See.

[Sidenote regarding the 666 cult: It was noted in the other post that the 666 are infiltrators, but this is worth mentioning again, because it is such an important thing to understand. The 666 does not create organizations strictly for themselves, which is why almost no one in the general public knows about them. Most people have heard of the Freemasons, Skull and Bones, Jesuits, the Rothschild Family, etc., because unlike the 666, these groups, despite their secrecy, have created organizations around themselves. The 666 on the other hand, can be likened to parasites entering a host – it infiltrates and remains unseen.

To be clear, whenever this post mentions the Vatican or any other similar group in negative terms, it is not referring to what the Vatican really is or should be, but what the 666 has manipulated it to work as.

Even the covert communication of the 666 remains hidden only because of its infiltration of overt media. To use a code not based on overt media (overt words, stories, symbols, etc.), is to become noticeable, and trackable.]

RING CENT

In 1850, the U.S. created a prototype ring cent, but it was never put into circulation – potentially, it was only made as a message that a 'Ring' had been forged.

TRANSATLANTIC TELEGRAPH

The beginning of the Submerged Telegraph was a huge event for global communication. Its inception actually began with a submerged line across the English channel, which correlated with Nathaniel de Rothschild also crossing the English channel, that same year. One of the most important factors with respect to control, is the ability to communicate. The Rothschilds would have needed fast communication for a multitude of ops, including market manipulation, propaganda distribution, sending orders to assassins, etc.

Lincoln used telegraphs during the Civil War to command and to receive information from his troops – his use of the telegraph lines enabled a type of command center. At the time, the telegraphs were known as “lightning messages.”

Another good example of the power of communication occurred in 1870, when Bismarck used an edited telegram to start the Franco-German War:

<https://www.britannica.com/event/Ems-telegram>

As well, there is the story of the Tower of Babel in which the structure’s construction stopped once people could no longer understand each other. Reminiscent are the lines from one of Yeats’ poems: “The falcon cannot hear the falconer; Things fall apart; the centre cannot hold...”

Communication is both the basis of society, and the basis for control.

The ‘Submerged Telegraph’ insinuated ‘hidden coded messages’ and/or ‘secret information.’ Coded, because telegrams used morse code.

[Sidenote regarding morse code: People who are part of the Cult are often referred to by the narrative code symbol ‘alien,’ because they are not patriotic to any one country, but rather, they are infiltrators – similar to the somewhat archaic definition of the word, meaning ‘foreigner.’ Probably part of the reason ‘E.T.’, an abbreviation for extraterrestrial was created, is because the letters ‘e’ and ‘t’ are the most common letters in the English language and are hence assigned ‘dot’ and ‘dash’ in morse code, respectively. ‘E.T.’ would therefore mean, ‘someone who can communicate covertly.’ By contrast, covert people who are against the Cult are sometimes called ‘Patriots’ because typically, they are patriotic.]

Nautilus

Jules Verne’s books, Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, Captain Grant’s Children, and The Mysterious Island, directly relate to the Submerged Telegraph and the ops of that time, because the ‘Nautilus’ represents the ‘Submerged Telegraph.’

Despite The Mysterious Island’s story supposedly taking place about twenty years after the end of Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, The Mysterious Island’s story begins in 1865, whereas Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea begins in 1866. The year 1866, in reality, was the year that the first permanent Submerged Telegraph line was laid.

In Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, the Nautilus visits the Submerged Telegraph cable, and at the beginning of the book when sightings of the Nautilus have become rare, it is joked that it must have eavesdropped on the Submerged Telegraph line. In The Mysterious Island, one of the castaways is named Cyrus Smith, and he builds a telegraph line from one part of the island to another. This particular character's first name correlates directly to the name of the person who, in real life, laid the Submerged Telegraph line – Cyrus West Field.

The Nautilus is an electrical marvel that travels under the sea, and the telegraph was pretty much the only major electrical technology of that time. Also, in Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, Captain Nemo communicates with his crew via an electric telegraph.

The section where the Nautilus visits the Submerged Telegraph is quite relevant, so part of it is quoted here:

"It was on the 17th of May, about 500 miles from Heart's Content, at a depth of more than 1,400 fathoms, that I saw the electric cable lying on the bottom. Conseil, to whom I had not mentioned it, thought at first that it was a gigantic sea-serpent. But I undeceived the worthy fellow, and by way of consolation related several particulars in the laying of this cable.... But some days after it broke again, and in the depths of the ocean could not be recaptured. The Americans, however, were not discouraged. Cyrus Field, the bold promoter of the enterprise, as he had sunk all his own fortune, set a new subscription on foot, which was at once answered, and another cable was constructed on better principles... The Great Eastern sailed on the 13th of July, 1866. The operation worked well... I did not expect to find the electric cable in its primitive state, such as it was on leaving the manufactory. The long serpent, covered with the remains of shells, bristling with foraminiferae, was encrusted with a strong coating which served as a protection against all boring molluscs. It lay quietly sheltered from the motions of the sea, and under a favourable pressure for the transmission of the electric spark which passes from Europe to America in .32 of a second... The Nautilus followed it to the lowest depth, which was more than 2,212 fathoms, and there it lay without any anchorage; and then we reached the spot where the accident had taken place in 1863..."

^The relevance of this quoted section will be explained a little later.

The Submerged Telegraph, as a real invention, facilitated and represented 'control' – the lines were like puppet strings, one might say. The 'Nautilus' represented that same control, but also insinuated other means of control besides 'hidden communication,' or 'orders.'

Starting with the name, 'Nautilus' – a nautilus is a mollusk, a shelled creature. In the book, the captives aboard the Nautilus compare themselves to a snail in its shell. A shell is an object that keeps something hidden or protected. Ever heard of the shell game? Ever heard of shell companies?

In the book, the Nautilus was assembled from parts that were made in numerous places all around the world, each one having been ordered under a different alias so that no one would suspect what was being created. The message communicated by Jules Verne was that the Rothschilds' power was hidden via numerous shell companies.

Returning to the quoted passage from Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, "covered with... shells" should make sense now. The other notable part is how the submerged telegraph line is compared to a "gigantic sea-serpent," and a "long serpent." Historically, a 'serpent' or 'snake' symbol has represented 'many people working as one.' Here is a simple example of that concept:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Join,_or_Die

[Sidenote regarding another snake symbol: 'Snakes' have also been connected to 'time,' and time controls everything. Two examples are the ring shaped Jormungandr, and Ouroboros.]

'Sea monsters' have also provided a way to communicate about 'blackmail traps' because they are elusive, terrible creatures, that prey on humans.

So a "gigantic sea-serpent" would represent a 'powerful group' that controls the actions of men via their control over the 'sea' – 'sea' being 'information,' that is, 'water.'

LINCOLN CONNECTION

In Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, the Nautilus is chased after by the ship, the "Abraham Lincoln." The ship is captained by "Commander Farragut," whose name in real life was the name of a U.S. admiral who fought for the Union in the Civil War. When the Abraham Lincoln ship finally locates the Nautilus and attempts to attack it, the Nautilus counterattacks and damages the ship. In The Mysterious Island, the Nautilus is harboured in "Lincoln Island," named in honour of Abraham Lincoln by the Union castaways. At the end of the book, the Nautilus sinks to the bottom of the sea and shortly thereafter, Lincoln Island explodes.

There are two parallels to that plot line of the story:

1. Lincoln Island blowing up sounds a lot like Lincoln being assassinated.
2. The Nautilus disappearing before the demise of 'Lincoln Island,' is reminiscent of the Ring slipping away from Isildur to the bottom of the Anduin River, before Isildur is shot by an orc.

Verne's map of Lincoln Island resembles an elephant head, which further reinforces the story's Lincoln connection, as the elephant was used to symbolize the Republican party, just as it is today.

The 'Nautilus' is about 'control,' but how was that control originally created? It was created via blackmail and trafficking. Although sexual blackmail was not the only type of blackmail, it was the main type of blackmail connected to the 'Nautilus' and its propelling force, as explained and proven by another bit of narrative code.

Nemo

In the story, the Nautilus was controlled by Captain Nemo. Nemo is Greek for no one, which could easily be taken to mean the Rothschilds, as they were the hidden people coordinating events behind the scenes, but in actuality, it has another meaning. One of the biggest worldwide sources of revenue is human trafficking, in other words, the slave trade. 'Nemo' represents all the people who are used as assets: nameless, unknown individuals, orphans, those taken from war-torn areas, those ripped away from families, babies sold soon after birth, etc., etc. – they are the people without a name. Since nobody knows that they are missing (and if by chance someone knows, they are powerless to help), they are used as objects and given no status except for their utility for work, or for use in sexual pleasure, or for creating blackmail.

Captain Nemo himself had no family left. In one passage, while viewing sheet music that Captain Nemo had on his piano organ, Nemo mentions how they are all "contemporaries of Orpheus," a Greek musician from whose name we get the word, 'orphans.' Nemo goes on to say that he himself is considered like dead, meaning he's forgotten.

Another bit of narrative code which shows that the Nautilus is powered by blackmail, is illustrated by the fact that in Twenty Thousand Leagues Under The Sea, all of their fuel (sodium, to make electricity) was manufactured from coal that was mined from the inside of an extinct volcano. The meaning of 'volcano' was already covered in the other Substack post, but to put it simply, it is associated with 'powerful blackmail,' that is 'evidence,' or 'testimony.'

The Rothschilds' power was largely based on their blackmail and slave trade monopoly, and that's what they used to fuel the mechanism of their control, the 'Nautilus.' Because they used 'shells,' it would be challenging to find records of their dealings in the slave trade, apart from what narrative code reveals.

We are usually only told about the slave trade of field and household workers in the South, for plantations, etc., but there was also a very real slave trade in sex trafficking, and for creating blackmail. At the time, the minimum age of consent in many states was ten years of age, with Delaware being the lowest, at age seven.

The 666 was planning to turn America (especially the South) into an immense trafficking hub, and that's one of the reasons why they desperately wanted to divide the Union.

Lincoln ended those heinous nemo operations in the South, which explains why the USS Abraham Lincoln ship tried capturing the Nautilus in Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, and why Lincoln Island harboured the Nautilus in The Mysterious Island. In LotR, Isildur had the Ring in his possession for two years, which correlates with the fact that Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, and was subsequently assassinated in 1865. Since the slave trade and the Rothschilds' power did not return to what it had been before Lincoln died, how did Lincoln lose control of the 'Ring,' that is, the 'Nautilus?' Having held the Ring or Nautilus implies that Lincoln held 'information of great leverage,' and thus, 'great power.' One can only assume that someone within his circle turned against him and hence he lost some of that power, and was therefore assassinated; also, that before and/or after his death, certain information was destroyed that could have been used against the Rothschilds.

Another snippet of related code is that the volcano on Lincoln Island was named after Benjamin Franklin. Benjamin Franklin, in reality, was involved in information collection. The famous story of him catching lightning with a key has to do with exposure and intel.

'electric charge' = criminal charge

Also, he reportedly invented the flexible urinary catheter which would symbolize collecting 'dirty water,' that is, 'incriminating information.'

Nemo's Signature / North

Nemo's signature was the capital letter, N. When the Nautilus reached the South Pole, Nemo claimed the continent by placing a black flag in the ground, with a golden N on it. 'N' stands for 'North,' and also for 'nucleus,' the 'center' – the two symbols are related. 'Nucleus' has to do with the 'center of control,' and 'North' has essentially the same meaning. North is the center of the upper pole, the Arctic, or the 'Circle of the Bears.' Also, the North Star, Polaris, is the guiding star, the constant, central star, which brings to mind the historical use of visual symbols for communication. There are two cultic symbols based on the North Star; the Swastika, and the Black Sun, known most notably because they were used by the Nazis. The Big Dipper's position around the North Star for each season, is what the Swastika symbol was originally based on. The origin of the Black Sun symbol, sometimes also called 'the wheel,' is derived from the motion of all the other stars around the north polar axis and the North Star.

Example of the basis of the black sun symbol:

https://solarsystem.nasa.gov/system/news_items/main_images/1944_North-star_star-trails_Credit_Preston-Dyches.jpg ‘Center’ has to do with ‘power,’ and the desire to be at the center of everything, that is, ‘having complete control.’

‘Eye’ also relates to the ‘center,’ to ‘direction,’ and to ‘power;’ for instance, “eye of the storm,” and “eye of the wind.” In LotR, there is Sauron’s Eye, and in the symbol commonly known as the ‘Illuminati Pyramid,’ there is also an eye. Even though the symbol with the pyramid and the eye at the top, predates the Illuminati, the meaning of ‘being at the top’ and ‘center,’ still applies.

Even Tolkien, when speaking about the nature of LotR, said, “These are wars and a terrible expedition to the North Pole, so to speak.” Obviously, he may have simply alluded to the North Pole as an analogy of a difficult task, but he may also have meant taking out a power structure.

[Sidenote regarding book: Jules Verne’s middle book, Captain Grant’s Children (alternative title: In Search of Castaways) will not be covered within this post, but the connection to General/President Grant should be apparent.]

The Loss of the Nautilus, aka the Ring

The Nautilus sinking to the bottom of the sea and the Ring sinking to the bottom of the Anduin River, do not simply imply power being lost; they do imply that, but there is more to the story.

In order to decipher this, we turn to yet another event from around that time – Richard Wagner’s operas, The Ring Cycle, and in particular, Das Rheingold. It seems Wagner was not informed as to the scale of covert events taking place, but he was aware of the Rothschilds’ overall power. In Das Rheingold, we have a nasty little dwarf stealing the Rhine treasure to make a magical ring. Wagner used the nasty little dwarf, Alberich, as a symbol to represent the Rothschilds, and the magical ring being made from the Rhinegold, to represent the control that was created over the Holy See. The Rhine represents the Holy See in Wagner’s operas, since the Holy Roman Empire used to control Rhineland. By controlling the pope, the Rothschilds were able to exert a lot of control without having to rely on blackmail – hence, a ‘magic ring.’

[The Pope even has a ring called the “fisherman’s ring,” and in LotR, when Deagol and Smeagol first find the Ring, it is when they are fishing.]

The ring, however, is later taken from Alberich.

Please take note, that the ring Wagner portrays in his operas, refers only to the Rothschild’s control via the Holy See; whereas the ‘Ring’ in The Hobbit and LotR, and the 'Nautilus' from Jules Verne's works, connects not only to the Rothschilds' power through the Holy See, but more fully represents the Rothschilds' overall power.

The loss of the 'Nautilus' and the 'Ring' in their respective stories, refers to the Rothschilds' loss of ability to use the Holy See's power; the Holy See would have been one of their strongest remaining sources of manipulation and control, following the loss of the American Civil War, and the reduction of slave trade ops in the South.

The opera premiered in 1869 at the behest of Ludwig II of Bavaria, although Wagner did not want it premiered yet.

Starting in 1870, there was the Franco-Prussian, also known as the Franco-German War, which was deliberately provoked by Bismarck who was very much in opposition to the power of the Catholic Church. Germany was victorious, which led to the unification of the German states. There was also the capture of Rome by the Kingdom of Italy in 1870, essentially ending the more than one thousand years of temporal papal power. Because of the physical pressure of a united Germany, together with the Kingdom of Italy, although they still held leverage over the Holy See, the Rothschilds lost their access to wield that particular power. This time in Vatican history is commonly referred to as, "Prisoner in the Vatican."

Another piece of evidence for the river representing the Holy See is that in LotR, the Ring is lost in the Anduin River for 2,500 years, which roughly equates to the age of Rome at that time.

Gollum's Possession of the Ring

In LotR, the next time the Ring appears is with Gollum. As mentioned in the other Substack post, Gollum, is the same as golem. A golem is a Jewish clay figure or servant that is brought to life by magic. 'Gollum,' in The Hobbit, is comparable to 'Nemo.' In order to create a hub in which to start new nemo ops under their control, hence, their Golem, the Rothschilds infiltrated and tried to take over Ottoman Palestine. Ottoman Palestine was already a hub for such ops, and became an even more chaotic, war-torn area, which would have been perfect for collecting and transferring nameless, unknown individuals. It was somewhat out of the grasp of western powers that would oppose such aims. See link for information on slavery during that time:

<https://www.jta.org/archive/slavery-in-palestine>

It is likely that the Rothschilds had planned the rebuilding of Israel for the purpose of it becoming their hub for a long time, as there were obscure biblical names connected to the creation of the Submerged Telegraph. For instance, Goliath was the name of the first boat that laid a Submerged Telegraph line, and historically, Goliath was a champion warrior of the Philistines who enslaved the Israelites. Interestingly, Philistine is the etymological origin of Palestine. King Herod renamed Israel, Palestine, in order to mock the Jews.

Cyrus Field was the person in charge of laying the Transatlantic Submerged Telegraph cable in 1858, and the first permanent cable in 1866. Historically, Cyrus was the king responsible for sending the Jews home, in order to rebuild Israel after their Babylonian captivity.

In The Mysterious Island, Cyrus Smith's companion and former slave was named Nebuchadnezzar. Historically, Nebuchadnezzar was responsible for taking the Jews out of Israel, and into Babylonian captivity.

Regarding Rothschild-planned operations in Ottoman Palestine, there was ring symbolism to be found. At this juncture, it is important to understand that symbols may have multiple meanings, and that this is how blatant symbolism is sometimes hidden – an overt symbol, concealing a covert message.

This is indeed the case with the next symbol, the Seal of Solomon, which is hidden by the overt usage of the Star of David. Neither of the symbols are biblical symbols, but the Star of David is a very Jewish symbol. The Seal of Solomon on the other hand has been used by a number of cultures, and according to legend, was King Solomon's ring by which he maintained ultimate power.

The usage of this symbol would be a fairly straightforward message of 'ring' and 'power.'

[Sidenote regarding Rothschild family name: There is speculation that the origin of the Rothschild family name, Red-shield, was based on a sign that had the symbol of the Seal of Solomon on it. However, there are no historical records available to back up this claim. In 1460, in Prague, the Star of David was portrayed with shields on a red flag, which is likely where the speculation of a red shield with the Seal of Solomon, comes from.]

The first time we find the Seal of Solomon in Ottoman Palestine, is on a flag at Rishon LeZion, a Rothschild-sponsored settlement, in 1885.

The Rothschild official involved in the celebration in which that flag was hoisted, was named Y. Osovitzki. It is interesting that only the 'Y' of the official's first name is recorded, as Y is often a symbol for 'something classified,' and/or 'secret.'

Y is also connected to 'antlers.' For example, here are photos of Lady Rothschild wearing golden antlers at a ball:

<https://allthatsinteresting.com/wordpress/wp-content/uploads/2020/12/stag-head-costume-at-rothschild-party.jpg>

<https://allthatsinteresting.com/wordpress/wp-content/uploads/2020/12/servants-at-> rothschild-ball.jpg

Typically, the only female deer with antlers are reindeer, and they are most often associated with the North/Arctic Circle. The classified connotation of female deer with antlers is the reason why the division of the U.S. government that deals with highly classified and dangerous materials, has the acronym D.O.E., doe being a female deer.

The second time the Seal of Solomon appeared, was at the First Zionist Congress in 1897, as the Star of David was the overt symbol decided upon for the Jewish national flag. Interestingly, the first suggestion was a flag with seven stars, which unlike the Star of David (Seal of Solomon), would have carried biblical significance, and even older Jewish relevance, than the Star of David. It is possible that an infiltrator asset of the Rothschilds' helped promote the Star of David over other options.

This statement about the Star of David being covertly used for the symbol of the Seal of Solomon may come across as unfounded, but later, it will become clear that this covert 'ring' message was indeed the case.

Bilbo

Now, how did Bilbo steal the Ring from Gollum? The character, Bilbo, has two connections, and both share a related meaning. If one follows the pattern in LotR, of finding years based on how long each character had the Ring, then one will find Bilbo. Bilbo had the Ring for 60 years and Frodo had the Ring for 17 years and six months. There was seventeen years from the publication of The Hobbit in 1937, until the publication of the first books of LotR, in 1954. Counting sixty years backwards from 1937, we arrive at 1877, which is the birth year of Theodore G. Bilbo. Tolkien's use of symbolism, based on Theodore Bilbo, is actually quite humorous. At the beginning of The Hobbit, Gandalf calls Bilbo a 'Burglar,' much to the shock and upset of Bilbo who had never stolen anything. It's a joke, based on Governor Theodore Bilbo who was the first and only governor to implement a state sales tax, in 1930 – a first-class burglar, indeed! Apart from that bit of humour, Bilbo, the senator/governor, does not seem to have had much in common with Bilbo, the hobbit. Theodore Bilbo was one of six members of the American Palestine Committee, which could correlate with a hobbit helping Jews, but apart from that, he was also a racist, and a member of the KKK – however, that aspect is actually part of the symbolism, since Jews felt compelled to move to Ottoman Palestine because of racism.

The Rothschilds helped create an abundance of antisemitism in order to justify a home for the Jews, in Palestine. The only problem with their plan was that they didn't expect the numbers, or the type of people that came, and seemingly, they did not clue into that hitch in their plan, until the mid- to late-1940s. An enormous number of simple, God-fearing Jews were forced to move because of racism abroad, and they were the ones who unknowingly overthrew the Rothschilds' Ring, that is, Golem plans, by their sheer
